Air Pillow Raft Saves Five on Menaced Boat

Scores of Lives in Peril as Squalls Sweep Atlantic Coast.

Coast Guard Rescues 29 in Chesapeake Bay; Norfolk Flooded.

(Associated Press.)

Lives of scores of persons were imperiled yesterday when serious squalls struck the Atlantic seaboard.

Twelve persons were taken off the schooner Harriett P. Ely, driven on a beach at Pinehurst on Chesapeake Bay off the Maryland coast.

Coast guardsmen rescued 17 persons aboard the yacht Creeper in the same vicinity.

The tanker Yorba Linda picked up six men and a woman from the disabled sloop Shawarah, off the Delaware Capes, according to a wireless message from the ship's operator.

The lugger Ahto, en route from Africa to New York, had to be assisted into the inlet off Atlantic City by coast guardsmen, due to the severe pounding of the sea in a storm.

Seaplane Rescues Eight.

A Coast Guard seaplane accomplished the rescue of eight men, two boys and two women whose powerboat was driven on a shoal near Cedar Creek, N. J. The same seaplane discovered a 35-foot cabin cruiser in distress in Delaware Bay and notified a Government cutter which brought aid to the crew, three Philadelphians.

Considerable damage to small craft and seawalls was reported at Long Branch, N. J.

In the meantime, a severe tropical disturbance was reported by the Weather Bureau brewing south of Pensacola and was expected to reach the Florida coast line by this morning, after having taken six lives in Cuba, injuring scores and taking a heavy toll in property damage.

Heavy winds that caused more than a million dollars damage in the Great Lakes region Sunday diminished but little.

At Cedar Point, Ohio, in Lake Erie, coast guardsmen rescued ten men who had been marooned on a jetty where their boat had been tossed by the heavy waters, after a thrilling battle.

Norfolk Section Lashed.

Norfolk, Va., July 3 (A.P.).—Almost without warning, a northeast blow raked the entire Norfolk section this morning and afternoon, endangering the lives of several hundred persons fishing off Ocean View and piling up in the city tides which caused one of the biggest traffic jams since the World War.

No lives are known to have been lost as a result of the blow, although many people at Ocean View believe that two men perished out at the second line of pound poles off the cottage line, approximately a mile from shore. Narrow escapes were reported in dozens, and a few had a closer call than did the crew of a Coast Guard surfboat which nearly foundered a mile out from Lynnhaven Inlet.

Filipino Corporal Dies In Tilt With Dumagats

Manila, July 3 (A.P.).—A Philippine constabulary corporal was killed and a private wounded today in fighting with Dumagats, a mountain tribal people south of Manila, near Batangas.

A constabulary detachment had been sent in pursuit of a band of Dumagats who attacked eight itinerant Moro traders, wounded two and kidnaped their leader.

7 Destroyers Given Up by Coast Guard

Seven additional destroyers used by the Coast Guard for patrol work, especially against Rum Row, have been returned to the Navy and will be decommissioned, it was learned yesterday. They are the Tucker, Shaw, Porter, McDougal, Davis, Cassin and the Conyngham.

Coast Guard officials said that they planned no relaxation of patrol work although they would be forced to operate with fewer vessels. The destroyers, of the 1,000-ton class, were borrowed from the Navy in [illegible] 1925. They will be taken to the Philadelphia Navy Yard, where they will be removed from service.

Under the economy act the Coast Guard was cut approximately $5,000,000 under last year's funds. A total of 1,500 men were furloughed, for a saving of $2,200,000.

District Party Is Unable to Bring Their Small Craft Ashore.

Boy, 7, Lashed to Life-Buoys; Swimmers Help Rescue.

A party of five, including a 7-year-old boy, abandoned their storm-tossed cabin boat at Dares Beach, Calvert County, Md., on the Chesapeake Bay, after a 24-hour battle with the waves yesterday, and, clinging to a raft of life preservers, were rescued by two men in an open boat and several swimmers who risked their lives in the high waters.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. White, their son, Edward, and Mrs. Bertha Arnold, all of 2617 Thirty-first place northeast, and William Davidson, of 227 H street northeast, left this city in the small boat Saturday morning.

Unable to Make Shore.

The thunderstorm, which whipped the bay into huge waves, tossed the boat around and made a safe landing impossible. The two men took turns guiding the vessel in an attempt to keep on an even keel. Each attempt to draw nearer to the shore was frustrated by the strong winds and current.

Sighted at Dares Beach by Mrs. Harriet Dresser, a surveyor's instrument was focused on the boat and several attempts were made to signal its occupants. Mrs. Dresser finally caught the attention of the pilot and he dropped anchor about a mile from the beach. Despairing of being able to reach the shore, the group decided to lash a number of pillow life preservers together as a last resort. Securely tying the boy on one of the pillows, the group clung to the edges of the improvised raft and attempted to swim and drift toward the shore.

Swimmers Lend Aid.

Joe Dresser and James Miller launched a 16-foot open boat to aid the party. They were able to get within 50 yards of the raft and threw the refugees a rope. As the boat approached the shore several of the men who had been called to the beach to aid swam to meet the raft and helped the party to the beach.

The boy was lashed so tight to the preservers his bonds had to be cut. The adult members of the rescued party were carried to Mr. Dressler's cottage and given stimulants.

Coast Guard cutters had been ordered out from Annapolis and from Norfolk to search for the missing party, but had been unable to locate the boat. The small craft rode at anchor in the bay and at a late hour last night was still above water.

J. E. Chapman, 72, Coal Dealer, Dies

J. Edward Chapman, 72, wealthy Washington coal dealer, died suddenly at his home at 5810 Connecticut avenue, Chevy Chase, Md., last night from a heart attack.

Stricken while playing cards with his family, Mr. Chapman collapsed in his chair. His wife summoned the family physician, but efforts to resuscitate him were unsuccessful and he died about 10 minutes after the doctor arrived.

Mr. Chapman had been in ill health at his home several days, but had been to the office yesterday of his retail and wholesale coal company bearing his name at 37 N street northwest.

Sprague Denies Rumor Of Intention to Resign

London, July 3 (A.P.).—O. M. W. Sprague, special assistant in the United States Treasury Department, this afternoon vigorously denied a report that he was intending to resign and had canceled a reservation to sail Thursday on the Manhattan en route to Washington.

He declared he had never thought of such a thing and had just completed arrangements for sailing.

2 Men Force Diva's Car To Curb; Take Her Purse

Los Angeles, July 3 (A.P.). Threatened with death by two robbers who forced her motor car to a curbing, Mlle. Craie Diva, the opera singer, was robbed of her handbag, $10 and valuable letters, she reported to police today.

The singer told authorities the letters confirmed her contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Soviet Is Near Recognition, Says Moley

Informs Litvinoff U. S. Likely Will Resume Relations.

Trade Concessions Also Discussed at Secret London Meeting.

London, July 3 (U.P.). — The United States Government probably will recognize Soviet Russia shortly, Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley informed Maxim Litvinoff, Moscow's foreign commissar, in a secret conference here today.

The United Press learned that Moley, close personal adviser of President Roosevelt, assured Litvinoff that as soon as the present pressure of domestic and international business was lifted, Mr. Roosevelt was prepared to proceed with recognition.

This word came during a clandestine meeting in a hotel room. The discussion was wholly unofficial, but Moley's attitude was regarded as the attitude of the Chief Executive. They were understood also to have discussed mutual trade concessions in order to restore normal commerce conditions between Russia and the United States.

Litvinoff Cites Resources.

There appeared little doubt as to the trend the Washington administration is prepared to follow regarding recognition, particularly following the announcement from Washington that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation there has agreed to finance the purchase by Moscow of cotton in United States, up to $4,000,000.

At the Moley-Litvinoff parley also was William C. Bullitt, executive officer of the United States delegation to the World Economic Conference, who long has favored recognition of the Soviets.

Litvinoff explained the souce of the Soviet Union's impending revenues, from timber, manganese, oil, asbestos and other considerable exports, declaring they would be ample coverage for any credits abroad.

Signs Several Treaties.

The Russian foreign commissar's activities during the economic conference have had to do more with such contacts as that with Moley and in obtaining the lifting of the British embargo on Russian goods than with the delicate tasks facing the conference itself.

He signed a pact of nonaggression with Roumania before lunch and then proceeding to sign a "convention of definition of an aggressor" with representatives of Persia, Afghanistan, Turkey, Poland, Roumania, Latvia and Esthonia.

The Russo-Roumanian pact settles, among other things, the 14-year dispute over Bessarabia, taken from Russia and given to Roumania by the World War treaties. It was signed by Litvinoff and Nicholas Titulescue, Roumania's foreign minister, at the Soviet Embassy here.

It was the forerunner of the security treaties signed with other neighbors of the Soviet Union.

Mollisons Make Ready For 12,000-Mile Flight

London, July 3 (A.P.).—James Mollison and his wife, the former Amy Johnson, left the Stag Lane airport today, flying toward Perdine, Pembrokeshire, in preparation for their projected flight to New York as the first part of an ambitious 12,000-mile program.

Mother and Four Die As Fire Razes Home

Waves Stall Autos On Ocean Shore

Long Branch, N. J., July 3 (A.P.). Waters of the Atlantic Ocean pounded bulkheads and sea walls today and at high tide swept over Ocean avenue and into the Shrewsbury River, marooning hundreds of vacation-bound motorists until their autos could be pulled out after the flood receded.

A high northeast wind blowing since yesterday was largely to blame for the inconvenience to the autoists. The waves dashed high all along the shore from Atlantic Highlands to Deal, but damage was slight.

One family was forced to move out of a cottage on Ocean avenue when the flood waters poured into the cellar and started to rise into the ground floor.

Hoover Guest's Postal Account Is Scrutinized

Inspectors Search in Vain for Miss Sayre, Who Held Fairfax Job.

Scrutiny of the Postoffice Department is focused on the accounts of Miss Lurema Sayre, frequent guest at the White House during the Hoover administration, who has just been replaced as postmaster of Fairfax, Va.

Miss Sayre, who was a schoolmate of Mrs. Hoover, has been missing from her home near Fairfax, Va., since early yesterday, when she failed to keep an appointment with postoffice inspectors, who were to formally transfer the office to L. M. Coyner, the new postmaster.

Hugh E. Alford, postoffice inspector, who is examining the accounts of Miss Sayre, said he is anxious to get in touch with Miss Sayre. He tried to reach her yesterday at the home of Miss Gladys Winfield, with whom Miss Sayre had lived for several years. He was unsuccessful.

Miss Sayre, who enjoyed a friendship of long standing with Mrs. Hoover, was consulted by the former President and Mrs. Hoover, when they were looking for a site to establish their summer camp on the Rapidan. When Miss Sayre was ill a few years ago, she was the recipient of a large bouquet of roses from the White House.

On Friday night, Mr. Coyner received notification from First Assistant Postmaster General Joseph C. O'Mahoney, to assume charge of affairs at the Fairfax Postoffice Mr. Coyner is employed in the office of Dr. F. W. Huddleston, Fairfax County treasurer.

He wired to Mr. O'Mahoney that he would be ready to take control when the Postoffice inspectors had checkd up the affairs of Miss Sayre.

Thomas M. Milligan, chief post office inspector for this area, said: "The examination of books is a routine matter which accompanies the transfer of the office of postmaster from one person to another."

Post Will Gird World Alone In Robot Ship

No Sleep Is Scheduled on His Record-Making Six-Day Venture.

Wiley Post plans to fly around the world merely by turning a knob.

With the manual work of flying cut to an absolute minimum by his robot pilot, Post, in Washington yesterday to confer on his flying maps, announced his hope of making a solo flight around the world in approximately six days.

"This pilot apparatus will fly the plane better than I can, even in rough weather," he said, "and I will not even have to keep my hand on the stick in the roughest weather. On a great circle course, the robot will allow of an error of about one degree every 15 minutes. Therefore I plan to check my course at that interval or probbaly every 30 minutes. My actual manual labor will consist of turning a little knob on the instrument board, and I'll have all the rest of the time left for reading my maps, checking navigation figures and relaxation."

Post does not plan to sleep, or even snooze, while in flight, but he believes the relaxation from hard concentration made possible by the robot will decrease his need for sleep and allow him to make short and infrequent stops. His tentative stops out of Floyd Bennett Airport, Long Island, are Berlin, Moscow, Khabarovsk, Fairbanks, Edmonton, Canada, and New York, with a possibility that he might swoop over the Century of Progress in Chicago. He believes a six-day round-the-world flight to be well within his possibilities.

Post's plane also is equipped with a new radio "homing" compass known as the Kreusi compass. It is designed to follow any radio beam, whether from the average commercial broadcasting station or a special aircraft directional beam.

It will be of use to him for the last few hundred miles of any leg, provided a radio station exists at his destination. While he is following the Great Circle courses, however, it will not be an accu-

Fairfax, Calif., July 3 (A.P.). Lew Chin's firecracker stand did so much business it attracted police attention, and when they found Lew had no permit to sell fireworks they arrested him. Then they looked at the firecrackers—and Lew found himself in trouble.

Half the firecrackers, the investigators said, were the conventional type, while the other half held opium instead of gunpowder. Lew faces narcotics charges.

Cabinet Informs Chief Of Recovery Advance; Parley's Close Sought

Gold Bloc Is Expected to Ask Adjournment Next Thursday.

Roosevelt Refusal to Aid Standard Said to Make Conference Futile.

(Associated Press.)

Swiss and Dutch quarters said gold bloc nations will move today for adjournment of the World Economic Conference after one session Thursday. France was not associated with this decision of its gold allies and her course was doubtful.

President Roosevelt's refusal to either return to or protect the old-fashioned gold standard was described by gold group delegates as having made a puppet show of the parley.

Czechoslovakia was reported to have joined the gold bloc, making a total of seven nations in that division. The motion for adjournment is expected to be made at a steering committee meeting called today by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, to map the future course of the conference. The British were expected to oppose adjournment.

Americans Adamant.

The American delegation, meanwhile, was represented as determinded upon "active and strenuous" opposition to any move for adjournment which might be made.

President Roosevelt declared it would be a "catastrophe amounting to a world tragedy" should the conference be diverted from its broad purposes by the "purely artificial and temporary experiments affecting the monetary exchange of a few nations only."

Georges Bonnet, French minister of finance, head of the European gold group, left Paris for London, visibly worried but determined to carry on the fight for the gold standard. One of his departing statements was that the French position in connection with the economic conference had never varied.

Two Girls Captured In Looting of Bank

Hostages Later Released in Oklahoma as 5 Get $3,000.

Clinton, Okla., July 3 (A.P.).—Five robbers looted the First National Bank here of an undetermined amount of money today and fled with two girl hostages, who later were released unharmed.

G. S. Zahn, vice president of the bank, estimated the robbers obtained approximately $3,000. There was no gunfire.

The girls, Georgia Loving, 18, and Thelma Snelle were forced to enter the robbers' motor car and ride past the city limits. There they were released. Posses were outdistanced.

Kentucky Governor Speeds Beer Issue

Frankfort, Ky., July 3 (A.P.).—Plans for a special session of the Kentucky General Assembly to put a State tax on 3.2 beer became known here today. It developed Gov. Ruby Laffon has sent letters to senators and representatives asking them if they will agree to remain in session only ten days and would limit their mileage allowance to actual expenses.

The State court of appeals recently held that under present laws the State can not tax 3.2 beer. Cities, however, already have passed laws taxing the new beer.

Twins, 26, Injured In Dynamite Blast

Joseph and Lyle Simmons, 26-year-old twin brothers, were in critical condition at Sibley Hospital early today from injuries suffered by a blast of dynamite with which they were setting detonations at their home near Mitchellville, Md.

At the hospital it was reported that Joseph's hands were practically blown off. His right leg was fractured and his body burned and bruised. Lyle's left arm was practically torn from his shoulder, necessitating an amputation immediately on arrival. His body was also badly burned and bruised.

Elmer C. Acken, 10 Quincy place northeast, and a man known only as Jiggs Tyler, were also injured by the blast.

Roosevelt Refusal Is Surprise to Hull

President's Message More Positive Than Rejection He Had Drafted.

London, July 3 (U.P.).—President Roosevelt's unprecedented telegram to the World Economic Conference today was as much of a surprise to the American delegation as to anyone else, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who read the presidential message, dispatched his own statement on rejection of the gold bloc currency stabilization plan to Washington for approval. Shortly afterward, however, he received a new and unexpected statement from the President, far more positive than the one Secretary Hull outlined to Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald Sunday.

However, members of the United States delegation were unworried by veiled charges they had sabotaged the conference. They planned to enjoy the Fourth of July tomorrow, despite the turn things have taken here.

2 Desperadoes Escape Lorton; Big Hunt Starts

Bloodhounds Lead Armed Band of 40 Guards in Search of Pair.

A heavily-armed cordon of 40 reformatory guards encompassed the heavy woods near Pohick, Va., early today awaiting daybreak to close in on two desperadoes who fled yesterday from the Lorton Reformatory.

The convicts are John M. Kendrick, 36 years old, cohort of the slain Micky Duffy, once a South Jersey beer baron, and also a bodyguard of Milton "Milsey" Henry, who was slain because of his failure to free Kendrick, and Robert E. Gales, 41 years old, a dangerous narcotic addict.

The men broke away from the wall-less reformatory late yesterday afternoon. Soon their flight was discovered and a posse of guards, guided by bloodhounds, set out in pursuit.

The bloodhounds trailed the men into the dense woods and then to the vicinity of Pohick, where the men were believed to be cornered in a heavy wood, between the highway and the railroad tracks.

A bloodhound, which went into the woods, came out yelping in pain, its sides cut in numerous places by knives. The guards, believing that the men are armed, were ordered not to venture into the woods until daybreak.

Kendrick was serving eight years for assault, with intent to kill Patrolman Thomas D. Bacon, who sought to arrest him and Harry Yudelevit, while they were attempt-

France Plans Tax In Dollar Decline

Paris, July 3 (A.P.).—A compensatory exchange surtax of 15 per cent on American imports is likely to be imposed in the next few days if the United States dollar continues its drop in relation to the franc.

It is understood that France already has advised the State Department in Washington, through the ambassador, that imposition of the tax is imminent.

The tax would be the same as that imposed on British imports when the pound went off the gold standard. The government was favorable to removing the British surtax, but faced heavy parliamentary opposition and abandoned the idea, making imposition of a similar surtax on American products apparently inevitable.

Winking Lincoln Gives Away Spurious $5 Bill

Des Moines, July 3 (A.P.).—Even counterfeiters must have their little jokes.

So Des Moines bankers are on the lookout for $5 bills bearing the likeness of Abraham Lincoln with a wink in his right eye. Bankers say the art work on the bills is exceptionally good, except for the frivilous touch.

"Social Meeting" Held on Cruiser Deals With Domestic Issues.

President Will Scrutinize Programs Wednesday at White House.

Annapolis, Md., July 3 (A.P.).—Aboard the cruiser Indianapolis out in Chesapeake Bay, President Roosevelt today received from his Cabinet officers their plans for national recovery.

He focused his attention upon a domestic drive which he is convinced can bring a great measure of betterment to conditions in this country, regardless of how world plans develop at the World Economic Conference

The unusual Cabinet meeting on board a warship was described by sea-timid Cabinet members as "almost entirely social," but they left with the President the plans for the back-to-work movement they have been drafting during his two weeks' vacation.

Eager to open the domestic recovery movement Wednesday morning, after his return to the White House, the President took over the plans for study tonight and tomorrow.

Domestic Issues Only.

The Cabinet members who boarded the Indianapolis today after considerable hesitation because of the choppy waves of Annapolis Roads were the officers principally concerned with the domestic situation.

No one was present from either the State or Treasury Departments. Mr. Roosevelt was standing firmly on the statement, sent today to the London economic parley, opposing immediate stabilization of currency until the gold bloc, which has been demanding it can show that their currencies are ready for a fixed ratio with those of the United States and Great Britain.

The President was principally interested in the data brought to him by Secretaries Ickes and Roper, the chairmen, respectively of the Public Works and Industrial Recovery Boards.

Work Projects Ready.

Ickes said he had ready a list of projects for immediate work. His board has been called to meet on Thursday to name these projects after they have been scrutinized by the President.

Roper said "we are making real progress on the industrial stabilization campaign." He detailed the steps that had been taken toward fixing of codes of works and wages for the various industries.

The other Cabinet members aboard the Indianapolis for the three-hour luncheon session with the Chief Executive included Attorney General Cummings, Secretaries Dern, Swanson and Wallace and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the Navy.

The President also showed considerable interest in the report of Secretary Wallace on the progress of the farm relief program. There

Dilemma Faces European Gold Bloc Countries

Must Abandon Standard or Adopt Economic Isolation Policy.

By Harold J. T. Horan.

France and other European nations in the gold bloc have been brought face to face with a dramatic dilemma by President Roosevelt's decision against stabilization of the dollar. They either will be forced off the gold standard themselves, or they will have to embark on a policy of intense economic nationalism. This was the consensus in authoritative governmental sources here yesterday.

The suggestion was deprecated that the President's decision had been taken against France because of her leadership in default of intergovernmental debts. Nevertheless, it was freely admitted that the President's stand will affect no country as seriously as it will France. One authority observed: "France may realize before this present monetary crisis is passed that her position in the matter of debts has cost her much more than the $60,000,000 she should have paid, and didn't, on her last two instalments to the United States."

French Prices Maintained.

The internal situation in France, according to another authority is growing increasingly untenable. He said:

"French prices are now about as high as they were before the United States went off the gold standard."

"The prices in the United States and other countries have increased as national currency slipped further off the gold price of commodities. France keeps up her price level through artificial restrictions like quotas and tariffs, which have created an uneconomic system that gradually will have to evolve into some more definite form. The internal value of French investments is kept level all right, but the adverse effect on foreign trade is beginning to tell on French exporters. How can they compete in foreign markets with British or American goods which benefit by depreciated currency?"

The main countries affected by the President's dictum are France, Switzerland and Holland. Belgium and Italy also are technically on the gold standard, but with rigid restrictions regarding gold exports.

Depreciation Is Favored.

In France and Holland there is growing evidence of movement in favor of depreciation of the franc and the florin. Sir Henri Deterding, famous head of the Royal Dutch Shell Oil, is the chief protagonist for the devaluation of the Dutch florin. In France, a former undersecretary for commerce, Raymond Patenotre, is urging the government to follow the trend and save the franc by agreeing now to some form of controlled devaluation of the franc before the French treasury is forced to seek an emergency stabilization which will cut much deeper into the income of the French householder.

The French situation as it is envisaged in official sources here is as follows:

"As the dollar and other foreign currencies move up in relation to the franc, the disparity between the price levels of France and those of her neighbors will be increasingly greater. This will mean continuing unemployment and reduction of exports and general financial strain on the French banking system.

Will Cut Tourist Trade.

"Furthermore, that great element of strength in the French balance of payments, the tourist trade, will dwindle to an astonishing rate in the face of higher French prices than the tourist pays at home and certainly much higher prices will prevail in France than can be found in Germany, England or Italy. The time will then come when France will have to readjust her currency to the world level of prices. This can only be accomplished through depreciation of the franc or a deliberate policy of isolation and self-containment. Of course, France is better able to wage a war of this kind by herself because she holds in her African empire the granary of the nation, in much the same way that ancient Rome was alimented by Egypt. However, it remains to be seen whether the powerful and costly export business that has been built up by French businessmen over the past ten years will stand to see their entire project scrapped for an insular system of national self-sufficiency."

Huge Dead Fish Not Killer Whales

Miami, Fla., July 3 (A.P.).—An expedition from Miami reported today that scores of big fish cast upon the desolate beach in the Cape Sable region south of here were black fish, and not killer whales as fishermen in the area believed. The expedition, headed by Henry G. Frampton, newspaperman and naturalist, counted more than 200 of the huge fish dead on the beach.

Frampton and others in the party said they believed the fish were lured in too close to the beach by a full moon that brought excessive high tides, and then when the tides receded swiftly the fish were left stranded in shallow water.

The black fish, known as a member of the whale family, is perhaps the most timid of the tribe. Killer whales are considered the most vicious. Frampton said the fish measured from 12 to 30 feet in length, and each weighed between 2,000 and 6,500 pounds.

Death Strikes Boardman at Peak of Career

Injuries in Take-Off During Derby Flight Are Fatal to Noted Pilot.

Indianapolis, July 3 (A.P.).—The adventurous career of Russell Boardman, 35-year-old Boston and Springfield, Mass., aviator and sportsman, was terminated today by death.

Injuries suffered last Saturday while streaking down the runway of the municipal airport here caused his death. He had landed to refuel while racing across country in the New York-to-Los Angeles Air Derby. During the take-off in resumption of his westward flight a cross-wind caught his tiny ship and sent it spinning out of control.

Boardman, dragged beneath the craft as it struck the ground, wheels up, suffered a fractured skull and a punctured lung. He never regained consciousness.

For nearly 48 hours, however, a spark of life remained, giving his wife an opportunity to reach here from Providence, R. I., and his brother, Earl, time to come from Albuquerque, N. Mex. Both hurried here by air.

The brother was with him when he died. Mrs. Boardman, worn by anxiety and a long vigil, had left a few minutes before when physicians advised that she obtain some rest. Grief stricken, she left for Boston this afternoon by airplane to await the arrival of her husband's body there.

ing to enter a store at 629 E street northwest. Bacon was shot in the foot.

Both Kendrick and Yudelevit were bodyguards for "Milsey" Henry, who was the local contact man for scores of out-of-town criminals. Henry imported safecrackers here, who perpetrated a series of safe-blowings over a period of months.

It was Henry's failure to "spring" and his refusal to supply them with bondsmen and attorneys, which was given by members of the underworld of Philadelphia as the reason for his death on April 22, 1932. He was killed near his home at Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest by two men, who discharged five loads of shot into his body.

Charles Harris is now in the death cell at the District Jail for the murder of Henry. Harris is a denizen of the Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., underworld, which had been blamed for safe-crackings here two years ago.

In addition, Kendricks and Yudelevit were blamed for the holdup of Bill Moses, Washington gambler, who was slugged by holdup men when he was making a delivery of a day's receipts to his superior. The holdup occurred at Fifteenth and Allison streets northwest.

It was Milsey Henry, police say, who "fingered" numerous holdups and safe-cracking jobs in Washington. He was the man who "staked" Joseph Hayes, notorious Chicago gangster, who was killed two years ago during an attempted holdup of the bank of Upper Marlboro.

Kendrick, born in Washington, the son of a District policeman, became associated with the Micky Duffy gang in South Jersey and also with Philadelphia gangs.

Tossed Firecracker Sends Man to Hospital

The victim of a preholiday celebrant, Hawford Talbot, 915 Fifth street northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital for burns on his left leg.

A large firecracker, tossed from a passing automobile, exploded between his feet as he was standing on K street near Fifth northwest.

Boris and Queen Ioanna Leave Sofia Incognito

Two Boys Are Fished Out of Potomac After Their Canoe Capsizes.

Twelve-year-old George Minker, 607 Sixth street southwest, and 14-year-old Clarence Welch, 317 N street southwest, narrowly escaped drowning in the Potomac River last night when the canoe capsized in the swift current near Key Bridge. They were rescued by persons aboard a 40-foot cruiser, owned and operated by Charles M. Upham, of the Willard Hotel.

The accident had an ironical aspect, as in renting the canoe from the Dempsey Boat House, on Canal road, the night manager at first refused to accept a ticket from a thrift book which was offered in payment.

Clews to Factor Prove Futile in Hunt by Police

Young Son of Kidnaped Millionaire Says He Will Pay Big Ransom.

Chicago, July 3 (A.P.).—The atmosphere was charged with expectancy tonight as mysterious emissaries came and went from the hotel room where "Jake" Factor's attorneys directed their hunt for the kidnaped millionaire.

In mid-afternoon the departure of a messenger with a bulging envelope gave rise to the report that part of the Factor investment portfolio was being turned into cash for the ransom.

From the room itself no new word was forthcoming. There was a reiterated denial that any communication had come from the abductors.

"I stand ready to pay the $75,000," said Jerome, 19-year-old son of the missing international speculator, adding in the next breath that he had "not got the money raised yet."

Detectives chased phantom clews across northern Illinois, hunting the lair of the kidnapers, while the Factor family waited in their several luxurious hotel suites to hear the climax of this latest sensational chapter in the Factor novel.

A squad car went shrieking through suburban Niles this afternoon on a receipt of a telegram from a New Yorker purporting to tip off the rendezvous of the gang. The police, ever suspicious of the Touhy gang but never seeming to meet personally any of its mebers, thought they had discovered the Touhy address at last.

The telegram, however, led them to a little stone house "from Niles, north one mile, 340 feet and west one mile, 480 feet," where they were instructed to look on the top floor for Factor and four others.

On the top floor there was nothing. On the main floor a reputable citizen of Niles was amazed at this special attention from police, and they went away satisfied the telegram was a hoax.

was understood to be some consideration of cutting down on the proposed $150,000,000 fund for wheat and cotton growers.

Remains on Indianapolis.

Mr. Roosevelt, after chatting with his Cabinet aids, sent them ashore across the 3-mile stretch of choppy seas aboard a submarine chaser and remained on the Indianapolis for the night. He has plans to leave the cruiser tomorrow and return late in the day to the White House by motor. There was a possibility, however, he might remain here until early Wednesday morning.

"Really our meeting today with the President was almost entirely social," reported Secretary Ickes. "He invited us to have luncheon with him on the Indianapolis at our last Cabinet meeting in Washington before he left.

"We had a happy visit and heard some mighty interesting stories from Mr. Roosevelt about his sailing trip up the Atlantic."

Sorority Fete Is Applauded By First Lady

Alpha Omicron Pi Parley's Festivities Include Many Stunts.

Vying with the "lightning change" artists of the old-time vaudeville, members of the Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority last night assumed varied roles to complete tre program of the second day of their biennial convention at Arlington Hall, Va., this week.

First the members—175 of them—sat in attentive silence while the First Lady of the Land bade them welcome to their convening place, then applauded her vociferously when she told them that, though she had pressing engagements elsewhere she would remain with them in spirit. Mrs. Roosevelt was scheduled to reach Arlington Hall for dinner and to make a formal address, but failed to arrive in time when her chauffeur missed the winding trail that leads to the beautiful Virginia school.

Then, a "model initiation" was staged, to show delegates of visiting chapters just how the new member should be acclimated. Reporters were not allowed, but audible screams, followed by pleading intonations, gave rise to the belief that once one is inducted into the sorority the said induction will be a lasting memory.

Business occupied but little time in last night's session. Once the meeting had adjourned, several of the entrants in today's water events at the Arlington Hall pool donned their bathing suits and began last-minute training. The swimming contests will be held at noon today.

At 2 p. m. today Mrs. Mary M. Breckinridge and Bland Morrow will discuss social service work. Following the addresses there will be a round table discussion of the same topic, with particular emphasis on the national aspect of the work.

Tonight is "stunt night." Secrecy surrounds the type of stunts planned by the various groups for their portion of the entertainment.

The sessions are being presided over by Kathryn Bremar Matson, grand president of the national organization. Officers will be elected by the close of the week and installation ceremonies will be held Saturday at 2 p. m.

rate guide, but will be useful in checking his other observations.

The compass is a recent development and is in experimental use by the Army Air Corps.

Gatty Praises Hop.

Harold Gatty, Post's companion in the flight around the world, was at the airport to bid his companion bon voyage. Gatty, who is stationed at Bolling Field, said:

"If anyone can get around alone in record time, Post is the man. He is perfectly equipped personally, and has the best mechanical equipment available."

Post will carry 650 gallons of gas, 110 more than he and Harold Gatty carried in the same plane in their record flight of 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes over approximately the same course. This will give the plane a cruising range of 4,500 miles, sufficient margin for any of his projected hops. The plane is the Winnie Mae, with a 550 h. p. Wasp motor.

Post was unable to answer an interviewer's question as to what he considered his greatest hazard. He thought for several minutes and said, "I don't know," in a puzzled manner.

Furnishes Own Map.

He conferred with Lieut. J. F. Gillon, of the hydrographer's office of the Navy, where his course was charted. Post furnished all his own maps. He said he has no backers, and that his own money is being used on the flight, with the exception of some contributions by friends in Oklahoma City. Engine and plane manufacturers, and the Sperry Gyroscope Co., makers of the robot pilot, have cooperated in furnishing equipment.

Jimmy Mattern's plane may have "let him down," Post said in discussing the Texas flier's attempt at a world solo flight record. The "beating" that Mattern's plane took in the accidents in Russia might have caused a failure in the air on his flight toward Alaska. Another possibility is that Mattern has landed on one of the islands in the Aleutian group and is walking out, Post said.

3.2 Fireworks To Bring in 4th At Dawn Today

But Holiday Will Improve; Takoma Park to Parade; Rites at Monument.

Dawn will come like thunder this morning out of some place across Chesapeake Bay and you'll know it's the Fourth of July. The thunder will be supplied by an army of Tom Sawyers and Huckeberry Finns of Washington, who, by the dawn's early light, will apply matches to scarlet cylinders of 3.2 gunpowder.

By the time young America exhausts its supply of fireworks—9:30 a. m.—a parade will be starting at Takoma Park. Headed by a detail of Maryland and Washington police, the procession will swing through the Maryland section of the town, then into the District.

Sandwiched between the police escort and the marching units will be the United States Army Band, under the direction of Capt. W. J. Stannard. Mayor Frederick L. Lawton, of Takoma Park, will be marshal.

Veterans Will March.

Behind the band will march a company from the 121st Engineers, District of Columbia National Guard; a company of infantry from Silver Spring, Md., of the Maryland National Guard, and a detachment from Walter Reed Hospital.

A veterans section will be headed by Takoma Park Post, No. 28, American Legion. It will display for the first time in public the large collection of flags donated by the allied countries in the World War. The section will also include Takoma Park Post, No. 350, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and auxiliaries of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, together with the several Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops and schoolboy patrols.

Civic organizations taking part will include the Takoma Park Citizens Association, the Citizens Association of Takoma, D. C.; the Community League of Takoma Park, the Young Men's Democrat Club, the Women's Democrat Club, and the Takoma Park Chamber of Commerce. A number of business organizations will also take part.

Takoma Line of March.

Starting at Ethan Allen avenue, the line of march will proceed along Carroll avenue to Cedar street and will disband on the grounds of the Takoma Park public school. After the parade, a ceremony will be held in the school auditorium at which Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, will speak.

In the setting of the Sylvan Theater on the Washington Monument Grounds, the Capital's celebration will begin at 7:15 p. m. with a concert by the Marine Band, under the leadership of Capt. Taylor Branson. Veteran and patriotic organizations from all parts of the city will then present a massing of the colors ceremony.

At the ensuing exercises, Senator William H. King, of Utah, will be the speaker. He will be introduced by Claude W. Owen, chairman of the committee of 100 in charge of the celebration. Senator King's address will be broadcast over a Nationwide hook-up by the Columbia Broadcasting Co.

Fireworks to Be Finale.

Other features of the program will be invocation by the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church; reading of the Declaration of Independence, by Judge Robert E. Mattingly, and an oration on Thomas Jefferson, by Miss Grace Colliflower, winner of second place in the recent National Oratorical Contest.

At the conclusion of the speechmaking, 100 torchbearers, accompanied by the Drum and Bugle Corps of Victory Post, American Legion, will march to the platform. The colors will be presented by a soldier, a sailor and a marine, with 13 Boy Scouts representing the 13 original States.

Buglers will then sound "Retreat." The flag will be slowly lowered to the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner." The color bearers will form a procession to the Washington Monument. Aerial bombs will explode and a great fireworks display, grand finale of the day, will begin.

Six thousand chairs will be made available on the north slopes of the grounds.

Here's Day's Program For 4th Celebration

Today's Fourth of July program in the Capital follows:

8:30 a. m.—Athletic events, Potomac Park.

9:30 a. m.—Parade, Takoma Park.

10 a. m.—Beginning of all-day celebration by Burroughs Citizens Association.

1:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.—Endurance bicycle race by Century Road Club around polo field in Potomac Park.

1:30 p. m.—Ten-mile marathon from Mount Vernon highway bridge to Takoma Park playground.

3 p. m.—Celebration by Continental Congress of Workers and Farmers and address by Representative Francis B. Shoemaker, of Minnesota, Sylvan Theater.

3:30 p. m.—Polo game between War Department team and Fauquier-Loudoun Polo Club, polo field, Potomac Park.

7:15 p. m.—City-wide celebration, including fireworks, Washington Monument Grounds.

Parachute Jump Set After Fireworks Tonight

A night parachute jump by Edward Butler will be staged at Washington-Hoover Airport tonight at 10 o'clock. The jump will follow the fireworks on the Monument Grounds, and Butler will carry a light by which to illuminate his parachute during the descent. He will jump at an altitude of about half a mile. Passenger flights over Washington before and after the fireworks will be flown by the Atlantic Seaboard Airways.

Perfect Black Rose Produced.

Sangerhausen, Germany, July 3 (A.P.).—The Sangerhausen Rosarium claims to have produced a perfect black rose after years of experimenting. The Rosarium, said to be the largest in the world, has an exhibition of 400,000 roses of 900 varieties.

Gen. Johnson's Approval Given To Open Prices

Declares, However, Public Will Be Protected From Extortion.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

Hugh S. Johnson, national industrial recovery act administrator, yesterday partly met the plagueing question of price-fixing by giving his approval to "open price associations."

The public would be protected from extortionate prices, Gen. Johnson said, but he refused to define, except in most general terms, what he meant by extortionate prices and also refused to discuss in any detail what would be considered a reasonable margin of profit or a reasonable spread between cost and selling prices.

The so-called open price associations, proposed by Gen Johnson, would operate through a central committee in each industry. Each week the producers would report their trade to headquarters what they had sold and at what prices. Their competitors would thus be advised of competitive prices. This would not be actual price-fixing, but it would tend to price-fixing. Such "open price associations" were one of the things about which much complaint was raised in bygone years and they were at least partly responsible for some of the restrictive laws imposed on industry.

Hearings on 20 Codes.

The first code, that of the cotton textile industry, is expected to be submitted to President Roosevelt within a few days, Gen. Johnson said. But the code would be accompanied by suggestions which would be proposed by the Recovery Administration, the administrator said. What these changes would be Gen. Johnson refused to indicate.

The furious pace set by the Recovery Administration is carrying the work forward with such rapidity that most of the executives are dizzy with the Johnsonian speed. There may be as many as twenty codes under consideration in public hearings within the next ten days, Gen. Johnson told reporters. These hearings would be conducted by deputy administrators. Some may be held outside Washington.

Among the industries reported just about ready to have their codes considered publicly are the anthracite and bituminous, automobile, oil and steel.

Code on Women's Wear.

The next code to take the center of the public stage is expected to be that drafted by the women's wear industry. It may be submitted tomorrow. The oil code may be submitted the same day. The wool industry code is said to be nearly ready.

Reiterating previous declarations, Gen. Johnson made it clear that the recovery administration does not intend to permit the code of any industry to become a weapon for the employers against the employes. Neither does the administration intend that the new law shall serve as the vehicle for wildcat prices increases, Gen. Johnson again said. He said there must be a genuine increase in purchasing power and the results of increased wages and employment must have a chance to "bite in" before there shall be any widespread increase in prices if there is to be any lasting benefits from the recovery program.

Returning to the questions involved in the inauguration and enforcement of the cotton textile code, Gen. Johnson said that he "would certainly ask them about it" if he found that manufacturers who were parties to the agreement were guilty of violating the spirit of the code by increasing their rental and other charges to workers who were more or less compelled to live in the so-called model villages set up about the mills.

Plans Dash Here

CAPT. J. ERROL BOYD, who today will attempt a dawn-to-dusk flight from Haiti to Washington.

Boyd Expected Here Today on Hop From Haiti

Aviator, Recovered From Tropical Fever, Will Make Plane Dash.

Capt. J. Errol Boyd, war-time ace and ocean flier, will attempt a dawn-to-dusk flight from Port-au-Prince, Haiti, to Washington today, carrying messages of goodwill from Stenio Vincente, president of the Haitian Republic, to President Roosevelt.

The famous Bellanca plane, Columbia, in which Capt. Boyd made the nonstop flight to Haiti June 11, will be flown by Boyd, with Robert G. Lyon, former Navy flier, as co-pilot. Since his flight to Haiti Capt. Boyd has been confined by an attack of tropical fever. H. P. Davis, who accompanied him on the outward flight as observer, is suffering from the same malady, and he will return to the States by steamer.

The fliers will be met at Washington Hoover Airport by the Haitian minister, Dantes Bennegarde. Taking off at 4 a. m. with the favoring winds now prevailing the average cruising speed of the sturdy Columbia will probably be increased, so as to make the flight in 16 or 18 hours. This would bring them to the Capital about sundown.

Capt. Boyd and his two companions were decorated by the government of the West Indian republic with the Ordre de Honneur et Merite at a final reception given in their honor at the presidential palace at Port-au-Prince, according to the New York consul general. Charles B. Vincente, a brother of the president. The highest order, that of ranking officer, was bestowed upon Capt. Boyd, while Davis and Lyon were made knights chevalier. The decoration was originated by the founder of the black republic, Henri Christophe, in 1811.

On his flight to Haiti, Boyd encountered severe head winds, sometimes equaling 40 miles an hour in velocity, depleting his gasoline supply until he had to land 60 miles from his goal, the capital city. The fliers spent 12 hours in the tropical jungle, and it is believed this period caused their infection with the fever of which he has just recovered.

Bomb Blast Fires 16 Houses.

Budapest, Hungary, July 3 (A.P.). The newspaper A Reggel reported today that a bomb explosion in the village of Potrete in the Zala district caused a fire destroying sixteen houses. Eight firemen and four other persons were injured

3 Departments Drop 711 Here; Rehiring Plans

Total of 1,181 Out in Commerce, Agriculture and Interior.

By Robert C. Albright.

While reemployment negotiations got actively under way, 1,181 more Government workers, including 711 employed in three Washington departments, yesterday were separated from the Federal service.

The separations were spread unevenly through the Agricultural Department, which released 658, the Bureau of Foreign Domestic Commerce, which let out 426, and the Interior Department, which dropped 97.

At the same time, officials in several departments were trying, informally, to place the more competent of the long list of retrenchment victims. Others looked expectantly to the President for action, following yesterday's Cabinet conference at Annapolis.

Curtailments in the Agriculture, Commerce and Interior Departments yesterday in no sense represented final adjustment of the personnel situation, officials were quick to point out. Other separations must be made as the new fiscal year advances.

Reemployment Plans.

Officials meanwhile are known to be negotiating with chiefs of the new emergency set-ups with an eye to reemploying as many as possible. The President has communicated to some of his Cabinet members a desire to rehire trained personnel wherever this can be done.

Of the 658 separated from the Agriculture Department yesterday, 188 are Washington residents and 470 are employed in the field. In addition, 460 were placed on furloughs of varying lengths, mostly indeterminate. These included 300 employes of the market news service, furloughed a minimum 60 days.

The Commerce Department at one stroke yesterday dropped 426 of the 835 Washington employes of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Of this number, 393 were let out on the basis of efficiency ratings, including 53 married workers whose mates also are in the Federal service. There were ten 30-year retirements and 23 resignations.

The bureau's market research activities were hard hit by the separations, and some of the commodity divisions were almost wiped out. For example, 18 of the 27 persons in the foodstuffs section were dropped.

Bureau of Mines Next.

The separations were in addition to the 107 foreign service employes of the bureau recently dropped, and 138 released when domestic field offices were cut down last week. Nor do they include any of the 258 separations from the Bureau of Standards.

Commerce Department officials made known that at least one other agency, the Bureau of Mines, will be hit just as hard, proportionately, as either the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce or the Bureau of Standards.

The Interior Department yesterday separated 74 from the Geological Survey, including 36 involuntarily retired, 15 released because they are married, 23 on the basis of efficiency, and 4 who applied for optional retirement.

The Interior Department announced 14 employes of the Secretary's office will be dismissed July 15, all but 1 of whom will receive a retirement annuity. In the Indian office, 9 are to be separated and 2 furloughed. Two of these will be released because they are married, and 7 under the 30-year retirement clause.

Figures Held Tentative.

"Other separations will be made as soon as selections have been completed," the department announced.

At the Agriculture Department, it was said the separation figures represented "hasty approximations" and were "highly tentative."

It was said the Bureau of Plant Industry is dropping 50 Washington employes, 110 in the field and furloughing others. The Biological Survey was said to be dropping 11 local employes, 96 in the field and furloughing others.

The Washington Post announced Friday that extension of the 15 per cent Government pay cut beyond July 1, by means of an Executive order, was merely a matter of routine. The cut is determined by a cost of living differential, with 1923 as the basic period. Only as a living cost rise offsets this differential will the cut be scaled down.

Statement of Roosevelt Dispatched to Conference

London, July 3 (A.P.).—The text of President Roosevelt's message to the World Economic Conference today follows:

"I would regard it as a catastrophe amounting to a world tragedy if the great conference of nations called to bring about a more real and permanent financial stability and a greater prosperity to the masses of all nations should in advance of any serious effort to consider these broader problems allow itself to be diverted by the proposal of purely artificial and temporary experiment affecting the monetary exchange of a few nations only.

"Such action, such diversion, shows a singular lack of proportion and failure to remember the larger purposes for which the economic conference originally was called together.

"I do not relish the thought that insistence on such action should be made the excuse for continuance of the basic economic errors that underlie so much of the present world-wide depression.

"The world will not long be lulled by the specious policy of achieving a temporary and probably an artificial stability in foreign exchange on the part of a few large countries only.

"The sound, internal economic system of a nation is a greater factor in its well-being than the price of its currency in changing terms of currencies of other nations.

"It is for this reason that reduced costs of government, adequate government income, and ability to serve its government debts are all so important to ultimate stability.

"So, too, all fetishes of so-called international bankers are being replaced by efforts to plan national currencies with the objective of giving to those currencies a continuing purchasing power which does not greatly vary in terms of the commodities and need no modern civilization.

"Let me be frank in saying that the United States of America seeks the kind of dollar which a generation hence will have the same purchasing power and debt-paying power as the dollar value we hope to attain in the near future. That objective means more to the good of other nations than a fixed ratio for a month or two in terms of the pound or franc.

"Our broad purpose is permanent stabilization of every nation's currency. Gold or gold and silver can well continue to be a metallic reserve behind currencies, but this is not the time to dissipate all reserves. When the world works out concerted policies in the majority of nations to produce balanced budgets and living within their means, then we can properly discuss a better distribution of the world's gold and silver supply to act as a reserve base of national currencies.

"Restoration of world trade is an important partner, both in the means and in the result. Here, also, temporary exchange fixing is not the true answer. We must, rather, mitigate existing embargoes to make easier the exchange of products of which one nation has and the other has not.

"The conference was called to better, and perhaps, to cure fundamental economic ills. It must not be diverted from that effort.

Police Set to Cope With 4th Traffic

Special Parking Rules Will Care for Cars During Fireworks Display.

Traffic arrangements and parking restrictions for visitors to the Fourth of July program and fireworks display on the Monument Grounds tonight will be about the same as in recent years, it was announced yesterday by Park Police officials.

Parking will be prohibited on Fourteenth street from Pennsylvania avenue northwest to Water street southwest. To offset this restriction, the parking areas in the rear of the Navy and Munitions Buildings will be open after 6 p. m. Entrance to these areas will be only from Nineteenth or Twenty-first streets northwest. The parking space on Fifteenth street southwest back of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving will also be open, with an entrance on the north end from Fourteenth street.

Entrance into the Monument grounds will be allowed from Fourteenth street only.

Sixth Street Structure Held Liquor Nuisance

Supported by four affidavits alleging the signers had purchased liquor on the premises, the Government through Assistant United States Attorney Harold W. Orcutt yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a petition asking that the building at 1029 Sixth street northeast be enjoined as a nuisance within the purview of the prohibition law.

Charles McKinley Washington, Allie Washington and Leo Ford were named as tenants of the building, which has a restaurant on the first floor, and Louis and Rebecca Epstein were named as the owners of the property. The Epsteins do not live at that address.

Vatican City, July 3 (A.P.).—Pope Pius received in audience privately today Bishop Urban J. Vehr, of Denver, Colo. This was Bishop Vehr's first visit to his holiness since he was made bishop, April 17, 1931. The Pope received the Denver prelate cordially and talked with him at length on conditions in his diocese. The pontiff then imparted the apostolic blessing.

Heat Is Blamed At Lorton for Food Protests

District Penal Head Says Good Quality Served in Model Institution.

The protests against food served in the Lorton Reformatory, which caused three demonstrations over the week-end, became the subject of an investigation yesterday by Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of District penal institutions.

After a tour of the reformatory, which is nationally famous as a model institution, Commissioners Reichelderfer and Crosby, and George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, declared that everything was normal.

"Reports of the incident were grossly exaggerated," emphasized Mr. Wilson. "Undoubtedly the heat of the last few days had a lot to do with the complaints of the prisoners. There was no violence nor were any threats made."

"We have every confidence in Capt. Barnard," said Commissioner Reichelderfer. "He is going to investigate to determine whether the complaints against the food are justified.

"He is a very fair man. If there is justification in the complaints, he will be the first one to correct it. I think the basis of the complaints is not so much the quality of the food as the manner in which it was prepared."

The head of District Commission said he sampled the food at the noonday meal and found it satisfactory.

Rumors that Capt. Barnard would be asked to resign because of the protests were vehemently denied by Commissioner Reichelderfer.

Only a short while ago, when there was a number of retirements of District employes and it seemed as though Capt. Barnard would have to be retired, the District Commissioner and the Department of Justice urged executive action so that he could be retained. This was done on Presidential order.

As a result of the complaints, Capt. Barnard removed the steward, E. C. Coffin.

Zita Johann Suit Settled.

Los Angeles, July 3 (A.P.).—Zita Johann, stage and screen actress, and her theatrical agents, Frank Joyce-Myron Selznick, Inc., and the American Play Co., reached an agreement out of court, it was learned today when her trial asking termination of their contract was put on the docket.

HUGH S. JOHNSON

ADMINISTRATOR OF THE INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY PROGRAM

Oldest Officer On Naval Lists Dies in Virginia

Rear Admiral B. F. Day Served 40 Years, Including Civil War Period.

Rear Admiral Benjamin Franklin Day, U. S. N., retired, the oldest graduate of the Naval Academy and the oldest officer on the Navy list, died yesterday at Buena Vista, Va., it was announced at the Navy Department. He was 92 years old.

Rear Admiral Day was born in Plymouth, Ohio, January 16, 1841, and was appointed to the Naval Academy from Ohio in 1858. During the Civil War he served in the U. S. S. Harriett Lane and in the U. S. S. Colorado in the Western Gulf Blocading Squadron. He was wounded in a night engagement July 3, 1863. He was attached to the Saugus of the North Atlantic Blockading Squadron and participated in the engagements with the Howlett House Batteries in the James River and attacks on Port Fisher.

The late admiral served in the U. S. S. Tuscarora from 1866 to 1868 and in the U. S. S. Contocook from 1868 to 1870, when he was ordered to duty in the Hydrographic office of the Navy. He commanded the U. S. S. Manhattan from 1875 to 1876 and the Rio Bravo during 1877 and 1878. After duty at the Navy yard, Norfolk, Va., he served as lighthouse inspector in the eighth district from 1881 to 1884, when he was given command of the U. S. S. Mohican.

He was on duty at the Boston Navy Yard for three years and commanded the cruiser Boston during 1892 and 1893, when he was transferred to command of the U. S. S. Baltimore. He served as president of the Steel Board in 1896 and 1897, when he was appointed as a member of the Naval Examining Board and served in that capacity until he retired from active duty at his own request after more than 40 years' service

Admiral Day was present in Ford's Theater here and was within a few feet of President Lincoln when the Emancipator was shot.

Funeral services for Admiral Day will be held today at the Buena Vista home of his son, where he died. Burial will be in Warren, Ohio. Admiral Day had expressed a wish that he be buried in Ohio beside his wife, and not in Arlington National Cemetery.

"What the Hell's the Matter With That Word," Implies Gen. Johnson.

Industrial Recovery Act Head Uses It Frankly to Newspapermen.

By Robert F. Whitney.

The use of the word "hell" as an expletive by a man in public life is no longer news.

Despite the fact that Charles Gates Dawes has left the service of his country and Smedley Butler's radio talks are edited, the appearance of a new proponent of the word has aroused no comment.

Hell is taken as matter of course, and if Brig. Gen Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national industrial recovery act, happens to say "hell, no," newspapermen refer only to the subject matter.

Gen. Johnson hits straight to the point. Picture last week's hearings at which a code is being drawn up for the textile industry.

Listen to Him.

It is hot. Johnson is in shirt sleeves. He rests on his elbows. Then he swings his leg over the arm of the chair. Then he gets up and curls foot onto the chair seat, sitting on it. He comments in his dry, slightly husky, but penetrating voice:

"Now, when you and I talked this over up in my office you said . . .

"You say this minimum wage will stop the employment of children, then why not put the child-labor clause in the code."

Gen. Johnson has dark-brown and thin hair which he keeps brushing back with his right hand if it is not occupied with a cigarette. His eyes are blue, deeply set. He smiles quickly and is back again to serious things in an instant.

The Busiest Man.

This is the man who is to put millions back to work. The man who is to show industry how it can cooperate to mutual profit.

"Reemployment is the emergent phase of the act," he said yesterday.

His associates describe him as the best man in the country for the job.

Gen. Johnson is the busiest man in Washington and has been so, long before the national recovery act was adopted by Congress. For he was one of its framers.

Not infrequently is he at his office as late as 2 a. m.

Industry's "dictator" is a veteran of many stirring events. He was with Pershing on the famed punitive expedition into Mexico in pursuit of the bandit, Pancho Villa. He was in charge of the feeding of the refugees of the San Francisco earthquake and fire.

Started Draft Plan.

Like many of the men who are coming to the forefront in these days, he was a valued public servant in World War days. He originated the plan for the selective draft and was executive in charge. He was a member of the War Industries Board.

Soldier, lawyer and manufacturer is a full career. Gen. Johnson resigned from the Army in 1919 to become vice president of the Moline Plow Co. Later he became associated with Bernard Baruch, and his name appeared on the directorates of many National concerns.

A fourth phase of the general's career might be the writing he did when he was a second lieutenant. He wrote two boys' books, "Williams at West Point," and "Williams on Service." And, too, he since has written many magazine stories and essays.

He was born near Fort Scott, Kans., in 1882. He married soon after his graduation from West Point. He has one son. His home is at Hewlett, Long Island.

Virginia Man's Body Is Found At Chain Span

Swimmer, Who Met Death Saturday Near Great Falls, Recovered.

The body of Norman S. Derr, 21, who was drowned Saturday afternoon while swimming at the mouth of Difficult Run near Great Falls in Fairfax County, Va., was recovered yesterday afternoon while floating in the Potomac River near Chain Bridge.

The body was sighted by Howard Havener, of Cherrydale, Va., who was watching the river near the bridge. He drove to the boathouse of Joseph Fletcher in the District and asked them to recover the body.

Fletcher and a fireman named Gulf, of No. 1 Engine Company in Washington, went out in a boat and brought the body to shore. Meanwhile R. M. Loughborough, of Fairfax, and County Policeman Lewis L. Finks, heard of the discovery and identified the body.

The Washington Harbor Police removed it to the District of Columbia Morgue, where it was positively identified by the youth's father, H. B. Derr, Fairfax county agricultural agent, and O'Niel Sutphin, Norman's companion on the fateful swim.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon with a short service at the grave in the Fairfax Cemetery, conducted by the Rev. Royal Rice, pastor of the Southern Methodist Church of Fairfax.

The youth is survived by his bride of a few weeks, his mother and father, and a sister Grace. He was a member of the Fairfax Council, Order of Fraternal Americans.

Three Favored For Vacancy in County's Board

H. L. Watkins Likely to Succeed A. W. Souder in Montgomery Post.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Selection of a successor to Montgomery County Commissioner Archie W. Souder, of Damascus, whose funeral was held yesterday, has narrowed down to three men, Morgan Watkins, of Cedar Grove; Harry Lee Watkins, of Cedar Grove, and Garner W. Duvall, of Damascus, son of the late Commissioner Sherwood Duvall.

Political observers favor Morgan Watkins as the choice since he has been more active than Harry Lee Watkins in political work and apparently has more support from the powers that be in the Damascus district. Garner Duvall is expected to be eliminated, since he several days ago was appointed to a good position which has more future for him than a country commissionership.

Mr. Duvall was appointed road supervisor under the State Roads Commission, and since he is a young man, he has possibilities for more rapid advancement than if he were to accept the commissionership made vacant by his father's death two weeks ago.

Funeral services for Commissioner Souder, who shot and killed himself the day after he took his seat on the board of county commissioners, were held yesterday at the residence in Damascus. The services were conducted by the Rev. W. Clark Main, pastor of the Damascus Methodist Episcopal Church, with burial in the cemetery adjoining the church. The county commissioners and the board of directors of the Bank of Damascus acted as honorary pallbearers.

Active pallbearers were Judge Donald A. DeLashmutt, William DeLashmutt, president of the bank; Dr. J. M. Boyer, Bradley M. Woodfield, John Hager and Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley.

Mr. Souder was cashier of the Bank of Damascus, but had been granted a leave of absence because of a nervous breakdown. He was appointed county commissioner to replace the late Commissioner Sherwood Duvall last Tuesday and sat for the first time with the board on Friday. He shot himself in the barn of his home at Damascus Saturday night.

Attorney Is Chosen To Jail Racketeers

Joseph B. Keenan, Picked by Cummings, Reveals His First Steps.

(Associated Press.)

Gangdom's big shots are likely to bear the brunt of the Justice Department's initial moves to end racketeering.

Joseph B. Keenan, a Cleveland lawyer, who was chosen yesterday as an Assistant Attorney General to lead the Government's effort to quell the activities of organized crime, said he intended to go after "gangland leadership" first.

Keenan, graduate of Brown and Harvard, was invited to accept the Federal post by Attorney General Cummings. His nomination has been approved by Postmaster General Farley, the patronage arbiter. Formal announcement of his selection is expected soon after President Roosevelt returns to the Capital.

In Cleveland, Keenan said he intended "to try to get the expert educated minds which have been drawn into racketeering by huge illicit revenues." He indicated that he considered the assignment formidable by asserting he believed modern racketeering gangs formed a network of criminal activities across the Nation and were linked "politically and otherwise."

Navy Nurse Is Retired From Welfare Position

Miss Marietta H. Pierson, Navy nurse in charge of the welfare room for civilian personnel of the Navy Department, was retired yesterday. She was presented with a purse by her associates in the office.

Miss Matilda Hume, until recently on duty at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., has taken over the position. Miss Pierson has been in charge of the welfare room for the past 12 years. During the war she served with the Army Nurse Corps.

Alexandria Raid Nets 150 Bottles of Brew

Virginia State prohibition officers last night raided the establishment of James Crowley, in Alexandria, Va., and confiscated 150 bottles of alleged beer.

The brew, illegal in Virginia, will be sent to Richmond for analysis. Meanwhile, Crowley is being held under a bond of $500.

Lloyds, Ltd., Manager Here

George Brian Parkes and Son, "Typically English," Tarry in Capital on Way to See Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago.

George Brian Parkes, manager of Lloyds, Ltd., London, and his stockbroker son, Sydney, were "typically English."

Though they might dislike the appellation, there was no denying its fitness as they hurriedly checked out of their rooms at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday just in time to catch a train that will land them at Chicago's World Fair today.

Were not father and son draped in suits of the identical pattern and cut American haberdashers have been selling to "typical Americans" as Bond Street, no less? Could anyone have mistaken those boots in mahogany-brown cordovan as anything but English? And those snap-brim hats, would not their British jauntiness have struck envy into the heart of an American college boy? And, if the "typical American" had not heard the soft, cultivated accent of the elder Parkes as he settled his hotel bill, there were the English "tab" shirts to remove all possible doubt as to the nationality of the pair.

Mr. Parkes, like many a typical American father, is roundng out his son's formal training at college by travel. Washington was one of the first stops on a tour that will include most of the United States and Canada.

Sydney, a Cambridge graduate, has been four years with a London brokerage house. He has found New York and Washington "beautiful, wonderful." Unlike some "typical" Englishmen, he admits a liking for "typical Americans."

Senators Voice Varying Views On Cotton Plan

Scheme for Sale to Russia Invokes Criticism and Commendation.

(Associated Press.)

A Government agency's agreement to finance the sale of American cotton to Soviet Russia brought both criticism and commendation yesterday from senators lingering in the Capital.

It also caused speculation in some quarters on whether the arrangement for Russia to buy between 60,000 and 80,000 bales of American cotton in the open market had any significance or bearing on the question of diplomatic recognition.

Under the trade agreement announced Sunday, the Reconstruction Corporation will make loans to American exporters to finance cotton sales to the Amtorg, the Soviet trading agency. The arrangement has the approval of President Roosevelt and Secretary Woodin.

One Democratic senator, King, of Utah, called it the wrong thing to do.

"The action of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will be insisted by Russia as tantamount to American recognition of her government," he said. "I condemn the loan and can foresee nothing but complications following it."

A directly opposite view was taken by Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, also a Democrat, who went further and advocated official recognition.

"Russia is one of the biggest nations in the world," said Thomas. "If we don't sell her cotton, she will buy it elsewhere or raise it herself. We ought not to pass up this business."

His views are similar to those expressed forcefully in the past by Senators Borah, of Idaho, and Norris, of Nebraska, both Republicans.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, joined King in criticizing the cotton loan. He said the Soviet's "declared disrespect for contracts seems to me to make a poor credit risk."

"In this," he said. "I am referring to a government which steals factories and plants and every other sort of right of its citizens."

He Lit Two Bombs, He Tossed But One

The "Glorious Fourth" will be celebrated today without much of the "glorious" by one member of Uncle Sam's Navy.

L. E. Craemer, 25, a naval accountant stationed at Annapolis, while visiting at Cottage City, Md., Sunday, attempted to celebrate America's independence with a couple of explosive "cherry bombs."

Holding the highly-explosive fireworks in his left hand he attempted to light one of the "bombs." Unknown to himself he lighted both, throwing only one away. The explosion that followed tore large gashes in Craemer's hand. Rushed to the Navy Yard Hospital by the Bladensburg rescue squad, his condition was pronounced not serious.

Brother of Aiken Reported Missing

This, Along With Clothing Taken, Cause Police to Start Wide Hunt.

Personal clothing and traveling paraphernalia missing from the home of Wilfred E. Aiken, 31-year-old building association teller, yesterday caused police to doubt he committed suicide and broadcast a nation-wide lookout for the missing man.

A note expressing suicidal intent was found in Aiken's automobile on the Virginia bank of the Potomac River near Key Bridge Saturday. However, Mrs. Helen Aiken, reported to police she had found that her husband's shaving equipment, clothing and a valise were missing from their home at 6306 Eighth street northwest.

Doubts as to suicide were augmented when it was learned that Aiken's brother, Gordon, had not been at his home here since Saturday. A final check of Aiken's books at the Perpetual Building Association reveals that they were "exact to the penny."

Bad Weather Delays Balbo Hop to Iceland

24 Italian Planes, Bound for Chicago Fair, Are Held Up in Ireland.

Londonderry, Northern Ireland, July 3 (A.P.).—The departure for Reykjavik, Iceland, of the squadron of 24 Italian seaplanes bound for Chicago was delayed today after Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian minister in command of the armada, scanned reports telling of unfavorable weather over northern Greenland.

The planes arrived here yesterday from Amsterdam, the second stop on the flight, which began at Orbetello, Italy, Saturday.

After a long sleep, Gen. Balbo and his companions arose early, prepared for the 930-mile hop to Reykjavik, but the Lough Foyle, on which they alighted Sunday, was hazy and weather reports were unfavorable.

The squadron leader later issued a statement, which read:

"The departure for Iceland is suspended owing to a low-pressure area which, having formed over northern Greenland with pressure of 738 millimeters, has begun to extend out to the coast of Iceland, causing difficult conditions over the best section of the flight, particularly over the zone of arrival."

Repairs were completed on the plane of the flight commander and another flying boat, which were slightly damaged in a collision with a refueling boat. The work was done by Italian mechanics in the Londonderry shipyard.

Former Arlington Official to Use Last Resort to Escape Sentence.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas said yesterday that he has been advised by counsel for William H. Duncan, former clerk of the court of Arlington County, that they will appeal to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari.

Counsel for the defendant, who was convicted August, 1932, and given a sentence of three years in the penitentiary on charges of misuse of public funds, will apply to the Circuit Court of Arlington County tomorrow for a further stay of sentence pending an appeal to the Supreme Court. The appeal must be, according to Douglas, presented to the court within 90 days.

The mandate from the State Supreme Court of Appeals denying a writ of error in the case was received yesterday morning by the county clerk and filed.

Gibson Misses Death Again as Plane Crashes

Movie Thrill Hero Wrecks Ship at Pylon Racing Ken Maynard.

Municipal Airport, Los Angeles, July 3 (U.P.).—Hoot Gibson, hero of many a hazardous motion picture exploit, survived another brush with death today when his speeding plane crashed at the National Air Races during a contest with his rival actor, Ken Maynard.

Hauled from the wreckage, Gibson was rushed across the field to reassure an anxious crowd of 25,000 spectators, many of whom believed he had been killed.

The crash occurred as the two planes hurtled toward the second pylon, some three kilometers from the reviewing stands.

Maynard took the lead rounding the first pylon and Gibson, anxious to regain the advantage, put on a burst of speed.

His ship roaring at 200 miles an hour, Gibson went into the turn at a sharp angle, although he was less than 100 feet from the ground. The plane began sideslipping and before the film cowboy could right it, the nose dipped earthward.

Gibson crashed at full speed, demolishing the plane. The actor extricated himself, a cut on the cheek his only injury.

Maynard then abandoned the 25-mile race. He landed near Gibson's plane and helped the latter into an automobile.

The two were racing for a trophy put up by Will Rogers, with Harold Lloyd as referee of the contest.

The race immediately following, a 30-mile event for planes of 375-cubic-inch displacement or less, was won by Lee Miles, of Los Angeles, with an average speed of 160.891 miles an hour. George Hague, a consistent performer in this year's races, was second; J. Wittman, Oshkosh, Wis., third, and Art Chester, Joliet, Ill., fourth.

Municipal Airport, Los Angeles, July 3 (A.P.).—Roscoe Turner, winner of the transcontinental speed dash of the national air races from New York to Los Angeles, failed today by 19 miles an hour to break the world land plane speed record of 294 miles per hour.

Lee Gehlbach, of Detroit, Mich., forced out of the transcontinental dash on Saturday when a faulty gasoline line brought him down near Indianapolis, arrived here today.

Man With 8 Names Weds

Leigh Francis Howell Sackville de Montmorency Vaughn-Henry Has Hard Time Finding Some One to Perform Rites.

With a monicle perched diffidently in his right eye, and bearing two heavily laden pieces of luggage, Leigh Francis Howell Wynne Sackville de Montmorency Vaughn-Henry, of 15 Sherwood place, Greenwich, Conn., appeared at the District Supreme Court house yesterday to obtain a license to marry Hedwig Steinborn, of Greathouse, Rockridge road, Greenwich, Conn.

The gentleman, whom we shall designate as Vaughn-Henry for purposes of economy, made three vain attempts to get a justice to perform the ceremony, only to find that all were either unavailable or were out of town. He finally accepted the suggestion of a clerk and chose the Rev. John C. Ball to officiate.

Mr. Vaughn-Henry wrote on his license that he was 43 years old, and that he had been twice divorced, once in London, England, and again in New York. His bride-to-be had previously been married, but had been divorced in Mexico. She gave her age as 26.

The couple left the building with an omnipresent newspaper photographer tagging their footsteps to get a picture. Mr. Vaughn-Henry personally, was willing enough, but Mrs. Steinborn declined to accommodate the picture hawk, and the last seen of them they were expertly ducking the photographer's camera while loading their luggage into a taxicab.

With that never-say-die spirit though, the cameraman hopped into a waiting automobile and pursued the couple to the door of the Rev. Ball's home, where a second series of maneuvers were indulged in to frustrate the young man. Mr. Vaughn-Henry proved an interesting subject, also, for reporters who attempted to learn from him certain pertinent facts surrounding his wife, him and Mrs. Steinborn.

As the happily married couple emerged from the Rev. Ball's home, they were not so successful in warding off the cameraman who obtained a "good shot" of them.

SWARMI FEDD, wandering off Federal Lane on Saturday evening, arrived at Culpeper, Va. He had not been long on Main Street when he was greeted by Nathan Smith (), bacteriologist, Plant Industry, Agriculture; Bill Hammer (), Interstate Commerce, and Tom Burke (*), Internal Revenue, three jolly good fellows. They were, it was stated, "wedding-neering." Tom, it must be admitted, knew his wheel and made the 65 miles to Washington in two hours—matching the bus schedule.

At Key Bridge, Nate volunteered to motor Swarmi home. He proved to be a competitor to Tom as a good driver. The ladies in each auto were distinctly charming and entertaining. It was really hard to say au revoir.

AFTER-BREAKFAST CIGARS.

List Claude Swanson as an after-breakfast speaker. A speaker brimful of the morning's good cheer. The cheer to carry one through the hours' activity on a summer's day.

The secretary of what is about to become the world's greatest upbuilding navy dropped the cloak of officialdom Saturday morning upon arrival at his desk, and chatted right freely and right smartly; his eyes sparkled as he spoke informally his regard for the Navy.

As we entered the Secretary's office we were cautioned by Lieut. Francis Mentz that we must not talk, and must make no noise, because the Secretary would "be busy signing letters." We still have a big Navy and there are lots of letters.

It was only a few minutes before Admiral Standley was to be sworn in as successor to Admiral Pratt, chief of Naval Operations. Many another secretary might have had good cause to be irritated upon reaching his office to see cameramen and newsreel men wedge forth and take possession. Mr. Swanson remained cool in his gray mohair. He reached for stogies, several of them.

"Will you try one of these torpedoes?" We'd seen some like them often before. Hardly the kind that satisfy.

"Those look like the kind Uncle Joe Cannon used to chew, Mr. Secretary."

"They're better than he smoked. They come from Havana. Go ahead and smoke one."

This assurance led us to light one. It was all the Secretary has said they were.

IF pipes make one chummy, cigars make one meditative. And being meditative, perhaps one unconsciously speaks one's thoughts.

"You know when I first ran for Congress I boosted my age two years. I think now I should be allowed to take about four years off my age," Mr. Swanson confided.

"That fan, Mr. Secretary. That's something new, isn't it?"

"Yes, the Navy must have the newest things."

"That big feller should be a Marine." The Secretary indicated Hal Stone, also of The Washington Post staff. And Hal a flying officer in the Army. He should hear that.

Then the subject of getting started early in the morning. "That reminds me of what Theodore Roosevelt once said," recalled Mr. Swanson. "It was 'Early to bed, early to rise, work like hell and advertise.'"

Assistant Secretary Henry Roosevelt appeared at this point. "What's this, the usual stuff, pictures and all?"

By now (and using a Navy term again) the battery of picture boxes had been set up. The Secretary stood, straightened himself to his full height, posed to bespeak the Navy's full confidence in the incoming chief of naval operations. Today, in this paper, you will find the results, pictorially, of the batterymen's shooting.

An American Creed

I BELIEVE that the Constitution of the United States is a sacred document.

I believe in the President of this Great Republic—whoever he may be and regardless of politics.

I believe in all responsible officials—legislative, executive, judicial, military, naval and municipal.

I believe in the American soldiers and the American sailors who sacrifice life that freedom and independence may forever remain progressive in the history of this Nation.

I believe that to be a citizen of the United States is a wonderful privilege—a privilege which I shall always regard as the loftiest and most enviable.

I believe that the Star-Spangled Banner—the flag of my beloved country—is more than an emblem; it is a guarantee of personal safety everywhere, and pledges liberty and justice to all.

I believe that there is no more significant word than "America." It stands for the ideals of democracy, and it represents government in the highest form.

I believe that its historical struggles for righteousness entitle the United States to a place of honor in the Council of Nations.

I believe implicity in America always; it is my country forever.

The Meanderer

Finds at Least Two Shops Open to Assist Last-Hour Holiday Buyers.

Patriotism for a penny in the shape of a tiny flag—or patriotism expressed in silken red, white and blue draped from an imposing standard for $15 or more—or more flippant expressions of the feeling for country in whimsical small trinkets for a dime or so—all these you can find in a novelty shop on 13 street, open to the public until 6 o'clock today.

If you are needing last-minute paraphernalia for the picnic, drop into this S street emporium on your way out of town. Packages of paper picnic goods, sufficient for six persons, sell there for 10 cents; thermal food jugs are 79 cents, the kind that usually cost $1.25 to $1.50, and paper napkins in packages of 100, sell three packages for 19 cents.

Sailboats for juvenile amusement, while the elders rest, are in infinite variety in this E street shop full of supplies and trinkets. The little boats are guaranteed to sail, made with the much-needed rudders in the right place. Other boats that will draw grown-ups from their idea of holiday amusement are miniature fire-fighting boats, cargo boats and a toy speed boat that will actually spurt out into the water 100 feet, turn about and return to the skipper on shore. Washington as known this new toy only a eek or so, and for the child who nas everything" it is the perfect gift. It is durable, made of rustproof material and costs just $3.49.

If the Fourth is to be marked by celebration in the form of many glasses of liquid refreshments, the sets of 32 coasters of water-proofed paper will be interesting at 25 cents.

A big paper steamboat intended for presentation of bon voyage gifts might be patriotically decorated and put to use for the patriotic party. This nautical affair is rentable at $1 an evening. Other large paper decoration ideas you might want some time, if not today, include many matrimonial suggestions in the way of wedding bells, wedding figures, and what have you.

A Fourth of July special in a popular candy shop today is 2 pounds of its candy, regularly selling for 60 cents a pound, for $1. Several ways of preparing attractive holiday packages have been devised in this shop—such as the tying of miniature wooden spinning wheels to the candy box with red, white and blue ribbons. Favors of sailboats with lollypops, and candy packages topped with candy firecrackers and dozens of intriguing ideas are ready for the last-minute holiday shopper in this candy shop, which is open all day, by the way.

So far the Meanderer hasn't offered anything for man-size entertainment in the shopping column today, but this concluding item fulfills that virile requirement, to-wit: A bamboo fishing rod that has always cost $6.50 in other summers is now just $4 in the same shop.

With a Bang!

(All rights protected by the George Matthew Adams Service—Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

"What is all this noise—it's been going on since daybreak," frets Judy. "Of course Little Brother and Sister are darlings but they can get on an older sister's nerves!" Judy's dressing gown is of pale Ice blue crepe with a sash of orange-red satin and a single jeweled clip.

Judy is a typical young modern in this fresh costume that looks as if it had just come from under the iron. The white pique frock, neatly laced and stitched is topped by a coat of heavy ribbed cotton. A neat, freshly scrubbed appearance has become a passion with the younger set.

"Ladies and gentlemen, step up and see the largest fire cracker go bang," shouts Little Brother. Of course Sister is his charmed audience. She wears a white pique play suit trimmed with navy blue. Brother's white linen blouse and short sport red and blue bindings and buttons.

"Look what my Daddy brought me—a real sky rocket. We have to wait until most dark!" What a quaint one she is in an old-fashioned dress of checked gingham. The very young man takes the sun in red and white striped shorts with detachable red suspenders.

Tomorrow—In Town.

What's Good to Eat

By Ann Barrett

And because he wants to make up for the lost years of his childhood when ice cream was a luxury way out of reach.

A human interest story there—that will waken chilhood memories for many an adult. Memories of days when ice cream was at best a company or special occasion dish. Not a staple dessert to be ordered up ready made from some neighboring store, or made casually in an electric freezer that turns itself or produced like magic from an automatic refrigerator.

1933 Equipment and Methods.

As it is today, new equipment and methods are constantly creating a new stir in the exciting business of making ice cream at home. On the equipment side of the excitement, there are so many new gadgets and utensiles I urge you to visit your stores and see them—if you haven't done so already.

As for the methods, I try to sum up here the latest words of wisdom.

First, about freezing ice cream. Freeze fast, in the coldest compartment you have, when using the mechanical refrigerator. Stir ice cream from front to back of tray about every hour, to break up ice crystals and make mixture smoother. (There's a special new gadget for this that stirs the ice cream without your having to take out the tray.) But freeze as slow as you can when using the crank method, if you like your cream velvety smooth. This means not only turning the handle slowly and steadily, but going light on the salt, too.

Second, in the matter of flavoring. Remember that this fades out when the cream is frozen. So, if you like high flavoring use a little more of it. Sweetness freezes ot , too, but beware of using too much sugar, as it retards freezing.

Thickening Ingredients.

Third, about ingredients that help to thicken and smooth ice cream. Cream is the first of these, whether you're making your ice cream in a freezer or an automatic refrigerator. But if you prefer ingredients that are less rich and expensive, these are fine, too: Eggs, condensed or evaporated milk, cornstarch, flour, quick-cooking tapioca, gelatin, light corn sirup, marshmallows, tablets or powders for junkets.

Fourth, about freezing equipment. Various makes offer so much I advise you to know the manufacturer's directions for using, and follow these carefully.

Vanilla Custard Ice Cream.

Now for a vanilla custard ice cream that illustrates some of the above principals.

First, beat three eggs thoroughly, and gradually beat into them three-quarters cup sugar and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Then stir in three cups rich milk (scalded in top of double boiler) and mix till sugar is completely dissolved. Return mixture to double boiler and cook over hot (not boiling) water till thick. Then remove from fire, add one teaspoon vanilla, and cool.

Put this into coldest automatic refrigerator tray and freeze, loosening the ice cream from sides and stirring from front to back every half hour for first hour and a half. Or put into can of freezer and turn till frozen. (Three parts chopped ice to one part coarse ice cream salt is standard proportion for freezing this way.) But if you have the patience for slower freezing, you'll get smoother cream with eight parts ice to one part salt.

Variations.

For a richer ice cream, use only two cups of milk in above recipe, and add one cup medium thick cream whipped soft to custard when cool.

You'd like to turn the above recipe into chocolate ice cream? Then melt two squares (ounces) unsweetened chocolate in the hot milk. And increase sweetness by adding 4 tablespoons light corn sirup to sugar and eggs.

You can easily have a good fruited custard from the basic recipe this way: Sweeten two cups of any fruit to your own taste. Then heat it through, cool it and add to cooled custard mixture. Omit vanilla.

Without fruit this recipe makes about five cups of ice cream. With fruit, it makes upward of two quarts.

Send for More Recipes.

I've been so eager to give you the full story on this one standard recipe that I've held myself down on a dozen or so other elegant ice creams. But I've packed them all into a brand-new bulletin for you. Mousses and parfaits and sherbets and ices. Special, delicious concoctions like Nesselrode pudding, French vanilla ice cream, biscuit Tortoni, gingersnap ice cream. Sauces for ice cream, too. And more guide posts for making every recipe a triumph.

Culbertson's Bridge

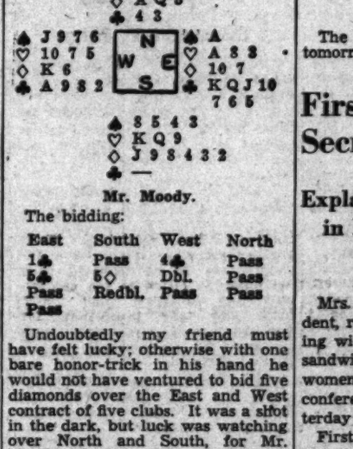
THE WHIMS OF LUCK.

UNQUESTIONABLY there is such a thing as luck in Bridge—luck in the choice of your partner, luck in the question of finesses and luck in all the psychological elements of the game. There is no luck, however, or rather the element of luck is very small, in the dealing of the cards. One moment you find your hand studded with honors, the next you may hold a near Yarborough. But in the long run these things even themselves up.

My friend, Mr. R. E. Moody, of Pasadena, Calif., sent me a hand the other day which illustrates one of the whims of luck, but the luck in it was not in the dealing of the cards, but in the events that had preceded it and the psychology of the players in the game. Mr. Moody and his partner on the previous hand had just bid and made a Grand Slam, when their opponent in the East dealt the hand below:

East, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



Mr. Moody.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♣	Pass	4♣	Pass
5♣	5◇	Dbl.	Pass
Pass	Redbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

Undoubtedly my friend must have felt lucky; otherwise with one bare honor-trick in his hand he would not have ventured to bid five diamonds over the East and West contract of five clubs. It was a shot in the dark, but luck was watching over North and South, for Mr. Moody, after trumping the Opening club lead, first finessed the diamonds, successfully capturing the King, then took a double spade finesse, forcing out the Ace. After all this had happened, the contract was safe, as the heart Knave could be established for a discard of the losing spade.

The hand itself does not prove any particular point, except that in Bridge, as in life, when things are going well for you, it is probably wise to play your hunches and trust your luck. In life, when we are not getting the breaks, we are all inclined to be careful about taking chances, but when our guesses prove successful and result profitably, the wise man banks on the element of good luck, knowing that the time will come when the fickle jade will turn her back upon him.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If you were South playing a contract of three notrump, how would you plan the play of the hand to win the greatest number of tricks, provided West opened with the club 4?

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

First Lady Bares Secrets in Cooking

Explains Method She Uses in Making Sandwiches From Wieners.

Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the President, revealed her method of cooking wieners and making "hot dog" sandwiches to a score of newspaper women who attended her press conference at the White House yesterday morning.

First, to cook the delectable wiener you must cut a long, strong stick and point the end carefully. Then put the wiener, split down the middle, on it and hold it over a fire which has been allowed to almost die down.

The Roosevelts always show their guests how to do this particular job and then to let them "roast their own." At just the right moment the wiener is popped into a roll and the "hot dog" sandwich is ready to eat.

Douglas and Mary Silent on Divorce

Miss Pickford in California and Fairbanks in London Refuse Comment.

Los Angeles, July 3 (A.P.).—Separated by thousands of miles, Mary Pickford, "somewhere in southern California," and Douglas Fairbanks in London, were equally silent tonight after the actress' announcement they contemplated living apart and possibly being divorced.

Miss Pickford was not at the palatial estate Pickfair, which has been the residence of the famous film couple since their marriage 13 years ago, and all efforts to locate her failed. Reports persisted that she had gone into seclusion at the Santa Monica Beach home of her friend, Marion Davies, but attempts to reach her there also were unavailing.

Fairbanks, returning to London after a week-end in the country, flatly refused to comment. From friends of Miss Pickford it was learned she had not heard from her husband for several days and that she does not know whether he plans to return to Hollywood in the near future.

What Today Means

By Mary Blake.

"CANCER."

INFLUENCES operating on this date will probably be of a restrictive nature. You will feel yourself tied down and hampered, with your activities limited pretty much to a small area. Athletic games requiring great freedom of movement and elasticity of muscle will suffer on this day.

The child born on this July 4 will quite possibly belong to that group of children who advance most rapidly if not kept too much in the company of others; he will gain a saner and broader outlook on life if coached at home. Travel will quite delight him and will greatly stimulate him. You can always count on this little one.

If July 4 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely an aggressive person, one who reaches out and usually gets what he goes after. Yours is a positive approach to life; you believe that forcefulness, directness and steadiness of purpose inevitably win the right of way. There is a very kindly and just streak in your make-up and you are not one to take advantage of another. When there is an opportunity to give some one a boost, more than likely you bend yourself backward trying to do that good turn. You are essentially a friendly person, but you are not forward; you do not like people who "move right in on you" on first acquaintance.

Born on July 4, you are probably a person who works largely by inspiration; your surroundings must be harmonious in order that you may do your best work. You do not thrive on adversity. Money worries trouble you greatly and it is difficult for you to throw them off. You are inclined to be a bit too sensitive; often you misinterpret the remarks of others and thus cause yourself much anguish. You are not a gay conversationalist nor are you one to hold your own in a verbal duel. A strong sense of loyalty is inherent in your character and you will stand by one you love, "to the very last ditch."

Successful people born on July 4: John Stephenson, manufacturer. Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States. Stephen C. Foster, song composer.

Missouri Opens Exhibit at Fair

Chicago, July 3 (A.P.).—Missouri's exhibit at the World's Fair, everything from a hill billy in the Ozarks to a portrayal of Charles A. Lindbergh's flight to Paris, was dedicated today.

Dedication of the exhibit, covering 9,440 square feet in the hall of States and regarded as one of the most enterprising State exhibits, was only a formality. More than 20,000 persons a day have visited the exhibit since the fair opened.

Gov. Guy B. Park, of Missouri, presented the exhibit to a Century of Prigress.

100 Educators Attend Session On Curriculum

20 States Represented at George Washington U. Conference.

Approximately 100 school superintendents, supervisors, principals and teachers, from 20 States, attended the opening session yesterday of the conference on curriculum at George Washington University, the first of three education conferences during the summer session of the School of Education.

Dr. William Cullen French, professor of education in George Washington University, directing the sessions, said that the history of education might be divided into two periods—from the beginning until 1892, and from 1892 to the present. The end of the first period he placed at so late a date, he said, because education since 1892 has gone through a revolutionary process that has done more to stimulate teachers than was done in all the preceding generations. He expressed the opinion, however, that education still is influenced by the traditional to an "unbelievable degree."

Four important experiments in curriculum revision, made in as many States, were presented to the conference by the school officials responsible. P. S. Daniels, superintendent of schools of Raleigh, N. C., explained the work done in that city in revising the course of studies. Dr. D. W. Peters, director of curriculum of Virginia; Mrs. Hazel H. Ott, who directed the commission that reorganized the curriculum in South Dakota, and Dr. Julia L. Hahn, who, prior to coming to Washington as supervising principal of elementary schools was engaged in construction of the activity program curriculum in California, also presented their work.

F. L. Redefer, secretary of the Progressive Education Association, commended the tendency to relate the schools more closely to the community, and to stress local conditions and cultural backgrounds. While it has been feared that this might restrict the student's viewpoint, he said, the child is brought to an intelligent interest in national and international problems through an appreciation of conditions observed at first hand. Thus children who are led to question why their fathers can not secure work and why there are doles and breadlines in their communities, acquire the instinct and the background for a study of national and international economic conditions.

The conference will be resumed tomorrow afternoon and will continue through Saturday.

The Mode . . . . . Dare

"MY, how fresh you are!"

"Sir!"

"I mean, you look like something too sweet for words—all preserved in cellophane!"

"Well, it isn't cellophane, but it looks like it, and it does keep me fresh and sweet, so there and there and there!"

She said, as they strolled off hand-in-hand to get a good sun tan without a sunburn, all covered in her processed silk transparent lounging pajamas.

Simply astonishing, is what this new processed silk is! It's called "Endurette," and I wish there would be a dictionary made of all the new and astonishing and marvelous materials and fabrics that Dame Fashion has evolved for lovely ladies. Endurette is the fabric equivalent of cellophane in paper—(and if they come along and complain about it like everyone does when I try to describe a derivative for you that starts out on a lastex basis, I'll jump off the boat, and won't that be a loss to lovely ladydom!).

Endurette is processed silk, which emerges transparent, yet allowing all the health-giving rays of the sun and all of the ozone of the air through to the skin. That's what these new materials take into consideration, you know, and what old Dame Nature sometimes did not. From the style standpoint, it is charming, because it shows all of the "form divine" through—and the smart bathing suit beneath. I like mine for yachting—mine is plaid, and has a separate jacket and pajamas, so I wear the jacket sometimes and a skirt, or slacks. The pajamas are nice, of course, to wear over other pajamas—don't forget that they are transparent!

Endurette has other things to do in life, however. It makes raincoats and hats, several different hats. In fact, anything that you can think of that cellophane can't do because it's paper, endurette can do because it comes by the yard or in made-up garments, because it can be sewn, because tares can be mended with transparent adhesive tape or, as at the seam, sewn again on the machine. Remember, it's a processed silk and never was within a mile of a rubber trees—so there's nothing smelly and oil-clothey about it.

Hail, another new fabric, man made!

* * * *

And sleeves! Oh, sleeves-and-sleeves-and-sleeves! Just when I think I have told you how to make over all the sleeves even a centipede would have in its wardrobe, along come some more sleeves in my own wardrobe, which require making over, and which have problems. Well, I solve the problems with the help of the French maid and all and sundry, then I tell you how to make over the most impossible sleeves into very chic ones, and there we are all happy. So you send a stamped, self-adressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet, and find out worlds of things you never expected to find out about making new sleeves out of old enes. Ladies of the Press to Guess "Where Is Mrs. Roosevelt?"

Travel Plans to Be Kept Secret Friday as New Trip Starts.

"Where is Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt?" will be the favorite guessing game of the American press for the next two weeks. Mrs. Roosevelt announced at her press conference yesterday at the White House that she intends to start on a trip on Friday, but is going to keep her destination and entire plans secret from every one.

Usually the First Lady tells the members of her press conference, quite confidentially, her general plans and who she is taking with her when she starts off for a trip. She would give no details this time, except that she is going alone for a rest and that she is adopting an entirely new method of maintaining her incognito. She acknowledged that the system she has been using has not worked.

Mrs. Roosevelt laughed heartily over her experiences on her last motor trip with Miss Nancy Cook and Miss Marian Dickerman. She said she would feel "safely unknown" in some small town, go to bed and wake up in the morning to find the whole town out to do her honor. It was not so bad actually on the roadways. Few recognized the hatless woman at the wheel of the blue roadster as the President's wife. Mrs. Roosevelt drove the entire 347 miles with Miss Dickerman as her relief. She is very sunburned. At Farmington, Me., Mrs. Roosevelt and her companions put away their automobile and went to an all-night cafe, then retired to their rooms in the hotel without being recognized.

The next morning they were awakened by the arrival of two huge boxes of flowers, one from a 95-year-old woman florist, Mrs. Julia Swift, and one from the youngest Democrat in town, a lad six years old. Mrs. Roosevelt called on Mrs. Swift before she left, as the aged woman had a fractured hip and was not able to go to the hotel to pay her respects to the wife of the President.

In this town Mrs. Roosevelt overheard two old men talking. One of them remarked "She put her own car away last night, so I guess she will come for it this morning and we will be able to see her." When Mrs. Roosevelt went for her car she looked for the men, but they had disappeared.

The cares of a housewife overtook Mrs. Roosevelt when she joined the President and his sailing party at the Roosevelt cottage at Campobello, New Brunswick. She expected less than a dozen guests and found she had 22 on her hands. Bedrooms and sleeping accommodations had to be hastily readjusted. The cottage of the President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, nearby was used for the overflow.

To add to the domestic problems, the Campobello housewife, the standby in domestic matters of the Roosevelt family, was ill. Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Cook made the beds and performed other household tasks. There were 100 at luncheon one day, but the resourceful First Lady turned it into a picnic on the beach.

Debts and Deficits.

A reduction of expenditures, amounting to $1,020,000,000, during the fiscal year 1933, as compared with the preceding 12 months, is reported by the Treasury. In view of the fact that the public debt was increased by $3,052,000,000 during the same year, this appears to be an anomalous achievement. It is explained by the fact that advances to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation do not appear in the Federal budget, although they are represented in the increased debt.

The $3,052,000,000 increase in the national debt is made up principally of three items: An actual deficit in the Federal budget, amounting to $1,325,000,000, exclusive of funds applied to debt retirement; advances to the R. F. C., amounting to $1,277,000,000, and an increase of $445,000,000 in the general fund balance. From this analysis it is evident that taxpayers will not be called upon to repay all of this increase in the debt. Considerably more than one-half of it represents a shifting of funds in the Treasury and money lent to private concerns on interest. Repayments are now being made to the R. F. C., and these will later be reflected in a reduction of the national debt.

For some weeks the Treasury has been building up its general fund. At the close of the fiscal year this fund amounted to $862,000,000. Apparently the Treasury is preparing to meet large expenditures authorized by the last Congress. In reality it has added $445,000,000 to the national debt of 1933 in anticipation of heavy drafts upon its funds in the fiscal year 1934.

Revenue obtained from all sources increased only $74,000,000 during the year, in spite of the higher taxes adopted last summer. But some notable reductions in expenditures were made. The slash of $1,020,000,000 last year appears large because of the extraordinary items in the budget of 1932, such as the $500,000,000 capital stock of the R. F. C. and the $125,000,000 for the Federal Land Banks. But a number of other items contribute to the total savings. Approximately $119,000,000 was trimmed from the Veterans' Administration, $21,000,000 from the Treasury Department, $31,000,000 from the War Department, $68,000,000 from the Department of Agriculture, $30,000,000 from refunds and about $86,000,000 from the postal deficit.

In spite of the increase in the public debt noted on the books of the Treasury, the fiscal year 1933 was one of moderate retrenchment. Only the advances to the R. F. C. were outside of the regular budget, and these represent loans that are repayable to the Government.

A very different situation is presented at the beginning of the new fiscal year. Drastic economies have been made within the budget, but activities entirely outside of the budget call for the expenditure of billions of dollars. For the most part this money is not to be lent at interest on good security, but is to be given to the States, spent on public works and in the establishment of new financial agencies. Indications are that at the end of the present year there will be another tremendous increase in the national debt, which for the most part will have to be repaid by taxpayers.

Canada's Birthday.

The Dominion of Canada celebrated its 66th birthday on July 1. The provinces worked for several years on plans for confederation prior to 1867, and after overcoming many obstacles succeeded in framing the British North America Act, which is virtually the constitution of Canada. It was passed by Parliament and received the assent of Queen Victoria in March, 1867, and was proclaimed throughout the new dominion on July 1 of that year. At that time the dominion consisted of the four provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario, with an area of 338,224 square miles and a population of only 3,328,000. Manitoba was created a province in 1870; British Columbia joined the union in 1871; Prince Edward Island joined in 1873. All adjacent British possessions except Newfoundland were annexed in 1880, and in 1905 the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta were created.

The present area of Canada is 3,690,000 square miles, and its population in 1931 was 10,376,786. The area of the United States, excluding its possessions, is 3,026,789 square miles, and its population is 125,000,000 in round numbers. After making allowance for subpolar regions which may be regarded as uninhabitable, there is abundant room in Canada for ten times its present population.

Americans rejoice in the progress of their neighbor. The two nations live together in peace and friendship. Their commerce in the main is reciprocally advantageous. No other great area of the earth presents such a scene of peaceful industry and development as the North American continent.

Muscle Shoals Real Estate.

Efforts of the Tennessee Valley Authority to prevent an unsound real estate boom in the Muscle Shoals region have commanded the intelligent cooperation of business and civic leaders throughout the territory. Poignant memories of the Florida collapse eight years ago still linger below the Ohio. Thoughtful men who have devoted their lives and fortunes to building up the new South during the last quarter-century are determined that wild speculation in land shall not be permitted to flower from the ambitious Tennessee development program.

Despite repeated warnings against purely speculative ventures, however, the newspapers in the Muscle Shoals area reveal evidences daily of an extraordinary expansion of real estate activity. An abnormally rapid turnover in holdings is noted in both farm lands and plotted town sites up and down the river from Wilson Dam. Although official notice has been given by the local authorities that no additional workers are needed as yet, hundreds of men are flooding into the region daily. Steady streams of automobiles and trucks carry in new bands of valley pioneers from North, South and West. The acreage option contract, first emblem of an incipient frenzied land boom, already is a rapidly moving trading instrument in the real estate offices of Knoxville, Nashville, Chattanooga and Memphis.

It is always true, of course, that the line between a wholesome revival of business activity and a dangerous speculative bubble is difficult for the lay observer to mark. Particularly is this likely to be true in regions where gigantic government projects are on the engineers' blueprint boards.

Perhaps the safest guide in such cases for the man or woman with surplus funds is the opinion of those who have spent their lives on the ground. In the Tennessee Valley such citizens give warning that real estate transactions during the last sixty days have dangerously approached, if they have not actually passed in some instances, the limits of prudent operations.

Every State and every city can help the Nation to set itself resolutely against a Tennessee Valley Bubble.

Pals of the Police.

The Police Athletic League is the outgrowth of the discovery that juvenile delinquents are more often cured by baseball than by prisons and reformatories. Policemen in the overcrowded districts of large cities found it virtually impossible to catch youthful offenders whose only excitement was breaking the law. As the police became more vigilant the young criminals frequently became more furtive, and thereby more accomplished in crime.

In New York City one of the toughest gangs of boys was gradually won over by an officer in the police department, who induced the roving youngsters to form an athletic club. The practical results of this officer's work were such that there were no cases of juvenile delinquency for several months in the court of that district. The conclusion that when boys have something to do and a place to play they are not likely to become criminals, led to the founding of the "Pal League," which exists in 12 American cities and numbers about 5,000 boy members in New York City alone.

The cooperation of the police serves a further end in the rehabilitation of wayward youths. It creates again a hero in the image of the guardian of the law, a conception which was fast giving way to the gangster complex. It may be that the "Pal" and similar movements will make obsolete the conception recently embodied in a cartoon labeled "The Passing of a Hero." The drawing showed a policeman outside of a high fence around a vacant lot. As he passes he hears the voice of a boy inside: "Naw, I won't play if I got to be the cop. I want to be the gangster."

The Virgin Islands.

Two years ago the overlordship of the Virgin Islands was transferred by executive order from the Navy to the Interior Department, and an ambitious program was devised by a new civil governor. There was to be a regime of agricultural rehabilitation, educational reform, cultural expansion, and happy relief from the imaginary rigors of naval rule. Congress made a liberal appropriation for salaries and social experiments, and the way was clear for installing in the Virgin Islands an era of bliss and prosperity.

There was to be a tourist hotel, to accommodate the crowds that were expected to visit the fortunate isles. Branches of American factories were to be attracted by the cheap and intelligent native labor. Experiment stations were to teach the inhabitants how to transform their lands into gardens. Comic opera entertainments were to divert the people from memories of prosperity when rum formed the backbone of commerce. But the natives did not care to change their ways, although they enjoyed Gilbert and Sullivan and were willing to cater to the tourists. The tourists never came. Agriculture developed its ills, as it does elsewhere.

The Red Cross was helpful in stretching out the meager resources of the islands, but economy has forced it to withdraw its representatives from St. Thomas and St. Croix. About 60 per cent of the population is made up of women who are hard pressed for a living. Under naval jurisdiction there was some employment for the natives, but now there is little or none. Consequently the natives are urging the Government to transfer the islands back to the jurisdiction of the Navy.

The Virgin Islands were purchased from Denmark for $25,000,000, primarily for naval purposes. St. Thomas harbor is one of the best in the Caribbean. The area of the islands is about equal to that of the District of Columbia, and the population is less than 20,000.

The cost of the social experiment in the Virgin Islands was about $250,000 a year, of which more than one-half went to salaries for uplifters from the States. The islands may be strategically valuable to the United States, but apparently they have proved to be a poor nursery of a new civilization.

Italy's Air Fleet.

Gen. Italo Balbo's fleet of airplanes is poised at Londonderry, waiting for clearer weather before taking the 930-mile flight to Reykjavik, Iceland. Its first landfall on this continent will be Cartwright, Labrador, and the next Shediak, New Brunswick. The fleet will proceed thence via Montreal to Chicago.

Careful preparations were made months ago for taking care of the fleet at its various landing-places. Shediak was chosen because of its usual freedom from fog. It is a land-locked bay on Northumberland Strait, on the east coast of New Brunswick. The land surrounding the bay is low, and there are no strong currents. As a rule there is only one high and one low tide in 24 hours, with an average rise and fall of only four feet. Twenty-five stone anchors, each weighing 2,200 pounds, have been placed in position awaiting the arrival of the fleet.

Instead of returning via Iceland, Gen. Balbo will take the southern route, via New York, Shediak, Harbor Grace, Spain and Italy.

The Dole at Work.

Studies by the Federal Relief Administration emphasize the extent to which the United States Treasury has taken over the burden of unemployment relief throughout the country. Local efforts to alleviate human suffering appear to have been relaxed.

The Relief Administration's tabulation shows the source of all unemployment relief funds expended by public and private agencies in 28 cities during the month of May.

No less than 72.7 per cent of the total came from the Federal Treasury.

Municipalities and townships contributed 20.8 per cent of the total, and 6.5 per cent came from State funds. Private contributions made up the balance of 7 per cent.

Combined relief expenditures for the month were $29,533,827. Of this sum, $19,962,289 came directly from the Federal Government.

In the City of Chicago, Federal funds made up 95.7 per cent of the total relief expenditures. Total allotments there during the month were $5,348,000, of which $4,835,000 came from Washington. Local public funds added $219,000, and private contributions accounted for the balance of $294,000.

In New York City, relief expenditures for the months were $8,545,691, of which $5,176,035 was contributed by the United States Government. Local public funds aggregated $2,267,506, and private sources added $1,102,149.

Jersey City and Los Angeles reported no private contributions during the month, 100 per cent of the relief outlay being charged against public budgets. In Los Angeles 97.1 per cent came from Federal funds, while in Jersey City Uncle Sam contributed 96.3 of the total outlay.

In Detroit private contributions accounted for $3,519 in a total relief budget of $1,453,966 for the month.

Doubtless many States and municipalities still are endeavoring to handle their own relief burdens, as urged by President Roosevelt in his repeated appeals for local self-support. The official figures for May appear to reveal, however, a somewhat general tendency toward evasion of this pressing local responsibility.

BY KENT SAGENDORPH, IN PROGRESS MAGAZINE.

Perhaps a photographic plane is taking your own photograph now. If so, the chances are that you wouldn't know it. The plane is soaring through the sky above you so high that you can not see it or hear the drone of its great motor. But it can see you. It can count the shirts hanging on your wash line from 18,000 feet above your roof.

To make amends for this scrutiny of your back yard, the aerial camera reduces your local tax rate. It locates breeding places of tropical fever insects and brings news of vast deposits of oil, coal, timber, radium ores and of unknown hydroelectric power sites.

I know of a four-man expedition which costs the firm $4,000 a month to maintain in jungle country. They hired a regular army of peon laborers to cut a swath through the jungle. After six months they had progressed 4½ miles, and gave it up. An airplane containing a mapping camera and a trained photographer flew down there, mapped 1,800 square miles of this jungle, including the stretch that had occupied the ground crew six months, and were back at the base before the firm knew they had started.

A city tax map which took four years to make and which cost $4,000 per square mile was remade by an aerial photo crew in a month, and at a cost of $36 per square mile. It located 1,892 buildings, barns, sheds and dwellings that had never been on any previous tax map, and 52 of these were on the main street of the town, which was inhabited by 16,000 citizens.

The result was an indignation meeting of the taxpayers and a decrease of 20 per cent in the tax rate. In spite of this decrease, the town made $60,000 more than it figured on, and stopped all complaints from citizens about their high assessments.

Post Haste.

Bulletin, July 4: After four months of the new treatment Uncle Sam finds his circulation below par and Constitution suffering some strain, but showing many signs of general improvement.

The Executive family renews old acquaintance on the Indianapolis to hear report of what Prof. Moley has done to the London conference.

It becomes increasingly evident that European nations tire quickly of financial play, since Uncle Sam's pocket is no longer in the game.

If the public debt again reaches the wartime level, taxpayers will be asking for a Shermanic definition of peace.

Hitler is determined to run the church, the banks, the stork and labor in addition to the government; but all these are beside the mark.

Whether or not London is 100 in the shade we can imagine Secretary Hull getting hotter under the collar every minute.

It now seems to be Gen. Johnson's business to change the spelling to busyness.

The prize for clarity of radio diction and lucidity of his explanation of the world cotton situation goes to Prof. Tugwell.

It is evident that Budget Director Douglas employs none of those amateur axmen of the reforestation corps when he makes his cuts in Federal employee lists.

So we are to cotton to Russian trade. Is it preliminary to trading ambassadors?

Cheer up, you might be an American delegate in London taxed with responsibility, but without representation. PAUL HUDSON.

JULY THE FOURTH.

When I was ten years old I rose
At four a. m. on this great day
And, slipping quietly on tiptoes,
I joined the boy across the way.
With giant crackers he and I
Drove sleep from every adult pate,
Risking ourselves a hand or eye
Our Nation's birth to celebrate.

We thought that glorious fun! For days
And weeks our pennies we had saved
That we might greet in fitting ways
The flag which o'er us proudly waved.
A dozen different kinds of things
We'd bought designed to make a noise.
It seems explosive powder brings
Exquisite joy to little boys.

The birth of freedom! Little then
We knew or dreamed what freedom meant.
Except one early morning, when
We'd noise unto our hearts' content.
Let old folks grumble and complain,
Let eyes be blinded, faces scarred,
July the Fourth was come again
And nothing dangerous then was barred.

A saner Fourth is this we know,
Less harm is done in Freedom's name.
The old-time folly had to go
For safety's sake, but just the same
I'm glad it was my luck to share
The joys which wiser minds condemn
And tiptoe softly down the stair
To celebrate at four a. m.

Why Take the Trouble to Raise Sheep If You Let Them Fatten the Wolf?

By Robert Quillen

THIS is addressed to men whose superior industry, intelligence or luck has made them prosperous and prominent.

Twenty years ago men of your class were envied residents of Easy street. You were sitting on top of the world.

Now you are like the best-fed turkeys at Thanksgiving. Your apparent good fortune is your ruination. You are marked for slaughter. In all seriousness, you are quite literally a target for blows that the poor and unknown escape. You are the prey of criminals.

The question before you, made more insistent by each new day's headlines, is this: Are you going to take it lying down, or are you going to do something about it?

All criminals are your personal enemies. And you have no reason to fear one less than another, saying this man is a bandit and that one a kidnaper, or this one a killer and that one a mere extortioner, for the modern criminal is a Jack-of-all-trades, without heart or conscience, and will kill as readily as he will steal.

Never a day passes without a kidnaping, a robbery by bandits or some form of extortion. And soon or late your time will come, for every victim who pays encourages criminals to find another.

What are you going to do about it? What can you do?

First, you can organize. Without a combining of forces you can do nothing. With an executive head to speak for tens of thousands you can do much.

For one thing—and this is but a first step—you can deprive the criminal of weapons.

When that is suggested, partizans reply: "The Constitution guarantees the right to bear arms. And if pistols are outlawed, the criminal will somehow procure one anyway and only the law-abiding citizen will be left unarmed and helpless."

But the problem can be solved. The weapons that aid crime are the machine gun, mere possession of which confesses an intention to do murder, and the easily concealed pistol.

Outlaw both. Grant a reasonable time for the surrender of all weapons and then make it a penitentiary offense to possess—not only to carry, but to own or have on one's premises—any type of gun with a barrel less than 30 inches in length. If weapons can't be concealed, the criminal is deprived of his chief advantage. And a rifle protects the householder as well as a pistol.

To end the menace of pistols and machine guns that won't be surrendered, confiscate all present stocks of ammunition, require a permit for future purchases, and compel manufacturers to adopt new calibers for the new-type guns.

To say it can't be done is pure nonsense. The men who are menaced can do anything they determine to do. And they must do something quickly or be content to survive by paying tribute to gangsters.

Political Comment

Al Smith and the New Deal.

Topeka Capital.

While Gov. Al Smith supported the Roosevelt and Garner ticket somewhat belatedly and reluctantly, he runs true to form in assailing the new deal. He was suspicious of Roosevelt's candidacy from the start, seeing in his appeal for the "forgotten man" a dangerous and demagogical slogan. From Smith's attack on the industrial recovery act he is still confirmed in that judgment. For several years Gov. Smith has shown an increasingly conservative trend. His blast directed at the new deal, his sarcasm leveled at "academic planners who read books," is well calculated to put him forward as the hope of his party, if the Roosevelt program is a disappointment in the next three years. Gov. Smith has somewhat scornfully declared for himself that he doesn't read books.

Going to Have a Navy.

Providence Journal.

The decision of the administration to start without delay to build 32 new ships for the Navy is wise indeed. Both Great Britain and Japan have taken larger advantage of the opportunities afforded them by the London treaty than has this country. It is long past the time when we should have undertaken the building program which the present administration is now launching.

Disillusionment Coming.

The impression still seems to prevail in Europe that U. S. stands for Universal Softy.

Davis Reports Progress.

Kansas City Star.

According to Norman H. Davis, the head of the American delegation to the World Disarmament Conference in Geneva, Europe has at last reached the conclusion that "it is to be either peace or chaos." Paradoxically, perhaps, that is an encouraging report from the point of view of the conference. It has been observed that the willingness of governments to make concessions in such a conference is likely to depend upon the degree of their desperation. If European statesmen really have become convinced that something will have to be done to reduce the waste and danger from their extravagant armaments, the prospects for the success of the Geneva conference will have brightened very distinctly.

Veterans' Bureau Economies.

Topeka Capital.

It is estimated that the compromise law for the reduction of veterans' allowances will enable the President to cut the budget of the Veterans' Bureau $320,000,000 annually, or about one-third, in place of the original $420,000,000 reduction intended by the administration. The compromise, in a word, liberalized the President's plan by about $100,000,000.

The chief saving made to taxpayers is in allowances to veterans suffering from disabilities not due to war service. It is calculated that some 60,000 to 65,000 veterans of the Spanish War will go off the pension roll. Those disabled by infirmities of age or other causes not connected with the service who remain on the roll will receive $15 a month as a basic rate.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

MILLYTHROOPS AND THE MARKET.

Mr. Millythroops, it seemed clear, was through with the stock market. Wild horses, it appeared, could never drag him back. "I'm cured," he said in the winter of 1929. "If I ever get out of this with a whole shirt, they'll never see me monkeying with the market again."

• • • •

In 1930 he was even more vociferous. "Never again!" he bellowed on all occasions. "I got my experience and did I pay through the nose? It served me right. The only way to get ahead is by hard work and a little saving every Saturday night. Let the wise guy take all those chances with common stocks. Not me!"

• • • •

All through 1931 Mr. Millythroops showed no change of sentiment. "When I look back I wonder that I could ever have been such a damned fool," he argued. "I work all my life on a salary and I finally save up a little money for the rainy day. And then I go risk it in the market! Well, it was a good thing at that. It taught me a lesson I will never forget."

• • • •

Last year some friends of Millythroops began to suggest that market prices were at ridiculously low levels. They pointed to American Can in the 30's Telephone around 90 and New York Central under $15 a share. Millythroops laughed at them. "You fellows buy 'em. Never again for me!" he shouted. "I got all I wanted of common stocks in 1929. It taught me that you can't get anywhere playing a game you don't understand. I save a little each week. It takes a long time to get ahead, but it's the only way in the end."

• • • •

"But these stocks are down where a fellow can't go wrong. It's at a time like this that the smart fellows acquire them," Millythroops was told.

"Let the smart fellers take 'em," said Millythroops. "Never no more for mine, thanks! The little woman and I have agreed to make our little pile in the old safe and sure way. I wouldn't put a dollar in the best stocks on the board."

• • • •

Millythroops felt the same way in March of this year. The market was in the doldrums. "Are you picking up anything?" I asked.

"I wouldn't touch 'em, even with your money," he replied.

• • • •

Last week I saw Millythroops on the street. He was rushing through Broadway in great excitement, a wild look in his eyes.

"What's all the rush?" I asked.

"Can't stop! . . . . Sorry! . . . . See you later! . . . . Wanna get to broker's office for the opening," he panted.

Stocks had jumped 20 to 60 points since I had last seen him.

"You're not playing the market at these levels?" I asked.

"Got in yestiddy," said Millythroops. "Chance of a life-time! . . . . Real bull movement! . . . . Telephone's good for 150! . . . . Pick yourself up some Can and hold for 125! . . . . Can't stop! . . . . Call me up sometime . . . . Gotta hurry to meet the wife."

"Where's the wife?" I asked.

"She's at the broker's office," snapped Millythroops, disappearing in the crowd.

DEVELOPING THE CODE IDEA.

Judging by these reports of dissension at Washington among the business controllers it would seem possible that a code would be needed to bar unfair competition among the code makers.

• • • •

Elmer Twitchell says that ethics on public links have fallen lower than the dollar. "In the past," he says, "you had to be vigilant to see that nobody stole your ball off the ground before you could reach it, but today they snatch 'em out of the air in full flight."

Oil Code to Aid In Preventing Secret Prices

Program Will Also Help to Conserve Large Investments.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 3.—Secret practices and secret prices which have in the past undermined the crude oil price structure should be eliminated under the code of fair competition drawn by the leaders of the oil industry in keeping with the spirit of the national industrial recovery act, it is pointed out in the T. S. Hose review of the petroleum situation.

"The code agrees," says the review, "that the sale of crude petroleum below the actual cost of production is contrary to the policy of national conservation expressed in the national industrial recovery act, and it provides that every producer will be currently required to post publicly the price offered and to report monthly under oath as to quantity purchased, by whom transported, from whom purchased and the price paid.

Reports on Prices.

If secret prices other than those posted are paid, the fact will be reported to the United States Government officials in charge of the recovery act, and the violator will be dealt with under this law.

"The value of the properties affected is in the neighborhood of $1,000,000,000. The cost of producing a barrel of crude as last determined by the United States Bureau of Mines, is $1.10. The existing posted price is 50 cents. The estimated amount of crude that should be produced per day to allow a liberal withdrawal from storage is 2,000,000 barrels. A price increase of 60 cents a barrel would mean $1,200,000 a day to the industry.

It is not expected that the price of crude will immediately advance to $1.10 or more, but frequent small advances may be expected to an ultimately higher figure. This is not the important factor. The gratifying fact to thousands of operators and hundreds of thousands of stockholders is that their properties are to be saved and their investments made secure."

Hunting for Creditors.

Trustees in dissolution of the Splitdorf Electrical Co. report that they are in the somewhat novel, but by no means unique, position of wanting to make a part payment in cash to all creditors of the company, but are having difficulty locating some of them.

A liquidation dividend amounting to 8 per cent of the total claims of creditors against the Splitdorf Company was recently declared by the liquidating trustees. A portion of this total sum was set aside for holders of the company's outstanding five-year 7 per cent convertible debentures and is now on deposit with The Chase National Bank of New York. Neither the bank, nor the trustee, have been able thus far to find a scattering number of the bondholders who are entitled to payment, but still are unpaid.

A message to these remaining unpaid creditors issued by the dissolution trustees, states that the Chase National, as Trustee, "will distribute this sum to the holders of such debentures upon the surrender thereof for stamping," and advises that "the debentures, appropriately stamped, will be returned to the owners thereof with checks in the proper amounts."

The trustees in dissolution of the company are Charles Edison, C. S. Williams, jr., Ernest J. Howe, Henry Lanahan, E. C. Reed, H. F. Miller and J. V. Miller with H. H. Eckert, as secretary. The Splitdorf Electrical Company was formerly the Splitdorf-Bethlehem Electrical Company, with headquarters in West Orange, N. J.

Land Bought for Oil Dock on Rahway River

Carteret, N. J., July 3 (A.P.).—The Carteret Storage & Terminal Co., Inc., of Chicago, has purchased an 18-acre tract from the American Mineral Spirits Corporation along the Arthur Kill near the mouth of the Rahway River. Papers filed with the county clerk Saturday afternoon bearing $750 worth of stamps revaled that the transaction involved a purchase price of $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

The new concern will immediately start construction of docks and oil transportation facilities. Arrangements are being made to construct a large oil terminal here where oil may be stored pending shipment.

nce Will Float Loan Of Two Billion Francs

Paris, July 3 (A.P.).—The French government will float a ten-year loan for 2,000,000,000 francs beginning July 4 to cover the continuing deficit.

The loan, which will bear 4½ per cent interest, will be issued at 962.50 francs for each 1,000-franc bond and the 1,000-franc bonds will be redeemed at 1,100 francs. It is expected by the finance ministry that the proceeds of this loan will take care of the government's needs until the autumn.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Wool goods—It is reported in the trade that business has quieted considerably in the last two days because of the reluctance or inability of mills to name prices on piece goods. The difficulty in figuring prices, according to the mills, lies in the probable shortening of the work week, wage revisions and increasing prices on yarns and tops.

Dyestuffs — Fluctuations in exchange continue to restrict business in many materials. There are some indications of a good potential demand from the tanning industry, but both buyers and sellers are said to be reluctant to close contracts.

Paper—Coarse and fine papers are said to be moving to consumers in good volume. Prices are firm in most departments of the market.

Gasoline—Trade sources say that prices continue to strengthen throughout the country and that refiners are less inclined to sell ahead at current quotations.

Russia Gets Blame For Lumber Loss

Soviet Production Rises to 23,500,000 Cubic Meters.

London, July 3 (A.P.).—Responsibility for the collapse of the timber market was laid today at the door of Soviet Russia by E. N. Rhodes, Canadian finance Minister. The Canadian minister quoted figures to show that Soviet timber production had risen from 10,800,000 cubic meters in 1926 to 23,500,000 in 1931. Mr. Rhodes expressed the hope that the conference would arrive at some solution of the world timber problem and that concerted action might bring about a readjustment of supply and demand.

The combined timber exports of England, Sweden Norway and Poland declined 39 per cent from 1928 to 1932, Mr. Rhodes said, while those of the Soviet Union for the same period showed an increase of 75 per cent. Rapid fall in prices has not checked the quantities of timber exported from Russia, the Canadian delegate declared.

"Under these circumstances an adjustment of supply to demand is not possible. It would appear that Russian timber is exported and sold without regard to the cost of production. The available evidence would indicate that no account is taken of such items of cost as interest on capital and allowance for depreciation of plant. The industry (in Russia) is State-owned and controlled and labor must accept the conditions and wages laid down by a state which is in a position to fix them at a scale necessary to enable the industry to sell its product on foreign markets. Faced with this competition other exporting countries have had to curtail their exports, and in some cases even their reduced exports have been possible only through a general lowering in the standard of living of timber workers."

Trade Upswing Is Seen Setting All-Time Mark

Week's Statistics Provide Proof of Benefits at All Points.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—The moving belt of advancing prices and improving business gathered additinal speed during the past week.

Experienced observers agree that the momentum with which general industry has rebounded from its all-time bottom levels of three months ago is probably unparalleled in the country's history. Concrete evidence of gain is now the rule rather than the exception. Whereas a few months ago, merchandise could not be moved at any price, now an actual shortage of goods is becoming apparent in some trades, with orders in excess of current production schedules.

Statistics covering last week's operations provide fresh proof that business expansion is steadily reaching all parts of the country, with basic industries once more striding vigorously into new high territory.

Output of Automobiles.

Production schedules of automobile companies have, contrary to the usual practice, been revised upward with the approach of the dog days. The peak of the season, say these surprised executives, is yet to be reached. Production last week totaled 59,638 units, according to estimates by Cram, the highest weekly figure recorded since the week ended June 6, 1931. Used car sales likewise advanced sharply to a new weekly high of the year to date.

The latest gain in electric power output—amounting to 10.9 per cent over a year ago—was the largest since 1929 and the eighth successive weekly advance this year. Traffic handled by the railroads for the week of June 24 amounted to 604,668 cars, 21.2 per cent ahead of last year, and the first time weekly loadings passed the 600,000 mark since October, 1932.

The last report was the seventh consecutive seven days' period to show an increase over 1932. Ordinarily there is a seasonal decline in rail traffic at about this period.

Output of Steel.

Steel production last week stood at 54 per cent of capacity, an advance of 3 points, as computed by the magazine Steel. Market reports for all districts, it is pointed out, as well as for all products, emphasize an expanding demand in most cases, occasionally a stationary condition, but nowhere a decline.

A cross section of trade reports shows that no seasonal abatement in retail demand is yet discernible, and no recession is expected during July. With many merchants repricing their lines, these advances have not been so abrupt as in the wholesale trade.

The wholesale markets enjoyed greater activty last week than the preceding seven days, with reorders partcularly heavy in textiles, fabrics and leather goods.

Railway Bonds Drive Market To New Highs

High-Grade Loans Maintain Position; Sales Up to $17,655,000.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Secondary rail loans gave the bond market a fast ride today and enabled prices generally to land well up around their highest levels for the past year or more.

While the highest grade issues did not exhibit any great enthusiasm over further depreciation of the dollar in terms of foreign exchanges, they maintained a fairly steady position and most United States Government securities moved up moderately. The inflationary implications of the President's currency stabilization veto, however, apparently motivated many of the low-priced maturities.

Sales totaled $17,655,000, per value, the most speculative groups accounting for the largest part of this aggregate. The average for 80 domestic corporate bonds advanced six-tenths of a point.

Active carrier gainers of 1 to 5 or more points included some of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Frisco, Seaboard Air Line, Southern Pacific and Wabash.

Among the better utilities and industrials were Colon Oil 6s, up 7¾ points; Colorado Industrial 5s, up 4¼; International Telephone 4½s and 5s, up 1¼ to 2½; Fisk Rubber 8s, up 2¼; Paramount Publix 5½s, up 5½; U. S. Rubber 5s, up 1½, and Western Union 5s, up 1 to 1½.

Advances of 1 to 3 or more points were recorded by obligations of Argentina, France, Switzerland and Japan. British 5½s, up three-quarters, reached another new 1933 high at 109½. German government issues were off 1½ to 2½ points, and some Polish loans were heavy.

Stocks Again Capture Year's Highest Peaks

Advances Along Broad Front Mark Buoyant Dealing; Gains Average 3.4 Points; Sales Mount to 6,746,650 Shares.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—A sharp drop in dollar exchange and spectacular gains in stocks and commodities reflected the markets' inflationary views of President Roosevelt's statement on currency stabilization today.

Shares advanced from $1 to $10 on a broad front. The turnover of 6,746,650 shares in the stock market saw the Associated Press-Standard statistics averages of 90 stocks whirled up to a new high mark since September, 1931. At the close of 92.3, the day's improvement amounted to 3.4 points.

Doubtless surprised by the forceful manner in which the President rejected the overtures of the gold standard countries for temporary currency stabilization, Wall street quickly leapt to the conclusion that it meant potential inflation and charged in to acquire large blocks of stocks. Transfers of from 1,000 to 5,000 shares were frequent during the day. Rail and farm implement issues were among the most brilliant performers, although all groups participated in the advance. Spurred by forecasts of substantially higher freight loadings—based upon reports from shippers—the carrier issues attracted a large following and the leaders climbed with dizzy speed.

Union Pacific took first place in this list with a net advance of more than 10 points, but Delaware & Hudson was a close second when it scored a gain of over 8 points. New York Central spurted some 7 points, crossing 51. Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Reading and Norfolk & Western were up from 3 to more than 6 points.

Farm equipment shares surged up with the grain markets, though reports that the prospective cotton credit for Russia might be followed by a similar accommodation to facilitate purchases of agricultural machinery also seemed to interest traders. Metal company issues were rather quiet, notwithstanding announcement, late in the day, that copper metal had sold at 8¼ cents a pound, up ¼ cent and the highest price in more than a year.

Several of the minor commodity exchanges were closed, but higher prices were the rule on such as were open. Sugar futures improved three to five hundredths of a cent per pound. The copper, tin, silver, rubber, hide and silk futures markets had a holiday. Cotton's net advance was 55 cents to $1.15 a bale.

In addition to Union Pacific, New York Central and Steel preferred, other active share gainers included Case, up $4.75, at $95.25; Allied Chemical, up $4.12, at $133.37; U. S. Steel common, up $2.50, at $62.37; American Telephone, up $1.75, at $131.25; Baltimore & Ohio, up $4.25, at $32.50; Santa Fe, up $4.50, at $73; Bethlehem Steel, up $3.50, at $46; Chrysler, up $1.87, at $38.25; Columbian Carbon, up $4.50, at $69.50; Consolidataed Gas, up $2.50, at $60.37; Delaware & Hudson, up $8.12, at $91; Du Pont, up $1.87, at $82.50; International Harvester, up $2.12, at $42.75; Nash, up $3.75, at $24.12; National Distillers, up $2.87, at $100.25; Postal Telegraph preferred, up $4.87, at $30.50; Reading, up $5.25, at $62; United Aircraft, up $1.87, at $37.62; U. S. Industrial Alcohol, up $2.50, at $64, and Woolworth, up $1.37, at $47.62.

Indiana Crops Damaged.

Hammond, Ind., July 3 (A.P.).—Lloyd E. Cutler, county agricultural agent, said today that crops in Lake County were damaged to the extent of $400,000 or $500,000 by Sunday's hail and wind storm. He said wheat and barley would not be worth cutting in northern Lake County.

Raleigh, N. C., July 3 (A.P.).—North Carolina farmers who have signed contracts to retire cotton of this year's crop under the Federal reduction program up to today had pledged only 22,594 acres out of a needed 363,000, but Dean I. O. Schaub, of North Carolina State College, directing the drive, continued to express confidence the quota would be reached.

Reports from eighteen counties today added 3,261 acres pledged to be removed out of 8,276 acres now growing cotton. The new data raised the pledged acreage for retirement to only about 5 per cent of the quota, although the campaign is in its eighth day and must be finished by Saturday night.

London—Trading on the stock exchange was inclined to slacken while awaiting deliberations at the World Economic Conference, but professionals supported oils, industrials and kaffirs. Transatlantic issues strengthened after the firm opening in Wall street. German bonds eased, while gilt-edged securities lost the early gains. Argentine Rails were firm. The closing was quiet.

Paris—Prices on the bourse had the strongest upward movement in some time following the dollar's depreciation. Heavy advances were made in all sections except rentes which sold lower. Prices mounted quicker than they could be posted in the flood of transactions. The closing tone was strong.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse closed unsettled due to unencouraging news from the London conference.

Newberry, S. C., July 3 (A.P.).—Semiannual dividends of more than $100,000 have been paid by three large cotton mills here, officials said today.

The Mollohon Manufacturing Co. paid 3½ per cent on $1,071,150 capital stock; the Oakland Manufacturing Co., 3½ per cent on $1,010,000, and the Newberry Cotton Mills, 3 per cent on $1,000,000.

New York, July 2 (A.P.).—Dividend meetings are scheduled for this week by directors of General Foods, Homestake Mining, Kroger Grocery and Union Oil of California, among other companies.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Financial and commodity markets throughout the country will be closed tomorrow in their customary observance of Independence Day.

The Guaranty Trust Co. of New York statement for June 30 shows deposits of $1,087,621,195, compared with $952,543,090, on March 31 and $1,038,778,217 on December 31, 1932. Capital surplus and undivided profits on June 30 were $267,266,269, against $271,233,494 on December 31.

Business failures in June totaled 1,648, compared with 1,909 in May, and were the lowest for any month in the past four years, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., report.

The New York Central Railroad Co. announced today that it would sponsor a move to eliminate from railroad baggage tariffs the prohibition against checking of empty trunks, which is now in effect on all railroads throughout the country. Such action, the company said, would be in line with its campaign to encourage travel by liberalizing old-time baggage rules.

New York Stock Exchange firms are operating fewer summer branch offices than they did during the bull campaign of 1928-29, but it is said in brokerage quarters that commissions originating in these seasonal offices have been of substantial proportions. Last summer the market was in the doldrums and many of the branches failed to earn their expenses.

World consumption of cotton of all kinds during May was the largest for any month since January, 1930, amounting to approximately 2,212,000 bales against 2,032,000 in April and 1,854,000 in May, 1932, the New York Cotton Exchange service reported today. During the first 10 months of the season world consumption was 20,401,000 bales against 19,457,000 during the corresponding portion of last season.

The Commodity Exchange, Inc., remained closed today for trading in silver, tin, copper, hides, silk and rubber futures. Other security and commodity exchanges operated as usual but all markets will be suspended tomorrow in observance of Independence Day.

Price of Copper Rises To New High for Year

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Copper edged up to a new high for the past year or more today when metal was sold in the domestic market at 8¼ cents a pound delivered to the end of October. Sales were small at this price, but there were a number of inquiries which dealers were hoping would develop into business at the new high rate.

Change Looms In Publishing Bank's Figures

Restricted Houses Expect to Quit News Printing of Statements.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

Restricted banking institutions here and elsewhere will not be required to publish their statements of condition in newspapers following the next call for these by the office of the Comptroller of the Currency, it was understood yesterday. Their statements will be for the information of the foregoing office alone.

Procedure with regard to a call for statements of condition by banks, now imminent, has been the subject of considerable speculation on the part of bankers throughout the country for the past several days.

There has been wide discussion as to how the office of the Comptroller of the Currency will proceed with the customary second quarterly call, usually made during the first week of July for statements of condition as at the close of business, June 30.

Deal With Conditions.

The coming call will deal with conditions entirely unprecedented in that it will be the first to be issued following the national banking holiday of last March. The first of three calls made mandatory each year by banking laws, was issued January 5, 1933. This was for statements of condition as at close of business December 31, 1932.

The 34 banking institutions then in operation here responded to this call. Since then, President Roosevelt declared the national banking holiday at the expiration of which, 13 local banks failed to receive licenses to do 100 per cent banking business. One of the latter has since become a branch of an unrestricted bank. Eight are merging to form a new national bank. Two are seeking to reopen as national banks and two have not yet made known their plans. A fourteenth institution has gone into a receivership since the foregoing date.

Although the Treasury Department has not made public its plans regarding the daily expected call for the second quarter of 1933, it is believed that while all 32 licensed and unlicensed banks of Washington will be asked to file statements of condition with the office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the conservators of the 12 unlicensed banks will not be required to publish these in newspapers of general circulation. The latter provision will be applicable only to the 20 licensed banks of the District, it is expected.

First Quarter Omitted.

As in 1932, no first quarterly call was made this year. In many years prior to 1932, four and, in some years, five calls for statements were made during each 12 months. The last call, issued January 5, 1933, revealed deposits totaling $255,194,596.13 in the 34 banks of the District functioning on December 31, 1932.

Entrance of Frigidaire Corporation, subsidiary of General Motors, into the field of heavy duty air conditioning equipment was announced recently by E. G. Biechler, president and general manager. The company is introducing nationally large capacity equipment designed to handle the air conditioning loads required for theaters, office buildings, apartment buildings, retail commercial establishments and large residences. This division of General Motors has been active in the air conditioning industry since January, 1932, when it entered the market with unit equipment for domestic and commercial purposes.

Orders received by Kelvinator Corporation in June passed the all-time record set in May, when 43,000 units were shipped from the factory, it is announced by H. W. Burritt, vice president in charge of sales.

Orders received during June totaled 44,525, which is 129 per cent greater than the best previous June record in Kelvinator history.

In announcing the June figures, Mr. Burritt said that this holding

Price of Wheat Jumps to $1.08 In Buying Rush

President's Money Stand Starts Heavy Trading; All Grains Up.

Chicago, July 3 (A.P.).—Enthusiastic buying that overwhelmed all the grain markets today following President Roosevelt's money message to the World Economic Conference took wheat aloft almost 6 cents.

Reports of damage to United States crops, although of a character seldom, of ever, equaled, were secondary to the market effects of the new declaration of the Nation's financial policy.

This was owing largely to the fact that word of big disturbances in foreign exchange as a result of the President's message came with dramatic suddenness before the grain markets opened. Traders also regarded as a foregone conclusion the nature of the crop reports.

Wheat Up to $1.08¾.

Wheat went as high as $1.08¾ a bushel for May contracts, and closed buoyant with most of the day's gains held, 3⅝ to 4¼ cents above Saturday's finish; corn, 1⅞ to 2½ up; oats, 1⅜ to 1¾ advanced, and provisions showing a rise of 5 to 25 cents.

Wheat rose in nearly a vertical line, beginning with a jump of almost 5 cents, closely accompanying news that British exchange, disturbed by President Roosevelt's action, had suffered a sudden variation of 14 points.

The wheat market, at the very moment of opening, smashed high-price records extending three years back. Corn and oats simultaneously outdid all recent top-price records. Setbacks that ensued in wheat and other grains were brief and relatively slight, with the day's highest quotations reached just before trading was ended.

Unofficial crop estimates which were issued today indicated that there had been more than 100,000,000 bushels reduction in United States spring and winter wheat crops during the past month because of abnormal heat and widespread drought.

Drought Is Unabated.

The drought today was virtually unabated, and high temperatures in parts of the wheat belt continued. One trade specialist said today's reports showed a crop disaster which for extent of grain involved and territory affected had apparently set a record, fifteen States indicating their total rainfall during June had averaged only 1.7 inches compared with a normal of 3.75 inches.

The aggregate United States wheat crop this season was unofficially estimated as the smallest in 37 years, oats the smallest in 39 years and rye the smallest in 40 years. The condition of corn was figured as the lowest on record, except in 1927 and 1924. Domestic wheat production this season was given as 200,000,000 bushels under home needs.

Corn and other grains took their cue mostly from wheat action. Provisions went sharply higher with hog values and with grains.

Wild Surge of Buying

Winnipeg, Man., July 3 (A.P.).—In a wild opening surge of buying wheat futures prices on the Winnipeg grain market today swept upward to stand 8 to 9 cents above previous closing levels.

The pit seethed with activity as traders sought to execute orders. Seemingly led by the sharp rise of Saturday in the Chicago wheat pit, traders were all on the buying side of the market. The direct source of the support was undetermined.

At the opening wheat showed the greatest advance in weeks, with July quoted at 81, October at 80 to 83 cents, December, 82 to 85, and May at 90½ cents.

December flax jumped 11⅞ cents to 14⅞, being quoted at $1.65 to $1.68.

Change Is Expected In Bank Statements

up of sales volume during June is without precedent in the electric refrigeration industry.

"The electric refrigeration sales chart, which usually produces a distinct peak in April, a tapering off in May and a decided drop in June, in the case of Kelvinator this year has become a high plateau," he said.

"We interpret this lengthening of the season as the best proof that national economy programs now under way as well as those in the offing have restored buyer confidence to such an extent that consumers, foreseeing a period of rising prices, are rushing to buy the things they have been wanting and needing."

Visible Supply of Grain.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes, in bushels: Wheat increased 1,088,000; corn increased 1,908,000; oats increased 632,000 rye increased 299,000; barley decreased 93,000.

Dollar Volume Up In Private Building

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—F. W. Dodge Corporation reported today that the dollar volume of private building construction in the first three weeks in June this year has exceeded June of last year by $10,000,000. The total, covering the 37 States east of the Rockies, was $58,000,000. Figures for all of June will run far ahead of May, said the corporation, which itself had shown the largest total of such work since May last year.

"This substantial recovery is significant," the report said, "in that it is recorded in advance of the start of the Federal public works program, and because it is contrary to the usual trend of a declining building volume with the approach of the summer months."

Truman S. Morgan, president of the corporation, in commenting on the figures, warned that the increase does not lessen the need for the Federal program, that, rather, "the improvement is a reflection of the projected program."

Spot Silver Higher.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Spot silver was quoted three-eighths cent higher today at 36¾ cents an ounce. There was no trading in silver futures on the Commodity Exchange, Inc., due to the observance of an extra holiday.

Stabilization Plan Proposed By Motor Truck Association

Chicago, July 3 (A.P.).—A six-point program for stabilization of the motor freight industry was sketched for Hugh S. Johnson, U. S. industrial administrator, in a letter dispatched today by the Illinois Motor Truck Operators Association.

Walter E. McCarron, associate manager, urged that a conference of rail and motor freight executives be called to draft a transportation policy.

The program suggested by the truckmen:

1. Maintenance of adequate wage scales and strict limitation of hours of work by truck drivers.
2. Adequate financial responsibility on the part of truck operators.
3. Establishment of uniform, pub-

$335,000,000 Cut From Match Claim

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—More than $335,000,000 was cut from the claim of Kreuger & Toll against the International Match corporation in an amended proof claim filed today with Federal Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn by Edward S. Greenbaum, trustee in bankruptcy for the Swedish company.

The amended claim totaled only $52,282,418, as against the previous claim of $389,445,330. July 1 had been set by the referee as the last day on which amended claims could be filed.

Greenbaum, in filing the amended claim, said the accounts between the two companies have not been thoroughly oriented and reserved the right to make further changes when the new intercompany debts are discovered. Referee Ehrhorn set July 10 for a hearing on the amended claim.

$2 Cotton Gain Is Trimmed by Closing Dealing

October Sells at 10.61, With General Market Up to 23 Points.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—An early advance of approximately $2 a bale in cotton was followed by partial reactions today under realizing.

October contracts closed at 10.61, with the general market closing barely steady at net advances of 11 to 23 points.

The opening was 35 to 43 points higher with the more active positions selling 40 to 45 points net higher during the first few minutes.

Reports that arrangements had been made for financing sales of between 60,000 to 80,000 bales of cotton to Russia, together with the strength in wheat and securities, were contributing factors on the advance.

Market Meets Realizing.

Later the market met a great deal of realizing. Selling became more active toward the close, and final quotations showed reactions of about 19 to 25 points from the high prices of the morning.

Liverpool reported the market there steady on Bombay buying. Exports today, 40,998, making 7,903,859 so far this season. Port receipts, 12,151. U. S. port stocks, 3,429,411.

A private crop report pointed to an increase of 9.2 per cent in acreage and placed the condition of the crop at 74.5 per cent compared with 76, the ten year average. These figures were said to point to a crop of 13,500,000 bales on the planted acreage, but should the Government plan of withdrawing ten million acres from cultivation prove successful, the crop would be then only approximately 9,500,000 bales.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service estimated world's consumption of all growths during May at 2,212,000 bales compared with 1,854,000 last year, and placed consumption of all kinds for the first ten months of the season at 20,401,000 bales against 19,457,000 last year.

Baltimore Tunnel Ordered Finished

Philadelphia, July 3 (A.P.).—The Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that orders have been mailed to the Arundel Corporation, of Baltimore, to proceed at once with the completion of the new tunnel through Baltimore.

This tunnel is part of the railroad's general improvement program in that city amounting to millions of dollars, work on which was suspended at the beginning of last year. The tunnel must be finished before the road can be electrified.

In addition to this, 200 men will be put to work at once erecting poles for the electrification from Wilmington, Del., to Washington, D. C. The poles have been on the ground and in freight cars along the line for some time. No orders have been issued for stringing the wires or to proceed with other work in connection with the electrification of the road. It now is electrified from New York to Wilmington.

Pig Iron Yield Is Increased to 54 Per Cent

28 Blast Furnaces Opened in June, Record Since October, 1922.

Cleveland, July 3 (A.P.).—Pig iron production for the week ended Saturday was at 54 per cent of capacity, a rise of 7 points since the first week of June, it was reported by the magazine Steel today.

"Twenty-eight blast furnaces stacks were lighted in June—the greatest gain for any month since October, 1922—making 89 active and lifting the daily rate of pig iron production to 42,500 gross tons," said the magazine.

"This daily average was the highest since July, 1931, and gave June a total of 1,261,600 tons, compared with 892,326 tons in May and 626,015 tons last June. In no month since August, 1931, has so much pig iron been produced.

Gain at Plants.

"Of this net gain of 28 in active stacks, making a total of 51 restored to service in the past three months, all but one were at steel works, supporting the rapid improvement in steel ingot activity from 47 per cent in the first week of June to 54 per cent last week.

"The rise of 3 points in the steel rate last week was largely due to the advance of 6 points in eastern Pennsylvania, to 39½ per cent; 5 points at Pittsburgh, to 46 per cent, and 3 points at Chicago, to 53 per cent. Cleveland also rose 3 points to 82 per cent; Wheeling, 2 points to 86.

"While Birmingham remained stationery at 50 per cent last week, and Buffalo at 48, advances of 25 and 26 points, respectively, are scheduled for this week, insuring a further increase in the national steel rate this week, probably to above 55 per cent. New England Steel Works, which slipped back 10 points last week, are expected to recover 12 points and go to 83 per cent.

Expansion of Demand.

"Market reports for all districts and all products note expanding demand in most cases, occasionally a stationary condition, but nowhere a decline. Due to the expiration of second quarter contracts Friday, specifications were issued against practically every pound remaining, this alone assuring a brisk first half of July and upsetting the seasonal trend.

"Price policies of manufacturers of the heavy finished products differ widely from makers of flat rolled products as the third quarter opens. Carnegie Steel Co. has probably set the pace for the former by opening its books for the third quarter on an unchanged basis from the second quarter.

"Republic Steel Corporation took the lead in advancing cold-rolled strip $5 a ton over the second quarter to 2.25 cents, Pittsburgh-Cleveland 2.45 cents, Worcester, for the third quarter.

Higher prices on sheets and strip have lifted the iron composite of (the magazine) Steel 36 cents, to $29.1f this week; the finished steel composite, 80 cents, to $46.30, while the steelworks scrap composite has moved up 9 cents, to $9.79.

Views Wide Apart In Red Rail Deal

Soviet-Manchukuo Parley Reveals Differences at Meeting.

Tokyo, July 3 (A.P.).—The Soviet-Manchukuo conference for the sale by Russia of the Chinese Eastern Railway revealed widely divergent standpoints today in a seven-hour session. The Soviet delegates elaborated a memorandum which offered to sell the railway proper for 210,000,000 gold rubles (approximately $112,000,000 at the old par ratio) plus 40,000, gold rubles for timber and other concessions in North Manchuria connected with the line.

The Manchukuo spokesman countered with an offer of 50,000,000 yen ($13,500,000 at current exchange figures) for the entire property. Japanese officials attended the session as observers. The Russian spokesman asked that Manchukuo pay half the sum asked, or 125,000,000 gold rubles within two years, and that the other half be paid one-fourth in cash and three-fourths in bonds of the Manchukuo government guaranteed by Japan and redeemable in three years, bearing three per cent interest.

The viewpoints also differed concerning the Soviet's demands for the right of nondutiable transit of goods to Vladivostok via the Chinese Eastern Railway, and guarantees against abrupt dismissal of thousands of Soviet Russians in the employ of the line. The real debate on these thorny questions is scheduled to begin July 5.

Truck Group Offers Stabilization Plan

lished rate schedules for all truck operators.

4. A maximum daily motor freight haul of 200 miles for any one driver to insure public safety.

5. Fair taxation properly distributed, the proceeds to be devoted to maintaining highways.

6. Adequate insurance laws.

In his letter, McCarron said legitimately operated trucking business was no threat to railroads, but that "irresponsible truck operators" through cut-rate competition, inadequate insurance, low wages and inability to earn enough to pay taxes were threatening both railroads and legitimate truckers.

Engineer Asked for Aid.

Dallas, Tex. (U.P.).—The "mighty have fallen" indeed, according to city employment records here. Listed among those dependent upon the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for aid were a former Dallas engineer who earned $5,000 a year, a cotton broker who once received $10,000 annually from a New York firm, two former college professors, a one-time high school principal, the widow of a once-prosperous city manager and several college graduates.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

THERE will be a grand and glorious celebration of the Fourth of July over the radio. Tammany Hall will celebrate at the Wigwam in New York this morning as usual and it will probably be heard here through WJSV at 9:30 o'clock. If not it may be picked up from outside Columbia stations. Gov. Lehman will speak.

Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, and Lieut. Col. Orville Johnson, R. O. T. C. executive officer, will speak over WMAL at 11:30 a. m. Freedom from crime will be the keynote of an Independence Day program in which Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, Senator Royal S. Copeland and Col. James A. Moss will be heard. Titled "The Spirit of '76 Needed Today," it will be heard over WMAL at 2:15 p. m.

"The Black Soldier," epic of the American Negro's participation in the country's various wars, will be presented as a Fourth of July feature over WRC at 2:30 p. m. The Eva Jessye Choir, famed Negro vocal ensemble, will be assisted by a group of actors and an orchestra in the presentation.

Samuel Untermeyer will make an Independence Day address for the Jewish war veterans, heard here over WMAL at 3:45 o'clock.

Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson will celebrate the Fourth of July during their plantation broadcast over WRC at 7 p. m. tonight, with an entire program devoted to the song hits of George M. Cohan, whose birthday is today.

WASHINGTON'S Fourth of July celebration at the Monument will be heard over WJSV at 7:45 o'clock and WMAL at 8 o'clock. Senator William H. King will be the speaker. Capt. Taylor Branson will lead the Marine Band in an appropriate program.

The daring exploit and supreme sacrifice of Nathan Hale, the Yale professor who went into New York when it was held by the British to get information for George Washington, will be reproduced in a vivid dramatic episode tonight in "Lives at Stake," over WRC at 9 o'clock. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, will discuss "The Crisis in Government Economy" over WMAL at 6:15 p. m.

Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, of Tennessee, will discuss "What Uncle Sam Is Doing for His People" during the National Radio Forum over WRC at 9:30 p. m. National Commander Louis Johnson will be heard at 10:30 p. m. over WRC in an American Legion program with the United States Navy Band.

"John Erskine, author and musician, will tell how America celebrates July 4 during a special program which will be broadcast to England."—N. B. C. press notice.

This program should make a great hit in England.

WOL has a new one—a "men's request program" at 10 o'clock this morning.

VIVA Mexico!

Judge Eugene O. Sykes, heading the American delegation to the North American Radio Conference; Representative Schuyler Otis Bland, of Virginia, and others will leave Washington at 6 o'clock tonight on a special train for Mexico City. They will arrive there Saturday and the conference will begin Monday.

Two important things are to be decided.

First, whether or not our broadcasting stations may have to give up some of their wave lengths to Mexico or other countries on this continent, which they probably will.

Second, whether or not Mexico is to allow broadcasting stations, closed down by the Radio Commission in this country, to open up and continue to bombard us from across the Mexican border as is being done by Dr. Brinkley's station, at Villa Acuna, opposite Del Rio, Tex.

Brinkley formerly operated a station at Milford, Kans., and was thrown off the air because of alleged objectionable medical broadcasts. That the Kansan is aware of the attention his station will probably have at the forthcoming conference is his sending, according to Broadcasting Magazine, former Vice President Charles Curtis to Mexico City as his "observer."

Since the American delegation is going down on an air-cooled train, a luxury they may not fully appreciate until they cross the desert stretch from Texas into Mexico, the advice of this writer is that they be careful to entirely close their Pullman windows at night. Before air-cooled trains were heard of, on a trip we made to Mexico, a member of our party woke up just in time to see his pants disappearing out of the window.

A native had gouged a hole in the screen while the train was at a standstill in Mexican village. With the skillful use of a broomhandle having a hook in the end of it he had fished out most of the wearing apparel of the sleeping traveler. The pants were the last to go.

After tonight's performance Ed Wynn is going to take a vacation from the microphone after 63 weeks and his "Uncle" is coming to substitute for him with Graham McNamee.

The "Uncle," played by Taylor Holmes, will be accompanied to the microphone by two other new principals, Olaf, the Swedish caretaker of the Chief's horse and pets, and Larry, the juvenile mascot of the fire house, played by Larry Butler, 9 years old, in his first performance over a network. Wynn will return at the end of the summer.

The home coming for the Washington Nationals will be broadcast by station WMAL tonight at approximately 10:45 o'clock, depending upon when the game ends in New York. Microphones will be set up by Arthur Godfrey in the Union Station by the track on which the train carrying the Washington players arrives.

Ben Bernie will gladden the Independence Day from a Century of Progress, World's Fair, Chicago at 8:00 p. m., over WRC.

AN eye-witness description of the Brooklyn Handicap, at the Aqueduct track near Jamaica, Long Island, will be given at 2:45 p. m., over WJSV.

When Equipoise, wonder horse of the American track, meets Gallant Sir today in the $12,000 Stars and Stripes Handicap at Arlington, Ill., microphones will relay the thrills of the annual turf classic to the radio audience. (WRC, 4:15 p. m.)

Gertrude Lyons and Thelma Callahan will give a recital over WMAL at 5 p. m.

The WJSV Players will make their final bow to the radio audience for the summer at 10:15 p. m. They will return to the ether early in the fall.

Ronald Dawson, using the Gettysburg speech for a theme and the romance of Lincoln as a background, has written for tonight's performance, "The Love of Abraham Lincoln for Ann Rutledge."

Justine Winkle will play Lincoln, Belle Shapiro, Ann Rutledge, and Charles C. Gillman, the father of Ann Rutledge.

Oppossum Electrocuted Stopping Water System

Cardin, Okla., July 3 (A.P.).—When the city water pumping machinery ceased to operate, experts were sent to overhaul the system.

The experts found an oppossum had crawled across the bare electric wires leading to the pump motor and short-circuited the current, incidentally, electrocuting itself.

SINCE the famous hot July day in 1776 when an old man climbed into the bell tower and rang the Liberty Bell to announce to the world that a new government—that of the United States—had been born, nearly half a score of other nations throughout the world have found that July was the month that marked their fate, or held their destiny.

Just thirteen years later a mob on the streets of Paris stormed the Bastille and destroyed it—and with it they destroyed the old government of France. July 14 is still a national holiday in France. In 1830 the fate of another French government was sealed in the famous July revolution. The Bourbons were overthrown; Charles X a few days later abdicated.

This same July revolution of 1830 started a chain of important events in Belgium's national history that culminated a year later—the following July 1—in Leopold I ascending to the throne of a new Belgium, free from Holland. July has always been a popular month for declarations of independence in South America—Venezuela in 1811, Peru in 1821, Argentina in 1816. Haiti's independence was declared in July, 1801, by Toussaint. The battle of Santiago, in 1898, was an important July event in Cuban independence.

Canada became a dominion on July 1, in 1867, when Lord Monck was sworn in as the first governor general of Canada. July 1 is widely celebrated there as "Dominion Day."

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—Once, long ago, the late Andrew Carnegie gave an interview in which he said something to the effect that "I always look at a man's shoes first when he applies for a job."

It seems to have made shoes a fetish; so I went around to see Herman Delman. He makes them by hand, first upside down, then turns them inside out, and it requires five weeks for each pair to go through the necessary 200 operations.

What is more interesting are the tales of the famous people who come to him. He attends them in a parlor atmosphere of easy chairs, wood fire and handy cigarettes.

Feet First.

As for personal preferences, he likes antiques, first nights—and smartly dressed women. He always stares at their feet; makes them nervous no end. He never has been to Europe. He likes parchesi. He is his only male customer.

His three favorite assistants are Salvadore Jacone, John Tucholski and Alfonso Bergamo. They all started making shoes at the age of six in Naples. They play in their own private orchestra, and never miss the opera.

Pedal Whimsies.

He goes in for strikingly odd styles: Gold and silver piping on street shoes, hand-painted oil on crepe shoes, luminous painted shoes for dark nights, shoes of ground glass, rhinestone and sapphires. Sold two pair of the latter for $1,000 each to Countess Donnabella Cazzani.

When he first began, he couldn't afford charge accounts. Even made Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt pay cash. Many stage stars come to him, but he won't make ballet slippers. Not dignified enough.

Adele Astaire (Lady Cavendish), Jane Cowl, Mary Pickford, Judith Anderson, Dolores Del Rio, Constance Bennett and Marlene Dietrich are among those who put their tootsies in his care. They buy 20 pairs at a time; have them tinted to match their gowns.

Mrs. Martin Johnson has him make shoes for her African jungle treks—sends back special deer skins from time to time to use as materials. Mrs. Jesse Lasky ordered 26 pairs before she sailed abroad. Beulah Croker, Richard Croker's widow, bought $5,000 worth in one month.

Another customer bought 800 pairs of shoes which she kept in a room with walls of mirrors so they'd look like even more. She finally ended in an insane asylum.

Delman designs all his own shoes, most of them in his Park avenue penthouse. Often gets up in the middle of the night with a new idea, patents all his designs and wins dozens of suits against others who imitate them. His special hobby is evening shoes with Paisley or iridescent shell effects. He likes to use lapis, jade and onyx ornaments.

Walt Mason, Himself

The World's Most Famous Rhymster

Muldoon.

UPON a springlike afternoon my neighbor came and said, "Alas, alas, the great Muldoon, the solid man, is dead. Now tie some crape upon your hat, and more upon your sleeve; when you receive such news as that, it's up to you to grieve." And grieve I did for quite a while, for it recalled old days when Graeco-Roman was the style, and William wore the bays. Then wrestling was a game polite, no fest of grunt and groan, and men might struggle half a night without a broken bone. And Muldoon, handsome as a god, an athlete without flaws, for quite a small and humble wad would meet the best there was. He would have thought it a disgrace to break a foeman's toes; he never kicked men in the face or bit them in the nose. By skill and strength he forced men down, their shoulders to the floor, and justly gained the great renown that he so proudly wore. When weary of the world of sport he made a sudden switch, and opened up a health resort to heal the idle rich. He took in old fat millionaires, bunged up in bone and thew, and chased them up and down the stairs, till they were good as new. And that of course was all correct, and filled his till with gold; but I would rather recollect the wrestling god of old.

70,000 TO SEE NATS-YANKS IN DOUBLE-HEADER TODAY

This Morning

By Shirley Povich.

New York, July 3.

JOE CRONIN, the Napa, Calif., boy who is making good in all the American League cities, was treed in his room this afternoon by this correspondent and asked point blank what he thought of the American League pennant race. The kid manager of the Nats grinned, it was a pleasant subject.

"Well," said Joe, "I was telling our mascot, Jimmy Mahorney, this morning to keep those bats hot, we don't want 'em to cool off yet awhile. Howda ya like the way we been hitting?"

Yeah, Joe, but is that gonna keep up? It ain't in the books for 'em to hit like that.

"Well, we're hitting, ain't we? It wasn't in the books for us to hit like that, was it? Howda ya explain those 27 innings of shutout pitching the Giants got yesterday, it wasn't in the books, was it? But they got it, didn't they?"

Joe Glad to Be Wrong.

O. K., Joe, but you told me three weeks ago it was a five-team race. Remember what you said about the Athletics and the Tigers and the Indians being dangerous along with the Yankees? How about that?

Cronin's grin didn't come off, that subject was pleasant, too.

"I can be mistaken, can't I? There were five teams that had me scared for a while. I will admit I was a little off about that. I admit it cheerfully. A fellow gets a great kick out of being wrong about things like that. Just the same, there's the A's only nine games behind. That suits me, though, if we have anything to worry about from the A's it will be our fault. You can put that down for me. The Yankees are the team I'm thinking about."

Yankees Not So Bad.

The Yankees don't look so tough as they did at the start of the season, Joe.

Sez you. They didn't do so bad out West, winning 12 out of 18. That's a pretty good record for any team on the road. The only thing that made it look bad was an out-of-town winning streak. Don't forget, the Yankees haven't been getting much pitching. They've got Gomez and Ruffing and Van Atta and Pennock and Brennan, and they're liable to swing into stride any day. We've been getting a lot of help from the other clubs against the Yanks lately, and we've still got to get some more help. The season ain't half over yet."

"Well, if Mahorney keeps those bats warm, anything can happen."

RUNS, HITS AND ERRORS.

Joe Judge came over from Brooklyn today to meet his old mates . . . says the National League pitchers are still throwing the old Gillette ball . . . cutting down the hitters . . . In the American League they call it the beaner . . . Owner Clark Griffith has half a mind not to come to New York for the double bill tomorrow . . . On account he doesn't want to jinx the team. . . . Griffith is the most biased, prejudiced Washington rooter . . . The late Miller Huggins tried unsuccessfully to have him ousted from a field box on the first-base line back in 1924, when the Nats and Yanks were in a crucial series . . . Griff was riding the entire Yankee club . . . Cronin and Crowder will leave for Chicago after the double bill to play in the World Fair game between the All-Stars of the two big leagues . . . Dixie Walker is winning the center-field job with the Yankees from Earl Combs. . . . Walter Johnson's release of First Baseman Eddie Morgan to New Orleans was no surprise to the Nats . . . or to lots of other people.

Vines, Cochet Will Battle In Singles

Satoh Upsets Austin; Mrs. Moody Victor in Easy Match.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 3—(A.P.).—Henri Cochet, French marvel, whose command of the tennis world has been shaken by two powerful youngsters, Ellsworth Vines, of California, and Jack Crawford, of Australia, moved today into a position where he can avenge himself on both in the closing rounds of the historic Wimbledon championships.

He will battle Vines—his conqueror in straight sets last summer in the final round of the United States men's singles championship—in the first of Wimbledon's semi-finals late this week, and if successful in all probability will meet Crawford, who likewise trounced him in straight sets for the French championship a few weeks ago, in the final round.

For the third straight time, Cochet advanced today through defeat of an American, winning from big Lester Stoefen, California doubles partner of Vines, 3—6, 6—4, 6—3, 6—1, adding his scalp to those of Clayton Lee Burwell, the Carolinian, and David Jones, the New Yorker.

Vines Defeats Menzel.

Vines paraded into the semifinals with a four set conquest of the giant Czechoslovakian, Roderich Menzel, 6—2, 6—4, 3—6, 6—3. Vines and Cochet meet in the upper half of the draw.

In the lower bracket, Crawford swept in straight sets through the veteran English Davis Cup player, George Patrick Hughes, 6—1, 6—1, 7—5, thus qualifying for the second semifinal, where he will meet Jiro Satoh, the agile little Japanese, who scored a distinct upset today, eliminating Henry "Bunny" Austin, of England, 7—5, 6—3, 2—6, 2—6, 6—2. Crawford is a heavy favorite to beat Satoh and thus face the winner of the Vines-Cochet match in the final round.

Taking Wimbledon play seriously for the first time in years, Cochet regained much of the old-time brilliance experts thought he had lost forever, as he toyed with the giant Stofen after the first set.

Once he got command of his backhand, faulty all through the early rounds, Cochet's confidence and skill increased steadily and the fourth and deciding set was almost a rout. The Frenchman, playing again with his old, careless ease, passed Stofen as he pleased and never left the issue in doubt.

Crawford Is Impressive.

Of the two youngsters who may be leading their respective Davis Cup teams against his own in the challenge round late this month, Crawford was the more impressive. He wasted little time eliminating Hughes, while Vines got more erratic the farther he went.

His backhand weakness cropped out as he dropped the third set, and his forehand was none too steady, but Menzel, another towering fellow, chose to play a slugging game and Vines was easily the master there.

While Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, a heavy favorite to win her sixth Wimbledon singles crown, paraded through her quarter-final match with Mlle. Lolette Payot, of Switzerland, 6—4, 6—1, two other American girls advanced in the doubles play.

Helen Jacobs Winner.

Helen Jacobs, United States champion, advanced with Don Turnbull, of Australia, to the third round of the mixed doubles by defeating A. Jacobsen and Miss Burgess-Smith, of England, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3. Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, of Stamford, Conn., and her English partner, Mauriel Thomas, won a second round match in the women's doubles from Miss M. K. Phayre and Mrs. O. L. Webb, of England, 6—2, 6—3.

The American male contingent was less successful in the doubles, Jones, the former Columbia star, figuring in two defeats. He was teamed with Clayton Lee Burwell, former Sewanee player now studying with him in England, and the pair went down before France's veteran Davis Cup team of Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, 6—4, 2—6, 6—4, 6—4, while Jones and Miss Lucia Valerio, of Italy, were eliminated from the mixed doubles by R. Nunoi, of Japan, and Susan Noel, of England, 6—8, 6—3, 6—1.

Chain Store Offers Vines $10,000 Year

New York, July 3. (U.P.).—Ellsworth Vines is "very interested" in an offer to manage a chain of sporting goods stores at a salary of $10,000 a year, he cabled Henry Modell, of New York, who made him the offer, today.

In his reply to Modell's offer the United States champion, who is now engaged in defending his Wimbledon title at London, cabled:

"Very interested but can not accept without talking matter over personally stop arrive New York August eighth."

Modell said he would give Vines a five-year contract.

Yale - Harvard Choice on Track

Combined American Team Picked to Beat Oxford-Cambridge in Meet.

By Bill King.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 3 (A. P.).—Although little is known here about the current form of the Oxford-Cambridge track team that will engage the combined Harvard-Yale forces in the stadium on July 8, observers hold but little hope for the Britishers, who have not met with any great success in these recent biennial international meets.

It is a certainty, however, that the overseas visitors will rely on such capable American Rhodes scholars as Pen Hallowell and Oscar Sutermeister, former Harvard stars, the former Princeton, Byles and Charlie Stanwood, one of the finest hurdlers ever developed at Bowdoin.

Oxford has nominated Lang, Duncan, the great Lovelock and Mabey, in addition to its American stalwarts, and Cambridge is sending Ivanovic, Stothard, Horan, Davis, Thorndile and Marsh.

Won Three Firsts.

Stanwood is expected to be the "iron man" of the British team. He made history last March when he became the first Dark Blue to win three firsts in the annual meet with Cambridge. In turning this "hat trick," Stanwood cleared 5.11 in the high jump, ran the low hurdles in 25 seconds flat and the high hurdles in 15.4.

These performances, however, will get him nowhere at the stadium, for Keith Brown will hardly yield the high jump to any sub-six-footer, and the former Bowdoin boy's timber-topping is not up to the standards of Johnny Grady, of Harvard, and George Lockwood and Charlie Dunbar, of Yale.

All the way down the list the Harvard-Yale forces seem to have the edge on the British entrants, except in the case of Hallowell, who should romp home in the half-mile, an event he now favors.

Mabey May Be Choice.

Mabey, another Oxfordian, probably will be chosen over Minor, Yale, and Foote, Harvard, in the two-mile. Davis, crack Cantab sprinter, appears to have enough speed to out-foot the home contingent of dash-men which includes Calvin and Lane, of Harvard, and Walsh, of Yale.

The overseas team, however, will have slim pickings for the other first places, for the meet will be decided on the English scoring system of a point only for winners. Brown also is a standout in the pole vault, Yale's Karl Warner in the quarter and Johnny Dean, Harvard football captain-elect, in the weight events.

The last time the Britishers came over, in 1929, they were turned back by a margin of 8½ points to 3½, and two years ago on the other side of the ocean, the Harvard-Yale team scored a 7½ to 4½ victory.

After competing against Harvard-Yale, the British team will engage a Cornell-Princeton combination at Princeton.

Rochester Releases Ogden, Former Nat

Rochester, N. Y., July 3 (A.P.).—Jack Ogden, former pitcher for the St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators, was given his unconditional release today by the Rochester Club, of the International League.

Ogden was once a member of the Baltimore Orioles which set an all-time record by winning seven consecutive International League pennants.

New Baer-Dempsey Tour Dates Are Listed

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Further dates in the barnstorming tour Max Baer, California heavyweight, now is making were announced here tonight.

Baer and Jack Dempsey, who is acting as referee on the tour, will visit Oklahoma City, July 10; Fort Worth, July 11; Wichita, Kans., July 12, and Salt Lake City, July 14.

Smith, Nolan and Dunlap Post 71s

Burke Is Stroke Behind as Play in British Open Starts.

Sarazen Has 73, Hagen 74 as U. S. Stars Fill Leading Positions.

By Frank H. King.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 3 (A.P.).—Brilliant 71s by young George Dunlap and Horton Smith and a 72 by Bill Burke today featured the first day of qualifying play in the British open golf championship as American players swept across the parched surfaces of historic St. Andrews to place six low scorers among the first eleven.

Only the veteran Irish professional, William ("Pat") Nolan, with a late 71 on the new course, came up to share the spotlight with the United States contingent as the leading players of all the world fought hard-baked fairways and greens, humid weather and vagrant Scottish breezes through the long day.

Scores mounted under the trying conditions and it seemed 160 would be enough to qualify tomorrow among the low 100 and ties for the championship proper leaving only Craig Wood, Joe Ezar, and Robert Sweeny, of the 15 Americans on the qualifying border line. Wood had an 82, Ezar the "Wild Texan" from Waco, an 81, and Sweeny, American resident of London, 86.

Sarazen Close Behind.

Close behind the three leading Americans were Gene Sarazen, defending the title he won last year at Sandwich with the record total of 283; Joe Kirkwood and big Olin Dutra with 73s, Walter Hagen, 74; Densmore Shute and Leo Diegel, 75; Johnny Farrell and Paul Runyan, 77, and Ed Dudley, 78.

Chief among the home defenders of the title a Briton has not won since 1923 were Archie Compston, Laurie Ayton and Fred Hobson, all bracketed at 73; Abe Mitchell, George Duncan, Alf Padgham and Henry Cotton, at 74; Rex Hartley, at 75, and the former British amateur champion, Johnny de Forest, at 76.

C. Ross Somerville, Canadian holder of the United States amateur title, took a 79 for his first round.

Scorching July Day.

Scotland produced a scorching July day as the big field of over 250 players started out over the two courses, the championship layout and the new course, for the first qualifying round.

The Americans reveled in the heat, but the typical westerly St. Andrews wind kept several of them puzzled and completely perplexed

National Names Umpires All-Star Game Thursday

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—The appointment of two veteran umpires, William J. Klem and Charles Rigler, for the All-Star Major League game at Chicago this Thursday, was announced today by John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

Baer Makes Movie Debut on July 24

New York, July 3 (U.P.).—Maxie Baer, California boxer, will make his motion picture debut on Hollywood lots about July 24, his manager, Ancil Hoffman, announced tonight.

Hoffman said Baer today signed a five weeks' contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to make one picture. This is expected to be the first of a series to be turned out later. Joan Crawford is expected to be co-starred with Maxie in a movie of the ring.

"Baer is receiving more for this one picture than his share of the gate for the bout in which he beat Schmeling," Hoffman explained. Because of this and many other offers for Maxie's services, we don't care if Carnera never gives us a fight."

Indians Defeat Chisox; Gain 4th Place

Hale's Error Robs Hildebrand of Seventh Shutout in 5-to-2 Game.

CLEVELAND, July 3 (A.P.).—A fumble in the ninth inning by "Bad News" Hale was bad news for Oral Hildebrand today, as the bobble ruined Cleveland ace's chance of pitching his seventh shutout of the season. It did not stop the Indians from climbing into fourth place, however, with a 5 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox, who dropped to fifth position.

Hildebrand held the Pale Hose scoreless with only two hits, singles by Evar Swanson and Billy Sullivan in the first and second innings, respectively, for eight innings.

Error Lets Chisox Score.

Al Simmons led off the ninth inning with a single. Hale then made a two-base muff of Luke Appling's pop fly, sending Simmons to third. Jimmy Dykes came through with the fourth hit off Hildebrand, a single which scored Simmons and Appling.

Hale atoned for his error, however, with a triple that scored two of the Indians' three runs in a big fifth inning. Previously, the Tribe had counted once in each of the first and second frames.

Ed Durham, who pitched until Hale connected with his triple, and Chad Kimsey hurled good enough ball to win most ball games, but four errors behind them were costly. They held the Tribe to six hits.

Giants Win, 5-2, Over Braves; Boost Lead.

Boston's Rally in 9th Robs Schumacher of His Sixth Shutout.

BOSTON, July 3 (A.P.).—Hal Schumacher just missed pitching his sixth shutout of the season today when his support weakened in the ninth inning as the New York Giants defeated the Boston Braves, 5 to 2, in the first game of their long road trip. The victory increased the Giants' lead over the idle Cardinals to six full games.

For eight innings, Schumacher kept the Braves away from the plate to give the Giant pitchers a stretch of 38 consecutive innings in which they had held their foes scoreless.

In the ninth, however, Travis Jackson fumbled Whitney's grounder to start the Tribe away on a two-run rally. Hal Lee connected with a triple on Lefty O'Doul's failure to make a shoestring catch and Whitney scored. Rabbit Maranville followed with a scratch single, a ball which Jackson overran, and Lee scored.

Drives in First Tally.

Schumacher not only scored his ninth triumph of the season, as compared to five reverses, but drove in the Giants' first run with a double off Ed Fallenstin, the Braves' starting pitcher, in the second inning.

St. Louis, July 3 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers went on a batting rampage today, garnering 17 hits and defeating the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 5, in the first game of the series.

All three Brown pitchers—Coffman, McDonald and Stiles—were hit hard. Fox, Owen and Gehringer each got three hits, Fox's trio including a triple and a home run.

Sharkey Gets Bid To Battle Walker

$25,000 Guarantee for Bout Offered Ex-Champion by Jack Kearns.

Boston, July 3 (U.P.).—Jack Kearns, manager of Mickey Walker, tonight offered to post a $25,000 guarantee for a bout between Jack Sharkey and Walker, provided the latter knocks out or beats decisively Lou Brouillard, former world's welterweight champion, in their fight here Thursday night.

"Sharkey ought to know by this time whether he wants to fight again or not," Kearns said, "and Walker already holds a moral victory over him. The bout would be outdoors and ought to be held within 60 days. Sharkey has said he lost the title because he didn't fight enough and had too many layoffs. This would be a chance for him to get plenty of action."

New York Could Regain Lead in League With Twin Victory.

Connolly to Be on Hand to See That Umpires Do Duty Well.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Post Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, July 3.—Inside the far-flung walls of Yankee Stadium, bulging with the presence of a season's record crowd of noncombatants, the Nats and the Yankees will have it out again tomorrow, twice, and the question before the house, which is expected to total more than 70,000 paid, is the American League leadership which now belongs to Washington by a scant half game.

The young men of Manhattan, some of them not so young, tomorrow will be face to face with interlopers from the Capital who ousted them from the league lead in the West and now, having had several delightful whiffs of the rarified air at the top of the league, are showing no inclination to recede from their position.

The July Fourth double-header tomorrow packs the chief drama of the American League proceedings thus far. The Yankees, who left this village four weeks ago, proud possessors of a six-game lead, hit the skids, found the tracks weren't sanded, and come back tomorrow a second-place club, but still able to recapture the lead and their place in the affections of Gotham if they can swing a double victory by dusk.

Attendance Mark Likely.

Independence Day brings together the high explosives of the American League. The Washington-New York feud has flared and sputtered all season and the love lost between the two clubs would be dwarfed beside an atom. If the weather man is the least bit patriotic all attendance records for the season are due to go.

Young Joe Cronin, upon whom New York critics wasted a deal of sympathy last spring when they predicted that the weight of his managerial duties would serve only to ruin a great shortstop, has his men in the camp of the enemy tonight, freshened for the task tomorrow, when his pitchers will deal 'em off the left arm in deference to the southpaw sluggers in the New York batting order to wit: Ruth, Gehrig, Walker, Combs and Sewell.

An overnight change in his pitching plans has resulted in Cronin's decision to feed the Yankees their fill of southpaw offerings, with Earl Whitehill and Walter Stewart his choices for the twin bill, and in rebuttal the Nats are expected to face the left-handed pitching, making it unanimous.

Relief Work for Crowder.

Cronin's original plans called for Al Crowder to start the opening game, but he now is being withheld for relief duty in both games if necessary. Gomez and Van Atta are due to oppose the Nats. Gomez, despite his known skill, has held no terrors for the Nats this season, but the equally left-handed Van Atta shut them out in Washington with four hits on the occasion of the 16-0 riot after which Ben Chapman, Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill were benched—for hitting—by League President Harridge.

Both Stewart and Whitehill have been effective against the Yanks this season, with the former winning one of the two games played between the clubs at Yankee Stadium this season. Whitehill's last effort against the Yanks was his sad fate in Washington last month when Umpire Brick Owens' foul decision on Lou Gehrig's foul homer cost the Washington southpaw a 3-2 defeat.

Umpire-in-chief Tommy Connolly has been dispatched to the games tomorrow as the league's official observer in view of the highly com-

RED ROAMER ROAMS HOME AT $15 IN ARLINGTON PARK FEATURE

15,000 Fans See Lebus' Star Win

Mr. Joe, Choice, Finishes 2d, With Trace Call Next Home.

Shepherd Boy Is Latonia Victor in Reversal of Recent Form.

ARLINGTON PARK, Chicago, July 3 (A.P.).—Red Roamer, from the stable of F. and C. Lebus, of Lexington, Ky., surprised most of the 15,000 preholiday throng today at Arlington Park when the 3-year-old son of Wildair—Precene galloped to victory in the Glenview Purse, the top race on the card.

Jockey H. Tinker rode a perfect race to win the mile event. He permitted Trace Call and Mr. Joe to make the early pace. At the head of the stretch Red Roamer gradually overtook the leaders to win by one length and a half. Mr. Joe, public choice, was second. Trace Call finished third.

Red Roamer paid $15.74 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Shepherd Boy Victor.

Latonia, Ky., July 3 (A.P.).—Laffoon & Yeiser's Shepherd Boy, one of the big disappointments of the pre-Kentucky Derby training season and a repeated failure since then, finally came into his own today when he led home a small band of 3-year-olds in the principal offering of a rather mediocre card.

E. R. Bradley's Boy Crazy was a warm favorite for the three-quarters spin, but was no match for the erratic son of Hildur and Peggy Weaver once Jockey J. Mayer set the latter down. Coming from behind in the last half mile, Shepherd Boy galloped to an easy two-length victory over C. V. Whitney's Pantaloons. Boy Crazy could not improve his position, running third throughout.

Last minute commissions cut the winner's odds perceptibly and he paid but $7 for a $2 mutuel investment. He covered the six furlongs in 1:12 4-5.

Aqueduct Track Heavy.

Aqueduct Race Track, N. Y., July 3 (A.P.).—The deluge of rain over the week-end left the local strip in very sloppy condition for the wash day card, and there was no sun to aid in drying out the track. A featureless card was presented and the talent had to wait until the fourth event to get close to putting over a winner. J. H. Louccheim's filly, Bel Tempo, partial to the footing, managed to make the grade by a head under Frankie Hohn's strong handling. French Lass had no trouble beating Bally Bay, split choice with the winner at 11 to 5, by five lengths for the place. The time for the six and a half furlongs was 1:20.

Bel Tempo, always a rapid beginner, was able to carry her speed the full distance in the soft going. She quickly ran Fitkin into submission, but had to be kept under pressure when French Lass took up the chase. The latter steadily cut down the pacemaker's advantage from the top of the stretch home. Bailly Bay broke slowly but was rushed up fast and had little contention for the show award.

Nats' Southpaws To Oppose Yanks

bustible qualities in the temperaments of both clubs, but most likely to flare is the batting attacks of both clubs, which rate one-two as the hardest socking teams in the league. The Nats have been the sensation of the pennant race for the past three weeks when they won 18 of 21 games with a sustained batting attack that has been unrivaled in modern-day baseball. With a team hitting average of .308, they are out-socking the socking Yankees and truly does the old order changeth, for baseball history does not admit that any other club has been able to bat it out with the Yanks and Gehrig and Ruth.

In contrast to the Nats' triumphant swing through the West, the Yanks won only 12 out of 18, but the meat of their decline is found in their record in the East preceding their Western tour, when they won only 2 out of 9 games with Athletics and last-place Red Sox. That was when the decay set in.

with Bill Bennings.

ARLINGTON PARK, JULY 3.

DEAR AL:

C. V. Whitney has sent out his big train, Equipoise, to take a shot at the chief part of the load of $10,000 they're offering in the Stars and Stripes here tomorrow.

And the big money winner is asked to carry everything but the world's fair on his back. They've assigned him 136 pounds and we will have to see if his improved post actions are of the taking variety. He was long a terror in Maryland, but stood at the barrier, meek as a kitten, up at Belmont. The card is easily the best of the summer season and I hope the Bennings choices will be worthy thereof.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—From where I sit, it looks like FLAGHORN will pick up another purse. This one is as fast as a streak of lightning and should make no mistakes. POSTSCRIPT and DURGA to complete the money picture.

SECOND RACE—Perhaps I'm trying to make KUMMEL bite off more than he can chew. However, he is a speedy thing that may make these sit up and take notice. TICKORY TOCK and HAPPY ANNE seem most likely to gain the other pay-off positions.

THIRD RACE—PHARAHEAD defeated a somewhat similar field here and despite the fact that he must give weight to most of these, shapes up as the most probable winner. SERGT. HILL and GRAMARYE appear best suited of the others.

FOURTH RACE—MERRILY ON ran such a creditable race the other day that I'm going to put this one on top of these crack sprinters. Has a habit of popping up at sizable odds. RUSH HOUR has many brilliant efforts as recommendations. PAIRBYPAIR for the show.

FIFTH RACE—MR. SPONGE is in rare form, I'm warning you. He certainly looked like a million dollars the other day and will have to be to take care of this high-class field. Well, friend, I've been wrong before, but I don't believe I'm far off this time. Of course, EQUIPOISE, 136 pounds and all, must be respected. BIG BRAND for the show.

SIXTH RACE—INLANDER ran away with a race here and the little horse with the big punch must be beaten tomorrow before another takes this purse. ESSEFF is as classy as those recent races. POPPYMAN to take care of the others.

SEVENTH RACE—BEAU JOLIE has developed a lot of speed and shapes up well in this group. UNENCUMBERED is the one I'm afraid of. Might take it all. SNAPLOCK for the show.

EIGHTH RACE—The lightweighted TARNISH has indicated that he is in form and may upset TWISTED THREADS, the probable favorite. SCIMITAR for the rest.

Australian Davis Cup Stars to Play in U. S.

Melbourne, Australia, July 3 (A. P.).—Members of the Australian Davis Cup team, now playing in the Wimbledon tennis championships, have accepted an invitation to play in the United States championships at Forest Hills, N. Y., this September and also participate in a team match against a picked American side at Chicago.

The team has been guaranteed 900 pounds sterling (about $4,000) for the trip.

Seeded Stars Win In Chicago Tennis

Parker, Grant, Coen Advance as Singles Play Opens; Others Idle.

Chicago, July 3 (A.P.).—Seeded stars mowed down members of the dark-horse brigade without even removing their wraps today, as the big battle for the National Clay Courts Singles Tennis championship opened at the Chicago Town and Tennis Club.

Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, waded through two Chicago foes to romp into the third round. He dropped Lowell Lammers, 6—1, 6—0, and followed through with a 6—1, 6—3 triumph over Carl Becker. Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, Ga., drew a bye for the first round and then measured Art Kaiser, Chicago star, for a 6—2, 6—1 victory. J. Gilbert Hall, of New York; Jack Tidball, of Los Angeles, and Berkley Bell, of Austin, Tex., drew a day's grace because of too much tennis. Wilbur Coen, of Kansas City, also drew a pass for the first round and routed Elmer Johnson, of Chicago, 6—1, 6—0, to join the third-round survivors.

Bannerot Shoots 64 In West Virginia Golf

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., July 3 (A.P.).—Fred Bannerot, jr., of Charleston, W. Va., today opened the defense of his West Virginia amateur golf title by shooting a dazzling, par-shattering 64 to set a new record for the championship "old white course."

The Charleston shotmaker scored seven birdies as he burned up the par 70, 7,368-yard layout in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round. The former course record, 68, was held by Johnny Dawson, nationally known Chicago star.

Stage, Movies and Tour Delay Carnera's Trip

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, newly crowned heavyweight champion, has changed his mind about sailing for Italy on Saturday and will remain in this country until the fall.

Primo has accepted a vaudeville engagement, will make a barnstorming tour and then will travel to Hollywood to appear in a movie thriller.

D. C. AND BALTIMORE POLICE NINES MEET AT STADIUM TODAY

Visitors Have Annexed 18 Straight

Crowd of 20,000 Is Due at Game, Including High Officials.

Frank Watt, Formerly of Phils, to Oppose Sherry in Box.

IF your favorite traffic cop tootles his whistle at you as you are rolling merrily along in the family chariot this morning, don't feel too badly about it. Pull up to the curb and don't even bother to prepare an alibi. He probably doesn't want to give you a ticket, he may only want to sell you one—to the big baseball game between the Washington and Baltimore bluecoats at Griffith Stadium this afternoon.

A crowd of about 20,000 is expected to see the local preservers of law and order go agunning against the Baltimore beat pounders. Many high Government officials and nationally prominent personages will be on hand to see the festivities. While some undoubtedly will be lured to the park by the entrancing and seldom offered opportunity to razz the myrmidons of the law with impunity, dyed-in-the-wool fanatics are promised a really good game of ball—provided they won't feel too badly if the law enforcers forget themselves and start to whirl their bats as they do nightsticks.

The Baltimore team, undefeated in 18 starts, has yet to taste the bitter dregs of defeat. The local pavement pounders and whistle soloists, however, will offer them the stiffest opposition they have yet been called upon to face. Frank Watt, former Phillies pitcher, now a member of the Metropolitan Police force, will work in the box for the Washington team.

Sherry to Be Slab Foe.

Opposing Watt on the mound will be Henry Sherry, ace twirler of the Baltimore aggregation. Every effort will be made to keep the two hurlers from pitching tear gas bombs instead of baseballs; but, you never can tell about these police games.

The Washington team, captained by officer B. R. Campbell, boasts an exceptionally strong line-up. Frank Gill, who covers second, is a former minor league star. Tubby Ault, who will work behind home plate, formerly twinkled in the Virginia League. And in Ernie Hiser, the Capital coppers have a slugger par excellence. They captured the first-half championship in the Industrial League from the strong Dixie-Piggers. So-o-o, even if the visitors have won the semipro championship in Baltimore for the past few years, they will have as much trouble taming the Washington bluecoats as the constable of Squeedunk Corners would have in quelling a Dannemora Prison riot.

Proceeds from the game will go to the District Police Pension Fund. Just to help along the cause, and give the feminine contingent of the cash customers a heart flutter, the Fireman's band will parade. And, even if it is all in fun, woe betide the player who tries to steal a base with all those eagle-eyed sleuths around.

Springfield Player, Struck by Ball, Dies

Omaha, July 3 (A.P.).—The body of Jess (Jake) Batterton, 19-year-old second baseman on the Springfield Western League baseball team, who died today of a fractured skull, will be sent to Los Angeles tomorrow for burial.

Struck by a pitched ball in the second game of a double-header yesterday, Batterton died this morning at a hospital after an operation of his skull.

Floyd "Swede" Carlsen, young Omaha right-hander who threw the ball which killed Batterton, remained at his bedside until the end. He was exonerated by Acting Coroner Steinwender, who ruled the death was entirely accidental.

X-ray Shows Fracture Of Chief Bender's Knee

Philadelphia, July 3 (A.P.).—An X-ray examination today disclosed that Charles Albert (Chief) Bender, noted Indian pitcher, has a bad fracture of the right kneecap. He was injured in an exhibition game at Mount Carmel, Pa., last Thursday.

Bender, once a star with the Athletics, now is manager of the House of David baseball team, and has had his club on a tour of the East. While Shortstop Scott was at bat, Bender was along the sidelines watching the game. Suddenly the batter swung at a pitch, the bat slipped from his hand, and caught Bender on the knee.

C. & P. TO WARRENTON.

Dog Runs Amuck And Bites Player

Minneapolis, July 3 (A.P.).—A little brown-haired dog took possession of the playing field at Nicollet Park, during the St. Paul-Minneapolis American Association game today and came out of the contest with a score of two bites to nothing, and sent one player to a hospital for treatment.

The animal jumped out of a first base line box and scampered about the field for five minutes before being captured. Babe Ganzel, Minneapolis third baseman, finally grabbed the dog, but it bit him twice on the hand.

Ganzel was taken to the hospital to have the wounds dressed. Physicians said he would be able to play again in a day or two.

Hunt, McLean In Surprise Triumph

King, Mitchell Beaten by Youths in District Doubles Play.

By Dave Herman.

ONE of the most violent upsets of the local tennis season resulted yesterday when the top-heavy doubles favorites, Gwyn King and Dooly Mitchell, were eliminated by the aggressive young combination of Gilbert Hunt and Jock McLean in the quarter-finals of the District of Columbia championship at Army and Navy Country Club's courts.

With amazing speed and scoring punch, Hunt, fresh from a successful defense of his Middle Atlantic junior crown, and his youthful partner, McLean, defeated their more experienced rivals by 3—6, 6—4, 7—5.

The unexpected conquest shot Hunt and McLean into the semi-final round against Frank Shore and Anthony Latona, with the battle scheduled at 11 o'clock this morning, the same time Mitchell and Tom Mangan will pick up the threads of the championship match they failed to complete this past Sunday.

Mangan-Gravem Win.

Yesterday's competition also witnessed an impressive doubles victory by the crack team of Mangan and Axel Gravem. Clicking with clock-like precision, they crushed Bill Seidel and Gene Hermann by 6—2, 6—0, to enter the final round.

Mangan and Gravem are due for more action this afternoon at 3:30, when they engage the winner of the match between the teams of Shore and Latona and Hunt and McLean.

In defeating King and Mitchell, both versatile players, Hunt and McLean made a stirring rally, after dropping the first set. The kid recqueters were quick to capitalize on their opponents' miscues, smashed shots over the net with finesse and returned their rivals' service with dispatch. The concluding set proved a thriller, as the youngsters took possession of a slim lead, held it, and covered the net nicely to win the twelfth game and the match.

Finals to Draw Crowd.

Should good weather prevail, hundreds of tennis enthusiasts are expected to attend today's matches. A lot of interest has been smoked up in the Mitchell-Mangan finals. Mitchell is the big favorite, now that he already has a lead to defend. When hostilities are resumed, Mitchell will have a 6—3 set to his credit, plus a 2—1 advantage in the second set.

The public is invited to attend.

Sports Briefs.

Chicago White Sox and New York Yankees played to 79,000 fans in three days at Comiskey Park in mid-June.

Ralph Metcalfe, of Marquette and Jesse Owens, of East Tech, Cleveland, each of whom ran "9.4" centuries the same day in the national prep and college meets at Chicago, are expected to clash in the A. A. U. 100-meter sprint at Chicago June 30-July 1.

Purdue lost 52 varsity letter winners by graduation this spring, 15 of them footballers, including Paul Moss and Roy Horstmann, and eight basket ballers.

Casting a dry fly 91 feet won the Utah State flycaster championship for George Holman.

Riggs "Old Hoss" Stephenson, veteran Cub outfielder with a lifetime batting average around .340, says he never has had a "cousin" among big league pitchers since he's been in the big show.

With five 1 to 0 games in the American League this season, the Cleveland Indians had participated in all of them and won three.

In two starts against the Cleveland Indians this season, Pitcher Irving Hadley, of the St. Louis Browns, held them to two runs in 19 innings, but lost both games.

Nebraska and Northwestern universities will meet in basket ball next winter for the first time. Their boot ball teams clashed in 1931.

When Stanford University's foot ball team meets Northwestern, at Soldier Field, Chicago, October 14, it will be the second time a Wildcat eleven met a Coast team. The Purple defeated U. C. L. A. in 1931.

Smith, Nolan, Dunlap Set Pace in Britain; Scores Mount.

poor Craig Wood by changing the value of the second shots required to reach the green.

It did not seem to bother Dunlap, Smith and Burke, however, the slim New Yorker, especially, putting together a beautiful sequence of shots to bag his 71, two under par, while Smith and Burke were little less brilliant.

Standing on the first tee with W. N. Wheildon, his playing partner, Dunlap remarked that "You can't ever tell what you will do on this course," and then, with his bride and a sizable gallery following, proceeded to whip St. Andrews to a frazzle.

Dunlap Off Course Twice.

He banged drive after drive down the long, narrow alleys, pitched or ran up his second shots over hummocks and humps to the greens and putted easily and confidently. The result was that he was off the course only twice the whole round and no matter where his second shots went, he chipped so perfectly that he had little work left to do with his putter.

Smith played more or less the same kind of golf, although he left himself several long putts and had to finish with a birdie 3 on the 389-yard eighteenth hole to tie Dunlap.

The new course, where Dunlap, Smith, Hagen, Dutra, Runyan, Farrell and Diegel played is considered by the local experts to be from one to two strokes harder than the old, where Burke led the field, but the scores failed to reveal any great difference between the two courses.

Burke certainly played "perfect" golf to take his 72, 1 under par, and only Sarazen had a chance of beating him. Gene came to the last hole needing a 3 to top Bill and went boldly for it, but he overran the green and ended up with a 5.

Six Spoils Diegel's Card.

There were several unusual scores on some of the holes, Diegel's six on the par 4 sixteenth of the new course, for instance, where a bad tee shot spoiled a subpar score for him on the "in" nine and the 11s scored by the American Sweeny and the Canadian Don Anderson. Sweeny lost his strokes on the treacherous "road hole" of the old course and Anderson at the fourteenth, where the famous "hell's bunker" lures its victims. Anderson wound up with an 87, just about out of the picture.

Well-scattered galleries of some 8,000 persons watched the play and gave the army of stewards, police, caretakers and gatekeepers little trouble. Elaborate precautions had been made to avoid such mob scenes as attended Bobby Jones' last amateur triumph here in 1930, but they were not needed today. For the first time in its history the course was roped off and admission charged.

The field was evently divided today between the two courses and tomorrow they will shift over. The low 100 and ties at the end of the 36 qualifying holes will begin the tournament proper over the championship course Wednesday with the field further cut to the low 60 and ties Thursday night for the last two rounds Friday.

Dublinsky in Victory.

New Orleans, July 3 (U.P.).—Harry Dublinsky, Chicago, 137½, outpointed Battling Shaw, Mexico City, 136¾, in a ten-round feature bout at the Coliseum here tonight.

Billy Howell Gets 75 to Top Field

Peck, Harper, Read and Jamison Shoot 76s in Virginia Amateur.

FARMINGTON COUNTRY CLUB, Charlottesville, Va., July 3 (A.P.).—Battling wind and weather all the way, Billy Howell, of Richmond, started a quest for his fourth Virginia amateur championship today by winning medal honors in the qualifying round with 38-37—75, 3 over par.

With never a birdie to help his card and with his putter failing him on some occasions, Howell was forced to rely on steady iron play to pace the qualifying field.

Close behind him came three former champons, H. Crim Peck, Lexington; Paul Jamison, Roanoke, and Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, in company with John Read, of Richmond, each with 76.

108 Golfers Entered.

The stiff wind that swept the course during most of the day, although abating somewhat in the afternoon, was coupled with occasional cold and penetrating showers to make the going tough for the field of 108 who went out to battle for the State crown.

Howell was a magic name over the wind-blown course today, with Billy Howell pacing the field, Earl Howell two strokes behind him with 77, and Tommy Howell, Billy's brother, scoring 79.

Morton McCarthy, Norfolk, came home with 79 to fall into the second group of eight who broke 80 for the qualifying test.

Other qualifiers and their scores: C. B. Walden, Richmond, 80; Charlie Kent, Richmond, 80; Joe Jamison, Roanoke, 80; H. A. Burke, Petersbus, 80; Joe Mott, Charlottesville, 80; Bobby Riegel, Richmond, 81; C. E. Moran, Charlottesville, 81; W. F. Souder, Charlottesville, 82; C. B. Cross, Charlottesville, 82; Harry Thompson, Richmond, 82; Winston Montague, Richmond, 82; J. K. Whitlow, Richmond, 83; Dr. J. O. Quaintance, Charlottesville, 83; Buddy Clement, Roanoke, 83; C. L. Bubank, Richmond, 83; H. C. Spreight, Richmond, 83; W. E. Wiltshire, Richmond, 84; C. M. Mark, Newport News, 84; John James, Lynchbus, 84; A. B. Connor, Hampton, 84; Dr. R. K. Dubose, Roanoke, 84; Dr. T. H. Scales, Richmond, 84; E. H. Lane, jr., Lynchburg, 84; F. D. Robinson, Newport News, 84.

Dr. M. L. Rea, of Charlottesville, also had an 84 but was eliminated in the playout.

Thirty-two qualifiers will play the preliminary round match tomorrow morning, reducing the field to the championship division of 16. The first round of match play will be tomorrow afternoon.

The Maryland-Delaware water works division of the American Water Works Association will convene here next May, with 150 delegates, and the Southern Hotel Association will meet the following month, with 300 expected to attend.

Mr. Hodges announced at the same time that approximately 1,000 members of the Southern Medical Association will hold a post-convention meeting here November 18.

Takoma Marathon Today Draws Select Field of 69

Agee, Four-Time Victor, Entered; Other Stars Will Compete.

WHEN 69 track stars toe the mark at 1:30 this afternoon in the fifth annual Department of Playgrounds-Takoma Park Citizens Marathon there will be included marathon winners from all parts of the country.

Led by Mel Porter, ace from the Irish-American A. C., of Newark, N. J., the entry list includes runners from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Newark, Pittsburgh and New York.

Bill Agee, of the Stonewall Democratic Club, of Baltimore, home of many marathon stars, will be on hand to defend his laurels. He has won the marathon four straight times and hopes to continue his record this year.

Porter U. S. Runner-Up.

But Mel Porter, runner-up in the national marathon here early in June, is conceded to be a real contender for the District A. A. U. crown. He, with two teammates, Larry Cece and James Dalesio, arrived yesterday to prepare for the event.

After driving over the 10-mile course the three expressed considerable confidence about the race.

"It's a grand course," said Larry Cece, "although I'm a bit partial to more of an uphill route."

But Porter said he was delighted with the whole course, especially with the last half-mile downhill. All three hoped for warm weather, saying that the boys in training would show up better on a hot day.

And it appeared that their wish would be granted as the weather man last night predicted slowly rising temperatures for this morning. Meanwhile, the other entrants were all set for the 10-mile grind. Clyde Martack, national marathon champ in 1932, appeared in excellent shape. Mike Lynch, running under the colors of the Washington Track and Field Club, will attempt to duplicate his last year's record. He won his first A. A. U. title then on his fiftieth birthday.

Clark, Looney Optimistic.

Haskell Clark, of the same club, and Jerry Looney, another Washingtonian, modestly said they "would do their best."

A new local club will break into the distance field when two representatives of the Merrick A. C., a Northeast aggregation, entered the race yesterday. The pair, two youngsters who have trained faithfully, are Edward J. Peruzzi and Jack V. Assetta.

All entrants in the race will meet at the District Building at 12:30 p. m. Referee Richard S. Tennyson will issue final instructions at that time, and the runners will be given physical examinations by Dr. Aloysius B. Connolly and Dr. Paul O'Donnell, and assistants.

The course for the race, with the time the 1932 winner passed the various points, so that those watching today's marathon may get a general idea as to when the runners may be looked for at any particular place, are given below:

Start is about 250 yards below railroad bridge on Mount Vernon boulevard (1:30 p. m.); follow Mount Vernon boulevard to new Memorial Bridge (1:40 p. m.); turn right and cross Memorial Bridge and go right around Lincoln Memorial, turning right on Twenty-third street to Constitution avenue; at Constitution avenue go right to Fourteenth street (2½ miles, 1:45 p. m.); at Fourteenth street go left to E street (3½ miles, 1:50 p. m.); at E street go right to Thirteenth street; left on Thirteenth street to Logan Circle; right around Logan Circle to Vermont avenue (5 miles, 1:58 p. m.); right on Vermont avenue to Florida avenue; left on Florida avenue to Sherman avenue (2:03 p. m.); right on Sherman avenue to New Hampshire avenue; at New Hampshire avenue go right to Georgia avenue (7 miles, 2:09 p. m.); go left on Georgia avenue to Whittier street (9½ miles); right on Whittier street to finish at Fourth street (10 miles, 2:25 p. m.).

Douthit Sent to Blues, Will Retire From Game

Kansas City, July 3 (A.P.).—Outfielder Taylor Douthit, who was traded by the Chicago Cubs last week to Kansas City of the American Association, today announced his retirement from baseball.

Douthit informed President E. Lee Keyser of the Kansas City Club, while visiting relatives here, that his insurance business in California made him independent of baseball as a means of livelihood.

Keyser said Douthit thought there are major league clubs that want him, and added "I told him that if this were so he would have been claimed on waivers."

The Cubs obtained Jim Mosolf in the deal by which Douthit was to have joined the Blues.

U. S. Now Busy Shifting Groups To New Offices

Expanding Recovery Units Causes Large Scale Regrouping.

Moving day for many Government offices started yesterday as various units were shuffled from building to building to conform with the reorganization order and the space needs of the new administrations.

Yesterday's move, which will start the series, will result in the Federal Board of Vocational Education being located in the Hurley-Wright Building, at 1800 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The Railroad Administration, now located in the Hurley-Wright Building, was shrunk to about half its size, making room for the board.

Transfer of the board will result in a vacancy in the Architects Building, at 1800 E street northwest. This will be filled by the Radio Commission, which is being moved out of the Interior Building. Into the commission's quarters will move the Bureau of Mines, now located in the Commerce Building. The old office of the Bureau of Mines will then be utilized by the rapidly growing Recovery Act Administration.

Files of the Veterans' Administration, now in the Interior Building, will be moved to the Veterans' Administration Building at Vermont avenue and H street northwest. The space released by the files will be used by the library of the Geological Survey. The Public Works Administration can then move into the old library space.

The Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, which will become the National Office of Public Buildings, Monuments and Cemeteries when the reorganization plan goes into effect, will also have offices in the Interior Building. The office, now in the Navy Building, will thereby release space which is needed by the Quartermaster Corps of the Army.

The Government has already given up its lease on the Rizik Building at 1737 L street northwest and the Treasury garage at Twenty-fourth and M streets northwest. Property of the Department of Justice and the finance office of the Army are now in the Rizik Building. They will be moved into the old Allen-Mitchell garage at 1818 E street, which the Government has bought. The Treasury garage will be moved to the old Merchants Transfer & Storage Co. property at Third and Canal streets southwest.

Livingston Wins Big Air Race Prize

Flies 184 M. P. H. in Short Test to Thrill 40,000 at Chicago.

Municipal Airport, Chicago, July 3 (A.P.).—Johnny Livingston, Aurora, Ill., racing pilot, thrilled a crowd of 40,000 at American air races today by winning the 35-mile feature race in the fast time of 183.78 miles an hour.

Livingston, credited with capturing more air speed contests than any other living pilot, added $2,250 to his reputed $56,000 winnings of the last two years, but just managed to nose out Arthur J. Davis, of East Lansing, Mich. Davis finished second in the event with a speed of 183.32 miles an hour.

Harold Neumann, of Moline, Ill., and Jack Wright, Ithaca, N. Y., won the other two speed events. Neumann's ship traveled 149.01 miles an hour in a $1,500 race over a 25-mile course and Wright's went an average of 144.92 miles an hour to take the $1,100 purse event for ships of 500-cubic inch displacement for the same distance.

White Plague Toll Here Proves High

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Godias J. Drolet, statistician of the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association, reported today that the death rate per 100,000 population from tuberculosis in 46 large cities was 11 per cent less in 1932 than in 1931.

"In the 46 cities," Drolet said, "there were 23,256 deaths in 1932, or 2,866 less than in 1931, the death rate averaging 74.1 per 100,000 in 1932. Minneapolis, with a rate of 41 per 100,000; Omaha, 49, and Syracuse, N. Y., 32, had remarkably low rates.

"Above the average rates were Denver, with 101; Baltimore, 109; Washington, D. C., 120; New Orleans, 122; Memphis, 141, and San Antonio, with a large Mexican population, 155.

Expatriate Returns, Quite Disillusioned

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Sam Hellman, short story writer, humorist, and apostle of slang, closed his home at Great Neck, Long Island, two years ago and took his family to France because he could live more cheaply there.

Today he came back on the Volendam, a victim of the adverse rate of dollar exchange and with many tales of the plight of Americans in Paris.

"Paris is a beer town now," he said. "The members of the American colony not only have stopped buying champagne, they no longer can afford to roll for the drinks. So each buys his own beer. It's pretty sad."

Norris and Bone End Tour of St. Lawrence

Watertown, N. Y., July 3 (A.P.).—Senators George W. Norris of Nebraska, and Homer T. Bone of Washington, today completed their inspection of the St. Lawrence River course for the proposed seaway and sites for the power project.

Both of the senators were pleased with the possibilities of the St. Lawrence, from the point of view of navigation as well as water-power, and were particularly interested in the sites of the proposed development by the power authority at Massena. They were guests tonight at a banquet here.

Bishop Named For Catholics' Far West Post

Dr. Gerald Shaughnessy, of Catholic University, to Go to Washington State.

The Rev. Dr. Gerald Shaughnessy, S. M., of the Marist College at the Catholic University of America here, has been named Bishop of the Diocese of Seattle, Wash., according to an announcement made here yesterday by the apostolic delegation.

The appointment of Dr. Shaughnessy to be Bishop of Seattle fills a vacancy caused by the death of Bishop Edward John O'Dea last Christmas.

Bishop-elect Shaughnessy was born at Everett, Mass., 46 years ago. He was graduated from Boston College in 1909 and before becoming a member of the Society of Mary in 1916 engaged in the teaching profession in Baltimore, Md.; Anaconda, Mont., and Salt Lake City, Utah. After pursuing theological studies at the Marist College, an affiliate of the Catholic University, he was ordained to the priesthood here June 20, 1920. The following September he was named to the faculty of Marist College.

Bishop-elect Shaughnessy was a professor at Notre Dame Seminary of the Archdiocese of New Orleans for a year beginning in 1923 and the next year assisted in the formation of the mission band of the Marist Washington Province. For four years he preached in missions throughout the eastern part of the United States and then returned to the faculty of Marist College. He studied at Lyons, France, and at Rome, Italy, during the scholastic year 1930-31 and in 1932 was named novice master at the Marist College here.

Except for those periods when other work took him from Washington, Bishop-elect Shaughnessy has been a member of the staff of the apostolic delegation here continuously since 1919.

Bishop-elect Shaughnessy is also a writer of note and is regarded as an authority on Catholic population questions in this country.

Business Schools Plan To Write Recovery Code

Chicago, July 3 (A.P.).—The National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools determined in convention today to write a code under the industrial recovery act, H. E. V. Porter, of Jamestown, N. Y., secretary of the association, said one of the principal reasons was to help weed out fraudulent commercial schools which enroll students, collect tuition and then vanish.

Traffic Lights Will Replace Avenue Police

Pennsylvania, 6th to 14th, Will Have Electrical Control System.

Pennsylvania avenue soon is to become the Great Light Way. Traffic lights are going to squeeze most of the policemen out of the intersections between Sixth and Fourteenth streets northwest, and into other assignments.

Details of the program to install electrical control signals along the route of the Capital's inaugural thoroughfare were revealed yesterday by M. O. Eldridge, first assistant to the director of vehicles and traffic. The system will go into effect about August 1.

Economies insofar as the police personnel is concerned, do not enter into the scheme, according to Inspector B. A. Lamb, head of the traffic bureau. Men displaced by the "machine" will be transferred to intersections now guarded inadequately or not at all.

Lighting Schedule.

Lights will be installed at John Marshall place and Sixth, Seventh, Ninth, Tenth, Twelfth and Fourteenth streets at Pennsylvania avenue and Fourteenth and E streets. Of these crossings, the policeman will be retained only at Fourteenth and the Avenue to complement the mechanized signals in the manner of the guardian of Fifteenth street and New York avenue.

Eighth, Eleventh, Thirteenth and Fifteenth streets are scheduled to go without lights and keep their policemen. The latter three especially handle a large volume of traffic, particularly during the rush hours, and Inspector Lamb expressed surprise yesterday when the traffic department confirmed a report that no traffic light was contemplated for Thirtenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.

To Speed Traffic.

Speeding up of vehicular traffic between Sixth and Fourtenth streets from the present 16 miles per hour average to 22 miles per hour is expected of the new system. These figures are for non-rush hours. The rush hour average will be increased from approximately 12 to 19 miles per hour.

Lights will be arranged in flexible series to accommodate each intersection individually. Where the Pennsylvania avenue volume is greater, more time will be given such traffic to proceed than will be allotted to the cross-street flow. At those intersections where the numbered street is busier, the process will be reversed.

An electro-magnetic detector, automatic system of individual traffic control, will be installed soon at Key Bridge, Eldridge said yesterday. Similar regulation is planned for Twenty-ninth and M streets northwest, and New Jersey and Massachusetts avenues.

Capital Promised Warmer Weather

Citizens Want Heat Back After Sudden Drop to Chilly Weather.

Washington, wearing a topcoat, accepted with relish last night, the forecast of warmer weather today and tomorrow. After weeks, in which citizens suffered excessive heat and humidity, Sunday night's storm so shattered the heat wave that yesterday was the coolest day in weeks.

Yesterday's highest reading, 68 degrees, oddly came as the day was ushered in, midnight. While the Weather Bureau's high and low as 62 and 59, figured on an 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. basis, the mercury actually fluctuated 13 degrees between midnight and 10 p. m., when the temperature was 55. Fair, with slowly rising temperature, is the outlook for today and tomorrow, according to the Weather Bureau. Credit for dispelling high temperatures along the Atlantic was given to the high pressure area which moved down from Canada over the week-end. A cool Fourth is in sight for the South Atlantic States.

Among the last victims of the storm to be reported yesterday was William J. Early, 938 New Jersey avenue northwest, who escaped serious injury when a tree fell across the rear of his automobile in front 908 K street northwest.

D.C. Road Body Will List First Job Fund Plan

Whitehurst Announces Big Project After Meeting With MacDonald.

The District highway department will be prepared to submit the first highway improvement project to be financed by the national public works fund to the Bureau of Public Roads within a week and probably 40 per cent of the entire program will be completed during this working season, Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, announced yesterday after a conference with Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Roads Bureau.

Under an agreement reached yesterday 60 per cent of the $1,918,469 allotted to the District will be expended on thoroughfares over which Federal routes traverse. Forty per cent will be spent on feeders to these main arteries.

Unlike the States, the District has no Federal aid highways, and consequently this 60-40 basis was established.

Ten or 12 major highway projects are expected to be financed by the Federal fund. They will be scattered proportionally over the Capital, Capt. Whitehurst said, so that no section of the city will benefit to a greater degree than another. The projects will be submitted one by one as the highway department is ready to advertise for bids. The entire program is expected to be completed by the latter part of next summer.

Between 12,000 and 13,000 man-months of new employment will be created by the Federal grant, Capt. Whitehurst estimated. In addition, 8,300 man-months of work will be created if the Budget Bureau approves the $1,500,000 program of highway improvements to be financed out of the gasoline tax fund. Word is still being awaited from the Budget Bureau regarding these proposals though they were submitted a fortnight ago.

The highway department hopes to complete several large highway extension projects with the Federal grant.

Police Forced to Oust Lad, 2, Locked in Bath

While 2½-year-old Frankie Chandler, 1364 Locust road, stood in his birthday suit and laughed at their efforts, Policeman Frank E. Kenney, of the Sixth Precinct, was forced to break down the door of the bathroom in which he had locked himself yesterday.

Police were called by the child's mother, Mrs. H. F. Chandler, when she feared he had been drowned in the bathtub after he refused to answer her calls.

Unknown Desire Prompts Theft of Gray Toupe Valued at $30.

P.U.C. Insists Upon Facts on Gas Co. Owner

Chase Interests Are Told to Furnish Details of Separation Plan.

The Public Utilities Commission will insist that counsel for the foreign owners of the Washington Gas Light Co. set forth in detail the nature of the separation of the Chase National Bank and the Chase Securities Corporation so that the commission may determine to its satisfaction that the division does not affect the control of the local gas companies.

This was revealed yesterday after the commission had referred to its counsel a letter from Arthur Dean, of Sullivan & Cromwell, New York, counsel for the Chase interests, who stated in answer to an inquiry that the Chase reorganization will have no bearing on the Washington gas companies.

"We are advised that the recent steps taken by the Chase National Bank and Chase Securities Corporation, now the Chase Corporation by change of name, have resulted in no substantial transfer of the shares of beneficial interest of Washington and Suburban Companies or a substantial interest therein."

Referring to an affidavit submitted to the commission last December, Mr. Dean said: "The Chase Harris Forbes Corporation did not then and, we are advised, does not now, have any interest direct or indirect in Washington and Suburban Companies."

William A. Roberts, special assistant counsel for the commission, said that the commission feels that the facts in the Chase separation should be examined before the matter is dropped and that the foreign owners of the Washington gas companies should submit data to the District Supreme Court in accordance with a decree entered last December, when threatened prosecution under the La Follette anti-merger law was halted.

Flying Glass Cuts Boy As Trolley Hits Auto

William Russell, 15, 612 Ninth street southwest, was cut about his face and right arm by flying glass yesterday when the automobile of Calvin Campbell, of the same address, with whom he was riding, was struck by a street car at Rittenhouse and Third streets northwest. He was treated at a nearby drug store.

The street car was operated by Thomas Dodson, 5355 Fifth street northwest.

He is F. J. Hanley, 45, living at the Salvation Army Home at 479 C street northwest. His wife's name is Emma Brown Hanley, who was last known to be doing housework on Vermont or New Hampshire avenue. Her father is Leonard Brown, of Baltimore, according to the Rev. F. E. Montgomery, of St. Patrick's Parish, assisting in the case.

Firemen's Unit Lends Support To Big Parade

District Association Votes to Enter Own Float in Labor Day Event.

The District Firefighters' Association, representing 750 Washington firemen, voted unanimously last night to lend its wholehearted support to the eleventh annual firemen's Labor Day parade.

Following this expression, the association decided to enter its own float in the parade. This marks the first time in the history of the pageant that this important body of local firemen has had representation.

Both actions came after George Finger, an organizer of the National Firemen's Association, addressed the meeting. He told the firemen how the parade would not have been held this year had not The Washington Post "in a great civic gesture" come to the rescue and offered its sponsorship.

"For ten year," he said, "firemen from many States have visited Washington on Labor Day to participate in this parade. It has been the one day of the year when they get together for common good. It would have been a blot on the pages of local fire history had we lost such a colorful event."

Permanence Sought.

It was the opinion of the firefighters who attended the meeting, that steps should be taken this year whereby the firemen of Washington will assure their brothers throughout the country that the parade has now become such an institution that it will continue year after year.

Noble Rushe, chief of the Hyattsville Fire Department, and vice president of the National Firemen's Association, also addressed the meeting. He also told the firefighters how The Post came to the aid of his organization in sponsoring the parade.

More than ever before, Rushe said, did the National Association want the active partcipation of Washington firemen in promoting the Labor Day celebration.

Jamison Presides.

The firefighters held their meeting in the Hamilton Hotel. It was presided over by President J. M. Jamison, of engine house 17. Other officers who were present were: M. R. Burnette, vice president, of Truck Company 4; P. W. Stafford, secretary, of Rescue Squad 1, and J. C. Chase, sergeant at arms, of Truck Company 3.

Routine business and committee reports occupied the time before Finger and Rushe addressed the members on the parade.

After the resolution to enter a float was passed, an appropriation was voted to decorate it, and a committee appointed to look after details.

The Firefighters Association will hold another meeting in two weeks and further details of the parade will be an important topic.

$40 Is Taken From Home.

A thief entering through a basement garage yesterday ransacked the home of Mrs. Agnes Grant, 2031 H street northwest, and stole $40 from a bureau drawer.

5th-Floor Leap Ends Vain Hunt Of Girl for Job

Former Male Companion Held After Jump Causing Serious Injury.

Penniless and tired from a futile search for employment, Miss Blanche Israel, 20 years old, of Greenwood, S. C., plunged to an alley yesterday from her room on the fifth floor of the Ambassador Hotel.

She is in a grave condition in Emergency Hospital. Her injuries were diagnosed as a fractured pelvis, fractured legs and arms, possible fracture of the skull, and possible internal injuries.

E. M. Headrick, 45 years old, an unemployed electrician, of Knoxville, Tenn., with whom Miss Israel had been living in the hotel, is being held for investigation by police.

A note found in the girl's room read: "Please don't blame this on anybody. I did it myself." The note was scrawled on a sheet of hotel stationery.

Headrick was arrested at a bus station at Twelfth street and New York avenue, where, he said, he was awaiting the arrival of the girl before taking a bus for South Carolina. He said he had met her in Washington about a year and a half ago.

Recently, he said, she had visited South Carolina and returned to Washington two weeks ago to search for work. After visiting hotels at Chesapeake Bay resorts, without finding employment, she returned here Friday to renew her search.

Headrick said he came to Washington this morning after a brief visit to Philadelphia where he had sought employment. He telephoned Miss Isreal to meet him at the bus station.

He removed his baggage from the hotel last Friday, he said, when he went to Philadelphia. It was his intention, he said, to "skip" the hotel.

The girl's mother, Mrs. J. W. J. Burnett, of Greenwood, S. C., said her daughter had been away from home for some time. The girl, she said, ran away from a reformatory two years ago. The last time she had heard from her daughter, she said, was several months ago when the girl was in New Jersey.

A call was sent out late last night to firemen for a blood transfusion. Harold Wilson, No. 28 Truck Company; H. T. Lentz and John R. Mowett, of No. 6 Truck, responded.

First Lady to See Folk-Song Festival

Folk songs and the art of fiddling as practiced in the Blue Ridge Mountans of Virginia will lure Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt back from her vacation with President Roosevelt and her family at Hyde Park, N. Y., in August, for a long ride up White Top Mountain, near Abington, Va., to a musical festival August 11 and 12. Mrs. Roosevelt will occupy a mountain cabin while she is there. She will probably remain two days and one night at the festival.

Mrs. Roosevelt was interested in this yearly gathering of the mountain clans for musical competition by Richard Crane, who lives at Westover, Va., and is a leader in the movement to preserve the folk songs of this country. Mrs. Roosevelt related the surprise of a group of English singers who visited this country recently, and found that the Southern mountaineers knew extra verses for their own old songs. The English singers added these to their repertoire.

What the Shooting's All About!

At least part of today's celebration—in the theater, at any rate—must be because Pat Rooney was born 53 years ago this glorious Fourth of July, on Third avenue, New York City. Pat 3d seems to be giving the old man the business in anticipation of the birthday party he and Mrs. Rooney (Marion Bent) have planned to honor the occasion at Loew's Fox, where he and his dad are headlining.

About the Show Shops

With Nelson B. Bell.

AGAIN terminating a metropolitan engagement while still attracting capacity patronage, Katherine Cornell, true to her earlier warning, ended her season in Chicago last Saturday, July 1, after playing Sidney Howard's "Alien Corn" for four weeks in that city.

Miss Cornell, generally conceded to be the "first lady" of the American theater, apparently entertains an amazing indifference to the volume of business she may be attracting at the time she has set for the definite conclusion of any of her seasons. It will be recalled that she brought the run of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" to an abrupt end in New York in order that she might exhibit that remarkable play in other cities before the season's wane.

But for her decision not to act throughout the summer, she profitably could have continued in Chicago indefinitely in "Alien Corn," as many people were turned away from the theater unable to secure seats for her performances.

The fact that a large percentage of her audiences in Chicago were composed of out-of-town visitors to the Century of Progress Exposition is evidence, Miss Cornell believes, that cities long deprived of the speaking stage are eager for the return of traveling companies. It is due in part to her Chicago experience that she has decided to include a number of one-night stands in her tour next winter.

In the meantime, Miss Cornell plans to repeat this summer the restful relaxation she enjoyed last. According to present plans she will sail for Europe on the S. S. Europa on July 22, to spend her holidays in the Bavarian Alps, returning to New York in October to begin rehearsals of her repertory program, "Romeo and Juliet," "Canaida" and "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

According to her present plans she probably will act Juliet for the first time anywhere in her career in her home city of Buffalo, N. Y., late in November, after which she will tour the Northwest for the first time.

Certainly it would not be by design, so it must be purely by coincidence, that the Fourth of July holiday week screen attractions sound so preponderantly solemn a note. Never within a casual surface memory is an instance recalled by this column in which holiday amusement fare seemed so steadfastly attuned to the lugubrious dirges of disillusionment, discouragement and defeatism as is currently the case.

"Heroes for Sale," "Hold Your Man," "Midnight Mary," "What Price Innocence," and "The Constant Woman" all elude the gay, the enlivening and the festive to accentuate the sterner sides of life, with their attendant discomfitures, delusions, debacles and disasters.

"Gold Diggers of 1933," achieving perennial popularity at the Metropolitan, is the only feature on view that vigorously and melodiously flaunts frivolity.

Of course, there are the stage shows, a few too many Andy Clyde comedies, the animated cartoons and the newsreels, but, even so, something should have been done about it.

Something is being done about it, come to think of it, this afternoon at Loew's Fox between the first and second performances. That would be, roughly—but I trust not too roughly—between 1:30 and 3:30. Whatever the exact hour, that is when the Loew executives, the wife and son of the honor guest and a considerable company of visiting firemen are tossing the party to remind Pat Rooney that the most important Fourth of July in his life was that one 53 years ago when he was born.

Pat and Pat, III, celebrated elsewhere on this page by Mr. Whiteway's gifted stencils, are headlining the current week's vaudeville bill at Loew's Fox, where they are making it possible for the public to learn much about "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady," a young woman in three-four time who is already pretty well known as it is.

RKO Keith's is again disregarding its established opening days and will bring the newest Constance Bennett feature, "Bed of Roses," to its screen on Thursday, July 6, one day in advance of its regularly ordained, specified, set-down, or what have you, opening day.

There are several purposes behind this moving forward of the opening day. Most important being that the RKO-Keith management has seen "Bed of Roses" and is so enthusiastic over it as to feel it rates something special—something out of the ordinary to let Washington picture-goers realize that here is something too good to keep!

Speaking of well-knowns, our old friend Sam Rothafel, "Roxy" to youse esthetes, seems possessed of a peculiar penchant for picking phenomenal phoneticists from the consoles of Washington organs, and how've you been!

Lew White, formerly organist at the Metropolitan Theater in this city, he elevated to distinguished heights at the old, or first, Roxy Theater in New York. Dick Leibert, the most popular organist the Palace ever had and a frequent visitor at the home of his parents, neighbors of this palladium out Fourteenth and Gallatin way, he has made chief organist of Radio City, most fabulous theater development in the history of the world.

Never in the annals of broadcasting has any artist been on the air as frequently as Dick.

His time table runs something like this: Every day he officiates at the manuals, stops and pedals of the Music Hall's grand organ. On Sundays, at 12:15 p. m., he is at the console during Roxy's famous weekly broadcast from the Music Hall over WJZ and the N. B. C. network. Six days a week, from 8 to 8:30 a. m., he broadcasts over WEAF. On Saturdays from 6:30 to 7 in the evening he is heard on the Week-Enders program, and on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays he plays for WJZ on the Poet-Prince program.

And even if it doesn't go off right away, don't pick it up and blow it!

"THE CONSTANT WOMAN." World Wide picturization of the play, "Recklessness," by Eugene O'Neill, featuring Conrad Nagel, Leila Hyams and Tommy Conlon, with Claire Windsor, Stanley Fields, Alexander Carr, Fred Kohler and Robert Ellis. Directed by Victor Schertzinger. Reviewed Monday morning.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Harking back as far as Joe Cook's "Rain or Shine" for a sensational circus fire and audience stampede to whip its action out of a persistent lethargy, this purported picturization of a play called "Recklessness," by Eugene O'Neill, stands as one of the season's less inspired efforts.

Preceding the destructive conflagration on the circus lot—started incidentally, by an elephant in momentary emulation of Mrs. O'Leary's cow, and therefore a purely arbitrary dramatic device to create a desired situation—there occurs one other brief interval of exciting action when Lou, leading woman of the Underwood Players, marshals their tent-show roustabouts into a barricaded speakeasy to rescue the disheartened Mr. Walt Underwood from the dire consequences of attempting to drink himself into a state of oblivious indifference to the tragic fate of a perfidious wife who had never confided that her son was not also his.

For the remainder of its lengthy tussle with a perplexing domestic problem, "The Constant Woman" is made wholly submissive to the ill-formed prejudices of the youth who resents the earnest young woman who supplants his mother in the affection of the man he believes to be his father.

The picture, on the credit side, does afford a crudely realistic glimpse of a certain phase of show business, makes brief use of authentic circus atmosphere and enlists the services of a cast whose individual talents excel the material to which they are here devoted.

The auxiliary attractions embrace an Andy Clyde comedy, "Loose Relations," reworking the mother-in-law idea to questionable advantage; a Terry-Toon, "The Oil Can Mystery," very funny, and the Paramount Sound News, none of which, however, saves the feature from being "just another movie."

Capital Transit Merger Form Wins Approval

Stockholders Vote in Favor of Plan Proposed by Act of Congress.

Stockholders of the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Traction Co. yesterday unanimously approved the form of merging provided in the congressional resolution adopted last January. Officials of the railways expressed the hope that the financial issues would be ready for submission to the stockholders by fall.

The action was methodical and expected and served merely to comply with the terms of the resolution, which required approval of the merger form within six months of passage.

The stockholders also authorized the officers of the companies to continue negotiations "for a proper distribution of the securities of the new company," which will be named the Capital Transit C. and will have fifteen directors, seven named the Capital Transit Co. and one by the combined fourteen. The new company is authorized to absorb the Washington Rapid Transit Co.

Capital Traction stockholders voted 87,536 shares, all present, in favor of the merger agreement, while Washington Railway stockholders took a similar action with 109,753 shares of 150,000 present.

The companies have until January, 1935, to consummate the merger, but it is expected that an agreement will be reached long before that time. The financial set-up and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. purchase must be approved by the Public Utilities Commission.
